GOP senators claim large state surplus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Senate Republicans were set to claim today that a surplus exists in the state treasury of some $138 million—not just the $60 million or so they talked about last week.

Sen. Howard C. Cook, R—1 Toledo, said he can list the sources of the money that will be available to the state in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

He is a member of the Senate Finance Committee which called a meeting (at 10 a.m.) today to review a GOP remake of Gov. John J. Gilligan's supplemental appropriations bill.

The committee last week rearranged priorities in Gilligan's bill, which proposed to spend $43.5 million in lottery proceeds, and added $40.50 million in tax relief to hike the overall outlay to $83.4 million. That was based on an estimate at the time of a $60 million surplus.

Gilligan and John B. Olsen, director of the office of Budget & Management, denied that a surplus exists at all—setting the stage for a partisan skirmish this week that threatens to end with no bill at all.

The Senate and House both were due back from weekend recess for floor sessions today opening what they hope will be the last week before summer adjournment. Leaders said they hope to adjourn no later than Wednesday or Thursday.

Several major pieces of legislation remain stymied—including no-fault auto insurance, an omnibus bill creating 87 new judgeships, a proposal to create a state housing finance agency, landlord-tenant relations, and a bill to increase taxing powers of county and regional transit authorities, among others.

Cook had a breakdown Monday of revenue estimates he said was prepared by the Legislative Budget Office. It listed a total of increased revenue estimates for the fiscal year starting July 1 of $181,850,430.

It included about $44 million in estimated lottery profits—the money Gilliman seeks to spend—but otherwise showed a surplus of $138 million.

Kissinger threatens to resign from post

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today he would resign unless the controversy over his role in national security wire tapping was cleared up.

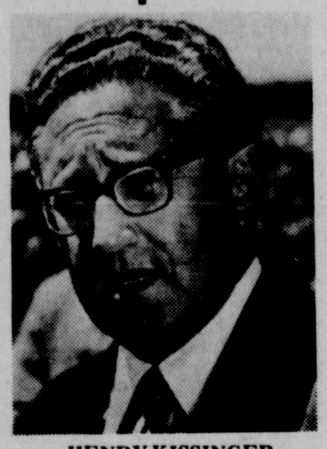

His voice breaking with emotion, Kissinger said the controversy is hurting America's foreign policy.

"I do not believe it is possible to conduct the foreign policy of the United States under these circumstances," he told a news conference. "If it is not cleared up I will resign."

Kissinger, his eyes glistening with tears, claimed that leaks to the news media defamed his honor and reputation.

"It is not possible to conduct national policy under this sort of attack," he said in delivering his threat to quit.

The Nobel Prize-winning diplomat, again denying he ordered wiretaps on his subordinates, called upon the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to

President makes stop in Austria

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — President Nixon met more than 1½ hours today with Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky to discuss the American chief executive's trips to the Middle East and Moscow.

Nixon leaves this medieval city Wednesday for Egypt on the first stop of a five-nation Middle East tour.

The talks also touched on European matters, presidential spokesman Ronald Ziegler said, particularly the European security conference that includes Russia and other eastern European nations.

Ziegler raised the possibility that Nixon will hold a summit meeting with Western European leaders before he gets to Moscow.

A final determination probably will depend on whether a new declaration of principles for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is initialed by NATO foreign ministers in Canada later this month.

Ziegler also defended Nixon against criticism by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who said that the President "is screwing it up," in reference to the Middle East achievements by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"That view is not shared by the majority of the Senate," Ziegler said, and not "by the majority of the American people, in my view."

Jackson told a labor convention Monday in Atlantic City, N.J., that he thought Kissinger had brought some stability to the Middle East and he fears the President's trip might bungle the cease-fire agreements.

Nixon appeared to be counting on medieval Salzburg to be something of a good luck talisman for his trip to the Middle East.

IRS faces Senate probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service faces questioning by a Senate panel on charges that it works with a quota system that can victimize taxpayers and reward agents for harshness.

IRS Commissioner Donald Alexander was scheduled to appear today before an appropriations subcommittee holding hearings on IRS operations.

Today's session is a continuation of hearings that started in April when witnesses accused IRS of violating peoples' rights.

Watergate witness list eyed by panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee, driving to complete its impeachment inquiry by July 15, is resisting Republican members' demands that it decide now whether to call key Watergate witnesses.

It also is refusing to get into an argument with President Nixon over its right to subpoena White House tapes, ignoring his latest rebuff and making plans to issue a new subpoena.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said after a meeting of committee Democrats on Monday that it was "important and urgent" that the committee meet its July 15 deadline for recommending to the House whether Nixon should be impeached.

If necessary, the House leadership wants an impeachment vote by the full House in late July or early August.

The Democratic caucus followed a similar meeting of the Republican members, who agreed unanimously to send Rodino a letter demanding the question about witnesses be settled this week.

Rodino has insisted that the presentation of all documentary evidence gathered in the inquiry be completed first.

The presentation, which continues in closed session today, is due to end June 19 or 20.

As for witnesses, Rodino has indicated the number the committee is likely to call will be limited.

Charles W. Colson, former White House counsel who has agreed to testify in pending Watergate trials, is the only potential witness in which the Democrats seem interested. The committee staff has been instructed to

Judge separates Ehrlichman case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge today severed the conspiracy trial of John D. Ehrlichman from that of three other defendants in the Ellsberg break-in case.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said President Nixon's refusal to allow Ehrlichman and his lawyers access to the files he needs for his defense "makes it impossible for the court to do its duty" to conduct a fair trial.

James D. St. Clair, President Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, told Gesell on Monday that the President still reserved the final say over what materials from Ehrlichman's own files the former domestic aide could use.

"The proposal is unacceptable," Gesell said, "It denies him the right of counsel."

Gesell has said that he, not Nixon, would be the final judge of what material could be admitted as evidence at Ehrlichman's trial.

Gesell had threatened to dismiss the case against Ehrlichman entirely unless Nixon agreed to release the material sought by Ehrlichman for his defense.

Instead he severed Ehrlichman's case and said Ehrlichman would be tried later.

The other three defendants go on trial Monday.

The three who will be tried Monday are G. Gordon Liddy, Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio Martinez, who were convicted previously in connection with the Watergate break-in.

Ehrlichman, Liddy, Barker and Martinez are charged with conspiracy to violate the rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding, by sending White House agents into Fielding's office.

Ehrlichman is also charged with three counts of lying to a grand jury and one of lying to the FBI.

There was no indication when Ehrlichman will go to trial.

Also pending before Gesell was a motion to find in contempt "those persons in possession or control of the documents called for in the subpoena," filed by Ehrlichman's lawyer.

If granted, that motion could lead to another hearing ordering the President and others to show cause why they should not be held in contempt.

When White House lawyer James D. St. Clair told Gesell last week that the President would retain final say over what White House material could be used for trial, Gesell said angrily:

"It seems to me that it is dismissal which the President's action would seem to be pointing towards intentionally."

But he added: "It is a course I should not follow until I have exhausted all other possible opportunities."

Drought, disease hurt nation's wheat harvest

WASHINGTON (AP)— Drought and disease have reduced the nation's expected harvest of winter wheat, a crop which normally provides three-fourths of the nation's consumer bread grain.

The Agriculture Department said Monday that winter wheat prospects declined 5 per cent last month. As of June 1, production for 1974 was estimated at 1.53 billion bushels, the Crop Reporting Board said.

Although it would still be a record crop, the new estimate was down 81 million bushels from the government's forecast one month earlier. It means less wheat will be on tap for U.S. consumers and foreign customers than thought previously.

Officials said most of the decline during the month occurred in the southern Great Plains. Kansas, which normally produces the largest harvest, was estimated at 384.2 million bushels. That was down 22.6 million bushels, or 6 per cent from the May estimate.

The board said "lack of moisture and disease" contributed to the decline of the crop in Kansas and elsewhere.

Despite the drought since May, the new winter wheat estimate still could be a record, up 21 per cent from 1973 output as farmers—responding to higher prices—stepped up planting sharply. The crop, however, is sorely needed to replenish dwindling U.S. stockpiles, which are the smallest in 27 years.

But Kansas wheat authorities say the state crop estimate by the USDA is still too high and that it is more likely to total around 300 million bushels, some 84 million fewer than USDA predicted Monday.

Colorado and Oklahoma also shared greatly in winter wheat declines last month. Altogether the three states accounted for about three-fourths of the 81 million-bushel decline from May 1 to June 1.

Meanwhile, according to USDA, the reserve of old-crop wheat on July 1 will dip to 170 million bushels, the lowest level since 1947. Huge export demands have accounted for the shrinkage. Out of a then-record crop last year of 1.7 billion bushels, the most recent USDA figures show some 1.2 billion were expected.

Thus, observing the decline in U.S. wheat reserves, the shrinkage of 81 million bushels in winter wheat prospects from last month is significant. But perhaps more important will be the forecast in July which will show how much USDA expects 1974 production of spring-planted wheat to be.

Officials have projected, strictly on probability, that the spring wheat crop will yield 560 million bushels. But Monday's report indicated farmers on June 1 were far behind in spring planting, raising questions that spring wheat output will reach the projected mark.

If it does, total wheat production this year still could be more than 2 billion bushels and supply more than enough for domestic use and expected exports in the year beginning July 1.

Coffee Break . .

SPECULATORS and hoarders of pennies have caused what seems to be a shortage of the coin in certain areas of the country and the U.S. Treasury Department is calling on every American to get the penny back in circulation and keep it there. . . .

The price of copper has retreated, closing at $1.15 per pound on May 20. . . There will be no aluminum penny, according to Mrs. Mary Brooks, mint director, and the 62 billion pennies produced during the past 15 years have no numismatic value and because of the huge mintage they will never attain great value. . .

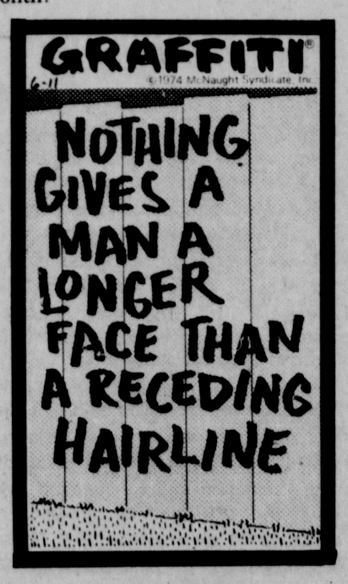

It is estimated that 30 billion pennies are in circulation, doing the job for which they were intended. . . Somewhere in this vast country of ours, however, in excess of 30 billion pennies are in hiding. . . These are the pennies the Treasury Department is looking for. . . They are in dresser drawers, shoe boxes, pickle jars; most anyplace you can think of that will get them out of pocket and out of sight. . . They are unwanted, unused and unappreciated. . .

Mrs. Brooks explained that for the mint to be forced to continue increasing its penny production to meet the current extraordinary demand is wasteful. . . One billion pennies returned to circulation will save the taxpayers $10 million. . .

The current price and supply of copper allows the mint to continue production and distribution of the copper-bearing cent. . . During the past 15 years, the mint has pumped out over 62 billion pennies using some 202,000 tons of copper. . .

This year alone the mint expects to use 33,000 tons of copper in cent production, making about 35 million pennies each working day. . .

If just 15 billion pennies could be lured out of hiding, the mint, at current production figures, wouldn't have to make pennies for almost two years and it would represent a saving of $150 million. . .

Pentagon jargon guidebook explains the KISS principle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The KISS principle, according to a new Army staff officer's guidebook, means "keep it simple, stupid."

This bit of advice is among hundreds of terms in a glossary intended to help an officer freshly assigned to the Pentagon understand some of the jargon he'll hear around the building.

The glossary is included in a 125-page paperback guidebook stocked with information on staff procedures, sample forms, telephone numbers, and personal services available during a duty tour in the "puzzle palace" (i.e., the Pentagon).

When a new staff officer is told he is to attend a "dog and pony show," he need only flip to page 81 and find that is "a briefing which uses a number of viewgraph slides, flip charts, or other training aids."

If someone tells him his staff paper is "flaky," he will know it "contains conclusions and recommendations that will not hold up under hard analysis."

His boss may criticize his paper's "fog index" as too high, in which case he will look for ways to make its wording less obscure and more readable."

Once he gets his boss' okay, he will have to scurry around and try to persuade all the interested agencies to "read off the same sheet of music" (get them coordinated into a common position).

In the course of this bureaucratic exercise, he may find that the final wording of his staff paper amounts to a "waffle" (the "intentional or unintentional use of phraseology which skirts the issue").

Above all, he will try to avoid a "glitch" (error) or to minimize "heartburn" (serious disagreement).

He may find himself greeted by fellow officers affectionately as a "cannon cocker" (if he is an artillery man) or referred to somewhat disdainfully as a "muddy boots" (if he came from the infantry).

If he is ambitious to become a general some day, he'll want to be known as a "water walker" (or, as the guidebook puts it, "an officer with a singularly outstanding military record; usually an officer who has been selected for one or more early promotions").

Nixon's hair easy to cut, but Kissinger's a problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's hair is easy to cut, but Henry A. Kissinger's?

It's a problem because it's so curly, their barber confided. "First I have to shampoo it, then cut it with scissors. Then I use a razor to blend the hair, and the hot air blower to dry and style it.

"That gives it a curly but smooth look. There, look how smooth it looks in the photograph."

Milton Pitts, who has been clipping the presidential hair for four and a half years, pointed to a photograph of Nixon with his secretary of state. "I gave them both haircuts yesterday."

Nixon's haircuts—once a week, "never any longer than 10 days"—take about 20 minutes. During that time the President is quite congenial, Pitts says, and "talks to me quite a bit, but usually in generalities and never about politics."

From his vantage point, Pitts sees no physical change in the President despite the rigors of his office and the troubles of his administration.

"I've never seen a person under the pressure he's under so relaxed," he said. "I see no change in the President."

Pitts spends each Tuesday and Thursday manning the one chair barbershop in the White House West Wing, trimming, clipping and styling the hair of the President, Cabinet members and top White House aides.

Pitts, a 58-year-old native of Greenville, S.C., also runs a barber shop in the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel a few blocks from the White House. He charges $4 for a straight haircut and $8.50 for the kind of hair styling he does on Nixon and Kissinger.

He is on call at all other times if the President suddenly decides to get a haircut, Pitts said.

"When I read about some of the people that are in trouble, I'm quite surprised," Pitts said. "They were all such nice people."

Claim Russia ahead in atom technology

WASHINGTON — Soviet research and not spying has boosted Russia ahead of the United States in the nuclear arms race, the man commonly regarded as the father of the hydrogen bomb has told a Senate Committee.

Dr. Edward Teller used this testimony Monday to argue for an end to most secrecy surrounding nuclear technology. He said secrecy impedes the work of American scientists and fails to halt Russian nuclear progress.

The Soviets, Teller told the Senate Government Operations Committee, "are moving ahead at a rapid rate while we are practically standing still. There is no doubt, Russia is No. 1," he said.

Teller said he believes word of any major scientific breakthrough in the United States will reach the Soviet Union in a year or less.

"The number of people to whom the main lines of relevant information about nuclear weapons is available is probably between 100,000 and one million," Teller said.

"Under these conditions one must accept the conclusion that nuclear secrets, as a general rule, are secrets in name only," he said.

Teller proposed that Congress legislate declassification of most basic scientific information immediately and create a two-year classification for some details.

Little information deserves to be held longer or more securely, Teller said.

"I believe that only essential details, blueprints and descriptions on how to make nuclear weapons effective can continue to be safeguarded on the relatively informal basis of U.S. proprietary information," he said.

While novel ideas and plans for such weapons can be classified for the two-year period, he said, "the general ideas concerning nuclear weapons should be made available to the public."

Teller said he has concluded reluctantly that scientific intelligence information on Soviet achievements should be withheld from publication even though its release would inform the public as to "the great strength of Russia's military information."

Publication, he said, likely would cause the sources of the information to be discovered and shut off. Secrecy, Teller said, gives a false feeling of safety and permits people to avoid the hard decisions that they would have to face if all the facts were out in the open.

New York City's garbage may be buried near Cadiz

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency will be watching the operations closely if New York City contracts to dump its garbage in an abandoned Harrison County strip mine, an EPA official says.

New York City reportedly is close to approving a contract with Control Systems, Inc., of Cincinnati for annual disposal of 624,000 tons of compacted wastes in the 400-acre site near Cadiz.

The garbage would be hauled by rail to the site at a rate of between 2,000 and 2,500 tons a day and used as reclamation landfill.

Charles Scott, Control Systems vice president, said he expects the firm to get the contract. He said it will be at least two years after the contract is signed before the operation begins "because of the lead time in getting the bailing equipment."

Donald Day, assistant chief of the EPA's Division of Waste Management, said the Harrison County site was approved as a landfill in 1969. He said an amended plan providing for disposal of compacted waste at the site was approved by the EPA "about a year and a half ago."

Day said the compaction system reduces 2,700 pounds of household wastes into an odorless block three feet by three feet by four feet, and hard enough to be transported and used as landfill.

"It's awfully hard for people to talk about things they don't know about, but when you look at the ravaged strip mine areas of Ohio that need reclamation, there should be no reason for concern," Scott said.

"It's land reclamation, that's what it is, and you'll be able to harvest this ground," he said.

The Environmental Action Coalition, Inc., of New York last week criticized the rail hauling of New York garbage to Ohio because it felt burying the wastes is a poor example of resource recovery.

Karen Dumont, director of the coalition, said that while strip mines are a blight on the landscape, "using them as garbage disposal sites is not a feasible solution.

"Landfill areas are notorious for the pollution of nearby waterways and water tables, as well as the creation of methane gas which renders the land unuseable until the gas is thoroughly dispersed," she said.

Day said the Ohio EPA also would prefer a better resource recovery plan than simply burying garbage.

"If they get the contract, I'm sure we'll be breathing down their neck and watching the operation," he said.

Disaster aid law faces opening test

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, people who lost a car or a roof in a natural disaster may apply to the federal government for a grant of money they won't have to repay.

The weekend tornadoes and floods in the Midwest will provide a test of the Federal Disaster Relief Act of 1974, which went into effect last month.

Under it, a traveling salesmen could ask for up to $5,000 to replace his car and get him back on the road, or a family might seek a $2,500 minigrant to patch its roofs.

The $2,500 grants are available to individuals who need funds quickly for home repairs.

Some minigrants would be available within two weeks after an application is submitted, but three to four weeks would be needed in most cases, a spokesman said.

The grants generally are available only after a storm victim has applied for a loan, but can be awarded in addition to the loan, she added.

Criteria for receiving the grants include a victim's financial status and the extent of damage.

This new program is one of a number of assistance programs available to individuals ranging up to $50,000 in Small Business Administration loans for major construction, she said.

"One-stop" centers are being set up throughout Minnesota, Missouri, Illinois, Oklahoma and portions of Kansas area that President Nixon declared disaster areas on Monday. The new act is being applied retroactively to all but Oklahoma.

These centers will permit the storm victim to apply for assistance without visiting various agencies throughout a city.

One program could be used to pay a family's rent for up to one year if it cannot find suitable replacement housing.

Under the Family and Individual Grant Program, up to $5,000 can be provided for medical needs and other requirements brought on by the disaster. Individual states must join this program, paying 25 per cent of the cost.

Grants are available under certain conditions to help farmers, and cities can seek federal funds to repair or replace roads and other municipal facilities.

Osteopaths on increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The president of the American Osteopathic Association says the majority of general practicioners in this country 20 years from now will be doctors of osteopathy (DOs) rather than MDs if planned DO medical schools open.

Dr. John C. Taylor of Kansas City, Mo., told delegates to the association's annual meeting here Monday that such schools will start in the next few years in Florida, Ohio, New York and New England.

There are now seven DO schools in the nation and new ones will open this fall in West Virginia and Oklahoma, he said.

While DOs represent only 5 per cent of the physician population today, Taylor said, they are general practitioners to an estimated 25 million Americans.

"The reason DOs provide this disproportionate amount of general practice care is that 75 per cent of our profession is in general practice," he said.

"For the first time in our 100-year history, we can state unequivocally that our profession is on full parity with allopathic (MD) medicine in every one of the 50 states," Taylor declared.

Rumor quits; Italy plunged into crisis

ROME (AP) — The resignation of Premier Mariano Rumor plunged Italy into a political vacuum today, compounding the nation's worst economic crisis since World War II.

Rumor quit Monday night after the Socialist party, the No. 2 faction in his coalition government, and the trade unions refused to go along with his proposals for an austerity program of tight credit and higher taxes to stave off national bankruptcy. It was the second center-left coalition headed by Rumor to collapse in 11 months.

Italy's 36th government since World War II lasted only three months.

President Giovanni Leone asked Rumor and his cabinet to continue in office as a caretaker regime until a new government is formed. The president was expected to start consultations with political leaders today in search of a new premier.

The government fell at Italy's darkest hour in its 28 years as a republic. Inflation is soaring at the rate of 20 per cent a year. The government's foreign credit is exhausted. The lira has dropped 18 per cent in a year. The foreign trade deficit is more than a billion dollars a month. Crime is up, and political terrorism is plaguing the country.

'Italy is deeply sick," said Transport Minister Luigi Preti, a Democratic Socialist. "It is clear that this is the most serious of the government crises since the war."

With no party having a majority in Parliament and no majority possible without the participation of the Christian Democrats, the largest and dominant party, Leone has few options.

He could ask Rumor or another Christian Democrat to try to form another coalition with the Socialists. Or he could call for new elections, a prospect that doesn't appeal to the Christian Democrats because of the beating they took in last month's referendum on divorce.

Witness list

question him privately to determine what he has to say.

In their letter, the 17 Republicans say other former White House aides such as John W. Dean III, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman also should be called.

The Republicans said Nixon's refusal to comply with the subpoenas for tapes and other evidence makes it all the more important to call witnesses who might be able to supply the same information.

Most of the committee's 21 Democrats believe that except for Colson the testimony of all the other witnesses the Republicans want to call already has been given in other court and committee proceedings.

In rejecting the committee's fourth subpoena, Nixon also rejected its contention that the power of impeachment overrode any claim he could make to executive privilege.

"I cannot accept such a doctrine," Nixon said in a letter to Rodino. "No President could accept such a doctrine, which has never before been seriously asserted."

Nixon also said the committee would not be able to conclude from his refusal to comply with the subpoenas that he was withholding incriminating evidence—an inference the committee has said it is prepared to draw.

"A claim of privilege which is valid under the doctrine of separation of powers and is designed to protect the principle of separation of powers must be accepted without adverse inference, or else the privilege itself is undermined and the separation of powers nullified," Nixon said.

The committee, which sent Nixon a letter after each previous refusal to comply with a subpoena, may not do anything this time, Rodino said: "The committee's position is clear."

Rodino may call a business meeting of the committee for Thursday or Friday. But instead of taking up the question of witnesses, he said he would consider a request by special counsel John Doar for a new subpoena seeking tapes and other material dealing with the settlement of antitrust litigation against International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and a rise in the milk support price ordered by Nixon in 1971. The committee asked for the material a month ago.

In other Watergate-related developments:

—White House lawyers reasserted the right to screen the material Ehrlichman has subpoenaed in the plumbers trial. They said Nixon himself will determine whether the material will be produced for trial.

—Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski and presidential lawyers asked the Supreme Court to make public the report of a grand jury that named Nixon as in unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up.

—U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica began pretrial hearings in the cover-up case involving seven defendants, including some former top White House officials. Defense lawyers are seeking dismissal of grand jury indictments, mainly on the grounds of pretrial publicity.

—House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., predicted the House will impeach Nixon if the Judiciary Committee recommends it.

Kissinger

President Nixon to the Middle East. It was there earlier this month that Kissinger, working as a mediator, helped bring about the Israeli-Syrian military disengagement pact that has cleared the way for a full-scale Mideast peace conference in Geneva.

At his news conference, Kissinger was referring to allegations stemming from reports that he had ordered wiretaps on administration officials who had access to national security documents that were leaked to the press.

In his confirmation hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Sept. 15-17, Kissinger denied ordering the taps.

He said then he had provided the names of officials who had access to the documents, but had not suggested the taps nor did he ever order them used.

He also said he had received only infrequent reports of the taps and then only for 10 months. This all took place when he was President Nixon's national security adviser.

Tapes of conversations between Nixon and other officials recently heard in the House Judiciary Committee supposedly quoted the President as saying Kissinger had initiated some wiretaps.

Kissinger told a news conference last week the President must have been under some "misapprehension" or the tape was unclear.

However, at that news conference he changed his version slightly by saying he had never "directly" ordered any wiretaps.

Kingston sets recall vote

KINGSTON, Ohio (AP) — Village residents of Kingston will vote July 2 on replacing Mayor Lynn Clausen and simultaneously will cast ballots for a successor if the recall goes through.

Candidates to succeed Clausen have until 4 p.m. Wednesday to file for a spot on the election ballot, said Guy Brown, Ross County elections director.

Brown said a sufficient number of validly signed petitions had been turned in May 29 by the one-precinct village with 577 registered voters.

If Clausen is not ousted, Brown said, the law provides for the village to pay one-half the amount he is legally allowed to spend for an election campaign.

The recall petitions were filed by Richard Rickabaugh, a resigned village councilman, and his attorney.

Cool, dryer air spread across Ohio overnight, bringing a temporary end to the hot weather that has dominated the state for more than a week.

The cool weather is expected to continue until Thursday, followed by a warming trend through the weekend.

A low over the northern Great Lakes receded northward today as the dry air spread across Ohio. Another cool, unstable air mass will bring a chance of showers to Ohio late tonight and Wednesday.

Highs today and Wednesday were forecast from the 60s to near 70. Lows tonight should fall to the mid to upper 40s.

Skies cleared overnight in the western half of the state, and clearing skies were forecast this morning in the east.

Temperatures at dawn today were generally in the 50s.

The weather will become warmer Thursday through Saturday with a chance of showers Saturday. Highs Thursday in the 70s, warming to the 80s by Saturday. Lows in the upper 40s and the 50s Thursday, warming to the upper 50s and the 60s by Saturday.

Sunny skies cover most of nation

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms that plagued a broad stretch of the midcontinent most of last week, much weaker now, rumbled eastward toward the Atlantic Coast today.

Free of the conditions which spawned last week's tornadoes and heavy rains, the region from the central Gulf Coast and Mississippi Valley west to the Pacific was under fair skies. Scattered thundershowers marred that sunny outlook, however, in parts of the central Plains.

Rain also splashed into sections of Lower Michigan, northern New England and the Atlantic Coast.

Sunny skies brought record temperatures in some parts of the nation Monday.

The mercury soared to 95 in New York City, a June 10 record there. Utilities from Massachusetts to Virginia were forced to cut back on electrical power by five per cent when they could not keep up with demand.

In the desert Southwest, it was 107 at Palm Springs, Calif., 106 at Phoenix, Ariz., and a sizzling 111 at Gila Bend, Ariz.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 38 at Marquette County Airport in Michigan to 91 at Blythe, Calif.

Nun hangs out shingle as doctor

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — In some rural area of Michigan greatly in need of a physician, a Roman Catholic nun plans soon to hang out a shingle reading: "Rosemary Havey, D.O."

"Any way we can use whatever talents to bring better quality life to people is very appropriate," said the 44-year-old Dominican sister, who just was graduated with a doctor of osteopathy degree from Michigan State University.

"It doesn't make any difference whether it's helping a terminal patient die with dignity, bringing a new baby into the world or helping a married couple improve their relationship," she said.

Dr. Havey, celebrating her 25th year or silver jubilee of taking her vows at the religious convent in Adrian, will intern in Detroit. Then she plans to practice in a rural area.

She said she is the first nun in her order who plans to be a physician in private practice. She wears conventional clothes.

Being a physician will not affect her status as a nun, she said. She added that she would still live on the same stipend as any sister. Any money over that will go to the religious order, she said.

"Whenever I go into a hospital, it seems that within a few minutes everyone knows I'm a sister," said Dr. Havey, of Center Line, Mich. "They find out, however, that I'm human and laugh and have the same frustration as any other human being," she said. "But I like my life style."

Stock prices pull back

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices pulled back today as a six-session rally bogged down in profit-taking.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.83 at 855.84. Losers just about doubled the number of gainers in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said it seemed the momentum of last week's sharp advance had been largely dispelled by the failure of a prime rate cut posted by New York's First National City Bank last Friday to spread immediately to other big banks.

Textron, the Big Board volume leader, gave up ¼ to 17 in a 161,700-share block trade. The company has a major role in a proposed plan to restructure Lockheed Aircraft, the financially-pressed aerospace giant.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .37 at 86.22.

The Amex' most-active issue was Airwick Industries, unchanged at 12¾.

The NYSE composite index of some 1,500 common stocks retreated .37 to 48.62.

Eye gold ownership by citizens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said today he hopes it will be possible for Americans to own gold before the end of this year.

Simon told a House Banking and Currency subcommittee that he favors allowing Americans to own gold, which now is prohibited.

President Nixon has authority from Congress to remove the ban at any time and Simon said he hopes this will be possible "before the end of the year unless there are damaging developments."

Simon appeared before the House subcommittee, which is considering U.S. contributions to the International Development Association. The association makes interest-free development loans to the world's poorest countries.

The Senate already has approved an appropriation, but with a stipulation that Americans should be free to own gold effective Sept. 1.

The House subcommittee, which previously turned down the IDA bill, also is considering setting a gold owning date as a condition for passage of the bill, say sources.

Mills wants controls reimposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills says that even though wage-price curbs may be "anathema to many," the controls should be reimposed to help combat inflation.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, sounded the appeal Monday as concern over inflation was voiced on both sides of Capitol Hill and both chambers wrestled with various tax reform and tax cut proposals.

Mills suggested the controls should be similar to those in effect in 1972 under Phase 2 of the now discontinued Nixon economic program, but should be mandatory rather than left to presidential discretion. He ruled out price rollbacks.

Mills said the lawmakers cannot blame failure of leadership on the problems Nixon is having—an apparent reference to Watergate and the impeachment inquiry.

The Treasury had no immediate comment.

However, Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking Committee, which has jurisdiction over controls legislation, said: "It is a fact of life that the continuation of wage-price controls was defeated overwhelmingly earlier this year in the Banking and Currency Committee and I know of no change in that sentiment."

Boy Scouts have own Watergate

CHICAGO (AP) — The Boy Scouts of America faces charges by some paid staff members that it padded membership rolls and possibly cheated to gain additional federal money.

"If we were in the business of covering it up, it could be the Watergate of the Boy Scouts," responds Alden G. Barber, chief executive of the Boy Scouts.

"Some of our people cheat— quite frankly" on membership rolls, Barber added. "While we always felt that scouting should expand and grow, we never condoned or encouraged less than ethical practices or conduct."

But Barber said Monday he hadn't heard of possible cheating to gain federal funds until a two-part series that began Sunday in the Chicago Tribune.

The problem apparently lies in the $65 million "Boypower 76" recruitment campaign that began in 1968 to add two million boys to scouting ranks by 1976. The program, designed to push total Scout membership to six million, is nearly two years behind schedule.

Barber said some staff members apparently created fictitious members and troops to reach membership quotas.

He said the organization has known about the abuses since August and that national Boy Scout headquarters in North Brunswick, N.J., has investigated 10 local councils. He said disciplinary actions are expected shortly in three cities. He declined to name them.

Barber said the number of phantom scouts isn't known but that the cheating seems confined mainly to the professional organization.

The Tribune said additional federal money was obtained through the padding procedures.

The Tribune reported that some staff members said difficulties seem particularly critical in Chicago, home of the Boy Scouts' largest council. Some Scout excutives estimated that only about 25 to 50 per cent of the city's 87,000 registered Scouts actually exist.

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Twentyeight years ago, the U.S. Army hanged a top Japanese general, Tomoyuki Yamashita, for atrocities his troops committed in the Philippines toward the end of World War II.

Tonight, ABC-TV is offering a 90-minute dramatization of the controversial military trial of Yamashita, convicted and sentenced to death on Dec. 7, 1945, the fourth anniversary of Pearl Harbor.

The program's intent is admirable, but its content is weak. It tackles a profound, complex matter with all the subtlety of a howitzer crew firing for effect and drawing only light return fire.

The show's producer, director and narrator is film maker Stanley Kramer.

In tonight's case, Kramer, armed with a script by Norman Corwin, has taken the stuff of exciting reality and turned it into portentous docu-drama that feigns life only now and then.

A major issue in the Yamashita case was whether his trial ever could have been fair when the court and its rules of law were created by the man's victorious opponent, Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Another key question, a perennial one, was the extent of a military commander's responsibility for his troops' conduct in wartime.

The first issue is rapidly disposed of as Kramer and the script pile on point after point to argue the trial was little more than a drumhead courtmartial, conducted in the battle-scarred city of Manila in an atmosphere of "grief, anger and the heavy residue of hate."

That Yamashita's men committed atrocities and massacres against thousands of prisoners of war and civilians isn't questioned.

Whether he could have prevented them, had he known of them, is studied and covered in his largely unrebutted assertions of innocence.

He emerges as a veritable saint, yet little question is made of his claim heavy U.S. military pressure severed his lines of communication and left him a demoralized army he could barely control.

There was no evidence he knew of or ordered any atrocity, but the military tribunal that convicted him held he "failed to provide effective control of his troops as required by the circumstances."

The U.S. Supreme Court upheld the conviction, though not, as Kramer notes, without a strong dissent by Associate Justice Frank Murphy, who warned of "dangerous implications" in the decision.

Indeed, Murphy added, "the fate of some future president of the United States and his chiefs of staff and military advisers may well have been sealed by this decision."

Push textile automation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading government research scientist called today for total automation of the U.S. textile industry so that it can meet future needs and demands of consumers.

Dr. Mary E. Carter, director of the Agriculture Department's Southern Regional Research Center at New Orleans, said the industry is beginning to use new yarn-spinning equipment that is four times faster than conventional systems, but she said a 10-fold increase is needed.

The first use of lenses to form a telescope is attributed to Roger Bacon of England, who died in 1292.

Speech therapy course to open here June 17

Eight weeks of speech therapy will be offered again this summer by the Fayette County Society for Crippled Children and Adults in cooperation with the Fayette County Health Department. The course will start next Monday, June 17. There will be two centers, one at the Eastside Elementary School in Washington C.H. and one at the Jeffersonville Elementary School.

The first three days will be dovoted for evaluation:

In Washington C.H. at the Eastside School on Monday from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 3:30 p.m.; Tuesday from 1 to 3:30 p.m. and Wednesday from 9 to 11 a.m.

In Jeffersonville on Tuesday from 9 to 11 a.m. and Wednesday from 1 to 3: P.M.

No appointment is necessary for the evaluation. Any questions can be answered by Mrs. James H. Hagler (335-6713), chairman of the Easter Seal Committee, or at the Health Department (335-5910).

Any children, who have been referred by the speech therapist at school, although they may have received speech therapy during the school year or were seen by a speech therapist at a pre-school conference, should be taken to one of the evaluation sessions, it was explained at the Health Department. The therapist will determine then how often therapy will be needed an make the appointments for return visits.

The therapist this year will be Miss Charlotte Smather, who received her degree in speech therapy last Saturday from Ohio University. She has been employed as a speech therapist for the Miami Trace school system for the 1974-75 school year.

Miss Smather, a native of Columbus, did her practice teaching in Cleveland the last quarter.

She will reside in Washington C.H. this summer.

Albino frog discovered

WARREN, Mich. (AP) — Research scientists at the University of Michigan Amphibian Facility are excited by a backyard find—Charlie the albino toad.

Charlie, who has transparent skin, was found last week by 4-year-old Joey Strain in a backyard near his home.

The Amphibian Facility wants to study the rare animal and breed it for research.

Albino toads or frogs are "a one in a million" occurrence, said a facility scientist.

Dr. George W. Nace, a zoology professor, says the transparent skin on albino frogs and toads makes it possible to observe their bodily functions.

"Frogs have many features like those of man," he said. "We study them to try to learn how the genes control the development process."

At first Joey was reluctant to part with his pet, his mother said. But now he approves.

William Koza, Joey's stepfather, says he'll probably drive Joey and Charlie the toad to the facility at Ann Arbor next week.

Opinion And Comment

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Is there a presidential strategy?

We often fall into the Platonic fallacy of assuming that because there is a question, there must be an answer. When I was last in Washington, for example, a big discussion was underway as to who would succeed Senator J.W. Fulbright as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The smart money said that Senator William Proxmire (D., Wis.) would abandon his chairmanship of the Banking Committee and take over Foreign Relations. The thought of this has bankers all over the United States blanching, since Sparkman will be succeeded as chairman of Banking by Senator John Sparkman (D., Ala.) who has announced loud and clear over the years that sooner will a camel pass through the eye of a needle than a banker into the realm of righteousness.

Indeed, the bankers rushed to help Sparkman in his last Alabama campaign, and did their best to help Fulbright beat Dale Bumpers. Frankly, in my judgment, the bankers and Bill Proxmire deserve each other — it's going to be real fun if they come eyeball to eyeball. That is, if Sparkman does plan to change committees. In my capacity as investigative reporter I decided to attempt to fathom Sparkman's intentions. The answer I received from three close asociates of the Senator was that they couldn't tell me. Not from secrecy, but because as far as they could determine Sparkman himself didn't know what his plans were.

But determining a course of action at Foreign Relations is beginner's play compared to what goes on at the White House. Let us explore the fascinating question: Does President Nixon have a strategy for coping with Watergate? The more I watch the action, the more I am convinced that every morning the President wakes up and simply reacts to whatever has been served into his court. On divulging tapes, for example, first it was "He never," then "Maybe some," then back to "No more." A strategic response would have been either to 1) turn them all over right off the bat with a qualifying statement that this constituted no precedent; or 2) burn them all the night before Alexander Butterfield testified to the Ervin committee and revealed their existence.

Mr. Nixon, the renowned poker player, has, however, consistently been playing middle hands in a high-low game. So now the matter is off to the Supreme Court for final adjudication, and once again the President is waffling all over the map. Last year, when the matter was initially adjudicated as far as the Court of Appeals, the President backed off from appeal to the high Court and disgorged a number of tapes. At that time, while avoiding the Supreme Court, he said he would accept a "definitive" holding by the Justices on the matter of executive privilege. I have been teaching constitutional law for a quarter of a century and never before learned of the distinction between a definitive and a non-definitive holding. It's a simple matter of counting heads with the majority of a quorum (6) providing the answer.

True, there can be divisions among the Justices on why they ruled as they did; the death penalty decision was a classic of this kind. But when it comes down to the straight answer — Yes or No — it makes no difference what routes the judges took. In other words, the Court majority could disagree among themselves on why Mr. Nixon has, or does not have, executive privilege. But, unless the Court takes a dive on the ground that this is a "political question," a head count will answer the President's query.

However, recently—after first trying to talk the Court out of using a jurisdictional shortcut to speed things up — the President and his spokesmen are hedging on whether he would accept an (undefined) "definitive" judgment. This all begins to have an Alice in Wonderland quality about it. What is more interesting is that, even with Mr. Justice Rehnquist disqualifying himself from hearing any Watergate-related cases, four Justices were willing to grant certiorari and sidestep the Court of Appeals. By traditional criteria this would indicate the Court is willing to tackle the merits (although it should be noted that in the De Funis case involving reverse segregation, four Justices agreed to hear the argument and then a majority denied jurisdiction on the ground that the issue was moot).

So the stall didn't work. But instead of asking what the President's strategy next entails, I am just wondering what bright idea he will wake up with on the day the Justices hand down their decision. A man who sent his lawyer, who had not heard the tapes, into a courtroom to argue they were irrelevant could come up with almost anything.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what you outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 12

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Keen perception will be important now. You may there with get a brand new slant on a puzzling job situation.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

You have a way with you when your better self is out front, which it should be now. Day requires stamina and patience for the long pull — which will bring lasting rewards.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Financial matters under some restrictions. Keep a tight grip on your wallet and curb tendencies toward extravagance.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

If you attempt to gain your ends by unconventional methods, it could cause discord. You are usually fairly conservative, but there's a tendency toward indiscretion now.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Solar influences somewhat adverse. If certain negotiations are pending, try to postpone decisions for 48 hours, when influences will be more propitious.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23$

Romance under something of a cloud. Be prepared for the unexpected and disconcerting. In business affairs, however, a matter of importance is decided in your favor.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Avoid a tendency toward procrastination and concentrate on immediate objectives. Inclinations now are to daydream about the future — unrealistically.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Some things you thought "impossible" begin to work out now, can be pushed by your know-how and dexterity. Take the proverbial bull by the horns — and ACT!

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Much competition in store. You should revel in most of the challenges offered. A fine day for capitalizing on your organizational abilities.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

An excellent day for considering new business arrangements — especially if they involve real estate or property improvements.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Fine Uranus influences. A good day for capitalizing on unusual ideas, initiating new systems, experimenting generally.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Some restraint in order; also some rechecking of plans. Prospects brightening in several areas, but foresight a "must."

YOU BORN TODAY: Being extraordinarily versatile, you might be called a "Jack of all trades" but, unlike "Jack," you can master any to which you set your mind and heart. You are imaginative, artistic, something of a mystic and poet, but you attain your goals in a most practical way. Even though given to restlessness and impulsiveness, you usually turn in a top performance. Properly educated, of course, you could succeed at almost any vocation you choose, as well as an avocation — which would probably be along literary or musical lines.

State to look at own agencies?

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It may be too late to come this year, but the General Assembly in the not-too-distant future probably will ask state government to take a close look at its bureaucratic self.

A pair of proposals caught the attention of more than a few lawmakers at the current session which is nearing adjournment. One came in late and the other failed to inspire enough members of the Senate Rules Committee to get it past that obstacle.

Early in the year Sen. Paul R. Matia, R-25 Westlake, offered a bill creating yet another state commission to evaluate the more than 180 boards and commissions that help run the government.

Matia said the purpose of the envisioned seven-member commission would be to eliminate agencies that were unnecessary to improve those remaining. Many have been added piecemeal over the years and, perhaps, no longer are needed, he said.

The Westlake lawmaker's bill moved promptly through the Senate Ways and Means Committee only to become stymied in the powerful Rules Committee, with little hope of getting out before adjoutnment.

In the House, Rep. Thomas P. Gilmartin, D-51 Youngstown, took another approach to the same basic problem. But, he didn't get his bill in until almost mid-May. His proposal called for the legislature to study and approve the rules and regulations under which the proliferating boards and commissions operate.

Gilmartin claims that at least some of the boards and commissions adopt rules and operate on their own without conducting hearings under the Administrative Procedures Act.

"There may not be a lot of them doing it, but some are," he said. "That's what we want to find out."

Gilmartin said quite a few of his colleagues expressed interest in the measure, but indicated it received a cool reception from some officials in the Gilligan administration— cool enough, apparently, to put his proposal to rest for this year.

The Youngstown Democrat said he plans to resume efforts to get his bill passed next year, if he is re-elected. Matia also is up for re-election this year.

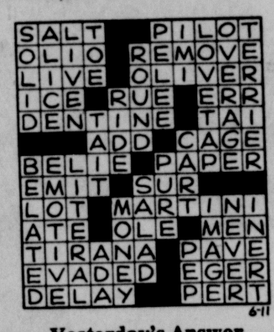

Lung cancer, the leading killer of all cancers, has increased by about 100 per cent for both men and women. Deaths are expected to rise to 75,000 in 1974 from 72,000 in 1973.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Black boyfriend shocks her parents

DEAR ABBY: Judy, our 22-year-old daughter, is a graduate student, living out of state. She's pretty and popular and always has been a leader and an honor student.

Judy had written us about a very fine black girl she had become friendly with at college. We live in a small mid-western town and never had anything to do with the few black families who live on the highway.

Judy phoned a few days ago and asked if she could bring a young man home for a visit. I said: "Certainly."

Then she said: "He's black."

I asked: "HOW black?"

She said: "About as black as black can get." Then she went on to tell me that he was the brother of her college friend, also a graduate student, and an outstanding person, etc.

I managed to control my emotions, and asked whether she was serious about him. She said: "Possibly, but I don't think I'm lucky enough to get him." (My stomach turned over!)

Abby, no one in her father's family or mine would ever understand if Judy were to marry a black man. I can see nothing but heartaches and problems ahead for her if she married him. I'm not a bigot, but we just aren't ready for something like this. I told her not to bring him home until I could prepare her father for the shock, so she said: "Unless you will treat him properly, I'd rather not subject him to any humiliation." That's where we left it.

Now what do I do, Abby?

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

DEAR SLEEPLESS: Unless you and your husband can treat your daughter's friend as though he were a Caucasian with a sun tan, tell her not to bring him home. But don't be surprised if Judy doesn't come either. She's old enough to choose her own friends. And by the way, what is your definition of a bigot?

DEAR ABBY: My career is my home and family, and I am proud of it. But for some strange reason, when a housewife is asked what she does, she very apologetically says: "I'm ONLY a housewife." This irritates me no end.

When I am asked what I do, I proudly say: "I am an oikologist." The word comes from the Greek words "oikos," which means house, and "ologist," which means "one who studies" or is "an expert in."

Please pass this on for other housewives. Perhaps they will feel more important if they use it, too.

OIKOLOGIST

DEAR OIK: I wouldn't recommend springing that on the average Joe without defining it. The "oikologist" might be mistaken for an expert on pigs.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you'll put this in your column for those nice people who are guilty, but are not aware of it.

Two montha ago I had a breast removed, also the lymph glands under my arm. (Cancer.)

I am doing fine, and I look fine, so I started to go to my club meetings and to church.

Just about every other person I meet is so happy to see me up and around again that they slap or grip my sore arm. I'm sure they don't realize how painful this is because they don't connect my operation with my arm.

They are dear people, and I wouldn't hurt them for the world, but, Abby, my arm is still swollen, has fever in it, and when it's gripped it hurts like mad. It's getting so I hate to go anywhere because I'm afraid of this painful greeting I'm sure to get.

Maybe some of those nice but slap-happy people will read this and take note.

ACHING ARM

DEAR ACHING: Consider it done.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, June 11, the 162nd day of 1974. There are 203 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1942, it was disclosed that the United States and the Soviet Union had made a lend-lease agreement to aid the Soviet war effort in World War II.

On this date—

In 1727, King George I of England died.

In 1859, a prospector laid claim to a silver deposit in Six Mile Canyon in Nevada. The claim turned out to be the Comstock Lode, which yielded ore worth more than $300 million.

In 1940, Princess Juliana of The Netherlands arrived in Canada as an exile during World War II.

In 1963, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace stepped aside to permit blacks to register at the University of Alabama in Montgomery as the federalized National Guard stood by.

In 1967, Egypt and Syria settled into a cease-fire with Israel after the six-day war.

In 1970, the United States completed a pullout from Wheelus Air Force Base in Libya, the last major American military facility in North Africa.

Ten years ago: New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Republican nomination of Barry Goldwater for President would spell disaster for the GOP and for the country.

Five years ago: Soviet and Chinese troops clashed on the border of China's Sinkiang Province.

One year ago: Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said the Senate Watergate hearings were destroying the chances of justice and truth being achieved.

Y-Gradale installs new officers

Y-Gradale Sorority met recently in the home of Mrs. Don Kirk when prospective members were entertained at a Tea. The main items of business for the evening was the installation of new officers for 1974-75.

Mrs. Ralph Child, a Y-Gradale adviser, conducted the impressive candlelight service for Mrs. Dick Anthony, president; Mrs. Kirk, vice president; Mrs. Carl Wilt II, secretary; and Mrs. Robert Stanforth, treasurer.

Visiting and games were enjoyed following the ceremony, and plans were completed for the picnic to be held June 17 at the cottage of Mrs. John Rhoads at Cedarhurst. Special guest for the picnic will be sorority pledges.

Miss Knost feted at shower

Miss Rebecca Knost, bride-elect of Richard C. Williams of Wilmington, was guest of honor at a bridal shower held in the home of Mrs. Charles W. Link, 223 Wagner Way.

A game prize was won by Mrs. James Bonham, the bride-elect's sister.

Guests were the bride's mother, Mrs. Michael Opacic, the prospective groom's mother, Mrs. John K. Williams of Wilmington, Mrs. Bonham, Mrs. Sally Petitt, Mrs. Larry Edwards, Mrs. Frank Casey, the bride-elect's sisters, Mrs. John Williams, Mrs. Randall Quiqley, Mrs. William Walker, Mrs. Robert Williams, Mrs. Joe Boylan, Mrs. Charles Humprey, Mrs. Frank Terrell, Mrs. Fulton Terry, Mrs. Mildred Hewitt, Mrs. Arthur Tyree, Mrs. Dorothy Knisley, Mrs. Ben McQuiniff, Mrs. Edna Osborne, Mrs. Horace Jacobs, Mrs. Jay Morris, Mrs. Lucille Braden, Mrs. Brian Mickle, Miss Cindy Pine, Mrs. Charles Forsythe, Mrs. Chester Howell and Miss Monica Jaeckels.

ACCEPTS POSITION—Miss Terry Lynn Dumford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Dumford, 635 Warren Ave., has accepted a position as staff nurse at Riverside Hospital, Columbus, and will assume her duties July 16. She graduated Friday from the Riverside Hospital School of Nursing. Attending commencement exercises besides her parents were her brother, Larry, and sisters, Tricia and Mrs. Mark (Lori) Sheridan.

Auxiliary votes to support scholarship fund

The Fayette Memorial Hospital Auxiliary met in the conference room at the hospital, when Mrs. Ralph Child conducted the meeting and welcomed two guests, along with the 24 members present.

A report on the gift shop and the TV sets was made, and Mrs. Roy (Jean) Coe Jr., director of the Practical School of Nursing at the hospital, thanked the Auxiliary for the new tile placed in the office of the school. She also asked their support with the scholarship fund, which the group voted to do. A committee was appointed to work with her concerning the fund.

New officers will be elected at the Sept. 2 meeting.

Miss Kuhlwein completes wedding plans

Miss Diane Kuhlwein, bride-elect of Thomas Joseph Pallmaccio, has completed plans for their open-church wedding which will take place at 1:30 p.m. June 22 in First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Gerald Wheat and Dr. David Francoeur officiating.

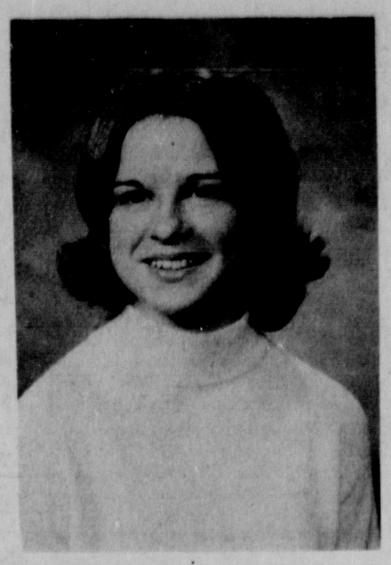

Miss Kuhlwein has asked her sister, Mrs. Doug Davis, to be matron of honor, and Mrs. Donald Bullis, Miss Belinda Ramey, Miss Jonelle Shoemaker and Miss Janelle Donahue the bridesmaids.

Serving as best man will be Richard DeMers. Seating the wedding guests will be Guy Naylor, Chris Essman, Donald Bullis and Joe Henry. The acolytes will be Gregory Kuhlwein, brother of the bride-elect and Patrick Palmaccio, brother of the prospective groom.

Mr. Garrell Leasure, organist, will present the wedding music.

PERSONALS

Miss Janice Chaney of Cincinnati, was a guest of her mother, Mrs. T. B. Chaney, 910 Leesburg Ave., this weekend. Additional guest on Sunday afternoon and evening were Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Brown of War, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. William Granger of Springfield.

MISS BARBARA A. AMONETTE

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. William Amonette of Sabina, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Ann, to Danny Ray Summers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Summers of Washington C.H.

Miss Amonette, a 1974 graduate of East Clinton High School, is employed by the O.W. Hunt Agency in Sabina.

Her fiance, a 1974 graduate of Miami Trace High School, is employed at the Willis Lumber Company in Washington C.H.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Class of 1959 set reunion for Aug. 3

The Class of 1959 of Washington High School has made final plans for the annual reunion and dinner. The steak dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. Aug. 3 in the American Legion Hall, with dancing at 9 p.m. A band from Columbus will provide music for the evening.

Reservations must be made by June 15 with Miss Mary Kay West, 222 W. Market St., or calls may be made to Mrs. Jack (Linda Dunnagan) Hatmacher 335-2939.

Alpha Delta Gamma guests

Alpha Delta Gamma members of Delta Kappa Gamma Society were breakfast guests of Beta Rho chapter at Pickaway Arms in Circleville on Saturday.

Additional invited chapters were from Beta Tau of Waverly, Alpha Nu of Lancaster, Alpha Gamma of Chillicothe, and Alpha Delta of Washington C.H.

State Alpha Delta president Mrs. Helen D. Stephenson was the speaker and the installatin officer for the 1974-76 officers of Circleville. She reported on the recent State Convention and urged all members to attend the International Convention in Spokane, Wash., in August.

Local members attending were Mrs. Frank Mayo, Mrs. William Mace, Mrs. Tranquilo DelPonte and Mrs. Karl Harper.

Plans are made for the June 17 luncheon-meeting of Alpha Delta State of Delta Kappa Gamma at the Elks Lodge in Wilmington at 11:30 a.m. A tour of Laurel Oaks Vocational School will follow at 1 p.m. All members are urged to meet at the Elks Lodge on that day.

Kensington Club remembers fathers

The Bloomingburg Kensington Club met in the home of Mrs. John Gibeaut with Mrs. Forest Baughn as the assisting hostess.

The poem, "Peonies" was read by Mrs. William Rockhold and reports were heard. A cheer card was sent to Mrs. W.P. Noble and the ladies read appropriate readings following roll call.

Mrs. Jean Brown read "Country Church," Mrs. Bloomer "The Church," Mrs. Joe Elliott "Kindness," Mrs. Forest Haines "Times Change," Mrs. Frank Slager "An Apology," Mrs. Don Thornton "Tomorrow is Not Promisied Us," Mrs. Gibeaut "Count the Changes and Things to Remember," Mrs. Lawrence Garinger "Show the Way," Mrs. Forest Baughn "Conditions Change," and Mrs. Rockhold "When Father Asks the Blessing."

In honor of Father's Day June 16, each told of a favorite incident concerning her father.

During the social hour refreshments were served to 11 members seated at the dining room table. A floral arrangement with individual corsages graced the table.

Twin Oaks Garden Club tours Roscoe Village

This year the Twin Oaks Garden Club met at Wayne Hall in Good Hope and motored to Roscoe Village near Coshocton, for the annual tour. This is a restored canal town of the former Ohio Erie Canal. The townspeople were filled with awe at the first sight of the canal boat 'Monticello' as it arrived in the village in 1830, it is said.

Once a busy port on the Ohio Erie Canal, Roscoe Village is now a living monument of the hardy pioneers. The group made their first stop at the Old Township Hall where they received a pleasant welcome and heard about the heritage of Roscoe Village, which is built on a steep hillside and the restored houses are the old houses along the canal banks. After the railroads came through, the canal was closed, as the railroad moved goods 10 mile per hour, and the boats at two mile per hour. The town remained nearly forgotten until work was begun in 1968.

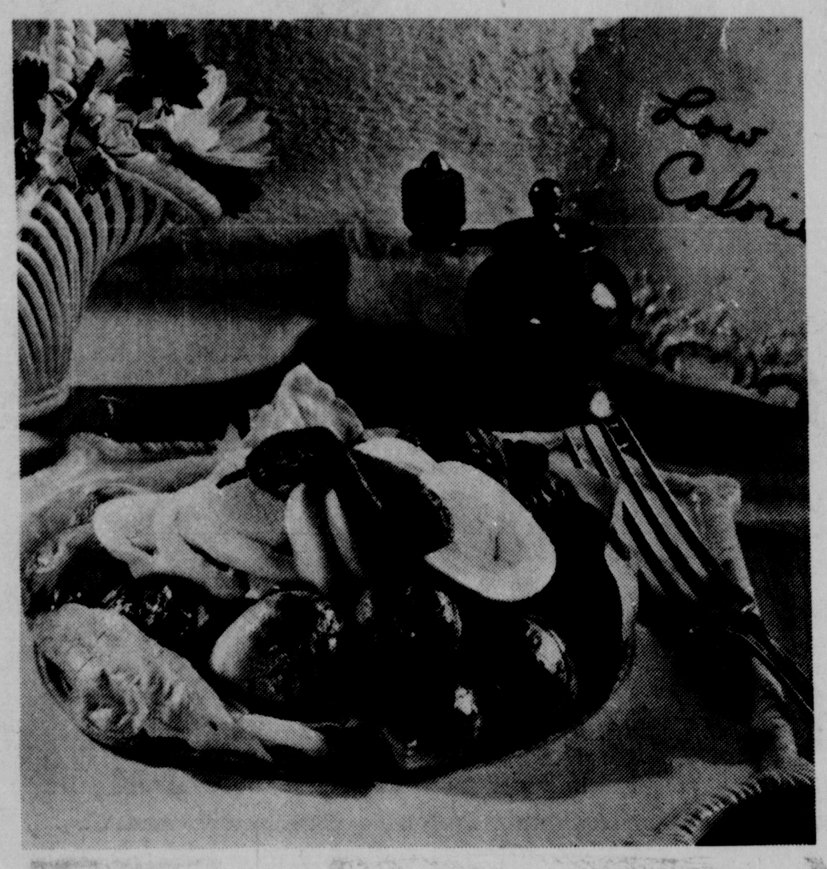

Members visited the Williams House which was filled with antiques. They also visited the book store. Hans Stockle's Cheese Cellar, General Store, Goose Nest Gift Shp, Captain Nye's Sweet Shop and craft shops. They also saw how one starts with wool from a sheep and ends by making a nice rug or carpet. They also enjoyed a ride on a horse-drawn trolley for a 20 minute round trip to the triple locks and back.

Dinner was served in the Warehouse cellar. This restored section has one long street, known as Whiteswomen St. En route home, the ladies stopped at Rosevill and Crooksville, the pottery center of the state, and through Lancaster, a scenic route.

GRADUATES—Kimberley K. Emrick (center), and her twin brothers, Jim (left) and Tim Emrick (right), were among the graduates this month at South Plantation High School in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Emrick, formerly of Washington C.H., and the grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Groves, 822 E. Paint St. and Mrs. Margaret Emrick, Washington Manor Court.

Think thin

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

DIETING needn't be dull, though it often seems to be. The trick is to vary the menu. Try new foods and different combinations to give yourself a change of taste.

A vegetable dieters can enjoy is the Brussels sprout. A member of the cabbage family, it is high in vitamins A and C and contributes fair amounts of iron. Its mellow flavor is most appealing.

Here's a salad that's a meal in itself, easy to make, too. It combines a convenient frozen vegetable with hard-cooked eggs and pimiento. The count in calories is only 118 per serving:

ON-A-DIET SALAD

2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen California Brussels sprouts, partially thawed
½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
6 tablespoons low-calorie Italian dressing
6 lettuce leaves
6 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 canned pimiento, cut into 6 strips

Prepare sprouts according to package directions, adding monosodium glutamate. Drain, if necessary. Mix with 4 tablespoons of the dressing. Chill several hours, stirring occasionally. Arrange approximately ½ cup marinated Brussels sprouts on each lettuce leaf with 1 egg and 1 pimiento strip. Sprinkle each serving with 1 teaspoon of remaining dressing.

Serves 6.

Approximately 118 calories per serving.

For a company dinner, nothing makes more sense than a one-dish entree. Even if dieting, you can enjoy the sprouts and chicken (don't eat the skin) in this skillet; but go easy on the long grain and wild rice, settling for a taste. Dieting needn't mean swearing off favorite foods. You can still enjoy them, but learn to enjoy them in much smaller portions.

CHICKEN AMERICANA

1 (3½ pound) broiler-fryer chicken, cut up
Paprika
¼ cup butter or margarine
Salt and pepper
1 package (6 ounces) long grain and wild rice mix
1 can (12 ounces) vegetable juice cocktail
½ cup pitted ripe olives, halved
2 canned pimientos, cut into thin strips
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen California Brussels sprouts

Sprinkle chicken with paprika and brown in 2 tablespoons of the butter in skillet. Cover and simmer abut 30 minutes. Remove chicken and sprinkle well on both sides with salt and pepper.

Discard fat in skillet. Brown white rice from mix in remaining 2 tablespoons butter in skillet.

Reserve ½ cup of vegetable juice. Add enough water to remaining juice to make 2¾ cups liquid. Stir into rice in skillet along with wild rice and herb sauce from mix. Return chicken to skillet; cover and simmer about 30 minutes or until rice and chicken are tender. Sprinkle olives and pimiento over chicken the last 10 minutes of cooking.

Cook sprouts according to package directions, using the ½ cup vegetable juice for half of liquid. Drain sprouts and spoon around chicken in skillet or on serving platter.

Serves 4 to 6.

When you cook new potatoes in their skin, do so in about an inch of boiling salted water. Use about one-quarter teaspoon salt for each half-cup of water.

Jones' observe anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Jones, 1689 White Rd., observed their silver wedding anniversary at a carry-in dinner recently in their home. Hosts for the occasion were their family, Mr. and Mrs. Roger M. Garringer and son, Jason, Mr. and Mrs. Jon R. Creamer and daughter, Krista, and Barry Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones were married June 6, 1949, in the Xenia Church of Christ by the Rev. J. W. Jordan. Mr. Jones is a farmer.

Pink streamers adorned the gift and cake table. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the table with white candles on each side. A floral arrangement, a gift from their son, Barry, who resides in Florida, centered the dining room table.

Present for the meal were Mr. and Mrs. Jon Creamer and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Garringer and son, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Daughtrey, Mr. and Mrs. James Bone, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Cook and daughter, Heather, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Minshall, and Miss Imogene Daughtrey. Arriving later in the day for homemade ice cream and cake were Mr. and Mrs. Jean Creamer and Mrs. and Mrs. Eugene Creamer, who served as best man and maid of honor at the guest's of honor's wedding.

Also sending gifts were Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Woodmansee and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Breakall, Miss Cheryl McNew and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brown.

One investigator seeking the origin of tektites — small glassy blobs that many scientists believe originated on the moon — suggested that a comet head collided with the earth, exploding with the energy of a half-million hydrogen bombs, and scattering bits of melted earth materials.

Columbus man sentenced on 3 charges

A Columbus man was heavily fined and handed a 30-day suspended jail sentence in Municipal Court Monday after he pleaded guilty to three charges filed by city police.

Vernon C. Rose, 49, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated, following too closely and having a stolen operator's license in his possession. In addition to the suspended sentence, Rose was fined $325 and incarcerated for the mandatory three days on the DWI charge.

The two traffic charges were filed after an accident in Washington C.H. During the investigation, city police found that the license was one of many that were stolen from the Bureau of Motor Vehicles warehouse in Aug. 1973.

A charge of assault filed against Richard A. Grondalski, 25, of 730 Broadway, was dismissed at the request of the plaintiff.

The earth's atmosphere weighs an estimated 5,809 trillion tons.

Head Start program opens here

The local Headstart program opened classes Monday with 92 students present, according to Roger Mickle, program director.

Mickle said a total of 115 students were registered for the program and vacancies still existed for five more. Classes are being held at Jeffersonville, Staunton, Blomingburg elementary schools in Fayette County and at Eastside and Rose Avenue elementary schools in the city. Seven teachers are in charge of the classes. They are assisted by 14 girls in the Neighborhood Youth Corps program and seven mothers also working as aides.

Mickle said the program is open to pre-school and kindergarden children on the basis of family income and number of persons in the family. The program is funded by the federal government.

An accompaying health program provides for a tuberculosis skin test and dental checkups for the students. Mickle said physical examinations were also provided to the new students in the program, all at no cost to the parents. Any dental work needed is also without charge to the parents and any additional medical attention needed, not covered by insurance, is also paid for by the program.

Static isometric exercises dangerous to some people

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Popular isometric exercises may slim many people, but they can bring death to those with high blood pressure, according to two Texas doctors.

The doctors emphasized that they were referring specifically to static exercise — tensing muscles against fixed objects — and not to dynamic exercise which includes jogging, swimming, bicycling, rowing and rhythmic calistenics.

The doctors, Jere H. Mitchell and Norman M. Kaplan of the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas, presented their findings on exercise and high blood pressure Friday during a symposium sponsored by the University of Texas and the University of Oklahoma.

Kaplan said high blood pressure leads to heart diseases that kill 3,000 persons a day in the United States, and the wrong kind of exercise may be responsible for a lot of those deaths.

"The kind of exercises you see advertised are the isometric type ... that make you look sexy and muscular. They may be good if you are a normal person, but can kill you if you have high blood pressure," Kaplan said.

"It takes very little actual pressure against a fixed object to increase the blood pressure," he said. "A person with high blood pressure with very little effort can have his pressure increased by 50 points and that is a dangerous thing."

Trial set Wednesday for prison escapees

A trial has been scheduled Wednesday for three state prison inmates who were involved in a bizarre escape attempt March 27 which resulted in the death of a colleague.

The trio, David Pilkington, 29, of Olmstead, Robert Laws, 27, of Columbus, and Donald Nickerson, 45, of Vandalia, will appear in Ross County Common Pleas Court, Chillicothe, on charges escape, aggravated burglary and three counts of kidnaping. They were charged in a five-count joint indictment returned by the Ross County grand jury.

Pilkington, Nickerson and Laws, all serving life sentences in the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility at Lucasville, escape from custody March 27 while being transported from Lucasville to Columbus for trials in Franklin County Common Pleas Court.

A fourth escapee, Doyle W. Manning, 35, of Indianapolis, Ind., was killed during an exchange of gunfire with a Washington C.H. police officer.

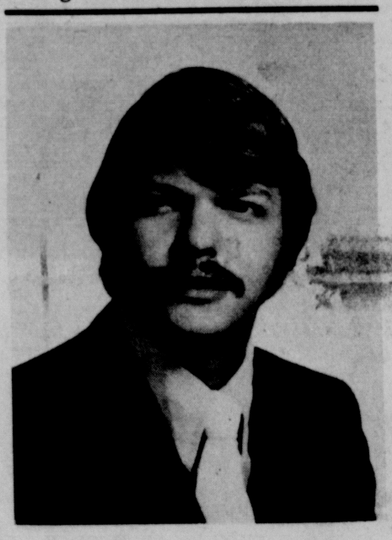

THE FOUR convicts attempted to strangle Milton E. Cramer, a 66-year-old former Franklin County Sheriff's deputy, with a makeshift wire noose and later poured an ether-like fluid on him through a wire fence separating them from the driver's seat.

With the elderly deputy as a hostage, they drove to a farm house on U.S. 35 about five miles west of Chillicothe near Ater's Lake.

There they held at gunpoint and handcuffed Cramer, Irene Birchwell, and a two-year-old boy, After ripping out the telephone, they stole a station wagon and sedan from the farm and headed toward Fayette County.

Nickerson and Pilkington were captured by Fayette County Sheriff's Sgt. William R. Crooks following a high-speed chase and eventual collision on the Old Chillicothe Road, just east of Washington C.H.

Laws, who was riding with Manning in one of the two stolen cars, was apprehended after a number of armed officers surrounded the Charles W. Ellis residence, 436 E. Market St.

GRADUATE — Michael Oswald, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Oswald, 805 Briar Ave., graduated Sunday from the University of Cincinnati where he majored in pharmacy. He received the 'student affairs committee award.' Having served his internship at Risch's Drug Store in Washington C. H., he has accepted a position with Risch's Drugs in Logan, where he will reside on Homer Ave. Attending the commencement exercises besides his parents were his sisters, Jeannie, Kathy, Barbara, and Mrs. Charles VanWassenhove and Mr. Vanwassenhove of Cincinnati.

$396,902 spent by Glenn campaign

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Democratic U.S. Senate nominee John Glenn's campaign organization reported Monday it spent $396,902 between Jan. 1 and May 31, the bulk of it on the former astronaut's primary election battle.

Citizens for John Glenn reported receipts for the same period of $357,493 in campaign expense statements filed with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

Monday's filing was for the period of April 28 through May 31, during which the organization listed receipts of $108,-291 and expenditures of $128,619.

Summer youth job program to open on Monday

A limited number of applications are still being accepted for the Community Action Commission's summer youth program, according to Fred Rost, program director.

Rost said the program was funded for 95 youths, but only a few positions remained to be filled. The jobs will begin Monday and run to Aug. 30.

The program is funded by the state government and will provide jobs for 95 economically disadvantaged youths in local non-profit organizations or departments, including city and county government.

Each youth will be permitted to work only 20 hours per week at the federal minimum wage of $2 per hour. Applicants must be at least 15 years of age and must be returning to school next fall to qualify for the program, Rost said. Youths not returning to school cannot apply.

Counselor for the program will be Marty Jones, Bloomingburg, a recent graduate of Central State University.

Those areas in which the youths will be working are Head Start program, Fayette Memorial Hospital, city and county street and highway departments, Kiddie Kare Center, city, county and township cemeteries, Fairground maintenance, and several other areas.

Woman injured in city crash

A accident involving cars driven by Roy Allen Taylor, 34, of Bainbridge and Martha Lou Fairchild, 19, of 205 N. Fayette St., resulted in injury to the passenger in the Fairchild auto; Martha Burkhardt, 20, of 205 N. Fayette St.

Ms. Burkhardt was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital and treated for a lacerated forehead and contusions of the left elbow and right knee. She was released.

The mishap, which occurred at 2:04 p.m. Monday, took place in the Washington Square Shopping Center parking lot, near the First National Bank.

Moderate damage was reported to both autos, city police reported.

An accident which occurred at the intersection of Fourth and S. North streets at 5:52 p.m. Monday involved cars driven by Donna Jean Pollock, 27, of 324 E. Elm St., and Ronald D. Forsha, 19, of 621 S. North St.

Ms. Pollock was charged by city police with failure to yield right of way and moderate damage was done to both cars.

A car driven by Dena C. Neitz, 19, Staunton-Sugar Grove Rd., struck a brick retaining wall owned by Jess Gilmore at 12:54 p.m. Monday.

Ms. Neitz attempted to pass another auto while traveling west on Leesburg Avenue, near Colonial Court and had to hit the brakes when that auto also started to pass. She skidded off the roadway and into the wall.

Police reported slight damage and no injury.

FOLLOW THE CARS, OR FOLLOW THE SIGNS — Since the stream of cars flowing to the Fayette County Airport is not always continuous, the Fayette County Pilots Association decided to help motorists on Ohio 38-N follow the signs. Jack Sanders held the new signs while Eddie Pendergraft checked to make sure they were straight and level. The association recently put up both signs and painted the support.

Memorial services in honor of the late Mrs. Carolyn Murdock, of Washington will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at Camp Murdock, near South Salem.

Mrs. Murdock was extremely active in the Camp Fire Girls program in Fayette County and Washington C. H. until her death last Aug. 19. She donated the land for the camp site in Ross County to the Camp Fire Girls.

A bronze plaque and large bird feeding station will be dedicated in Mrs. Murdock's memory during Sunday afternoon's ceremonies.

The Rev. Charles Kirsch, pastor of the Christ United Methodist Church in Kettering, will officiate at the memorial services.

Camp Fire Girls from the Paint Valley Council will be attending the service.

13 measures await action

Pay hike ordinance on Council's agenda

Thirteen pieces of legislation, four dealing with pay increases for city employes, will be considered by members of Washington C.H. City Council during its regular semi-monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

City Manager Dan Wolford said Council members will consider an emergency ordinance authorizing the payment of salary and wage increases due retroactively from Jan. 1, 1974 to city employes.

THE PAY increase measure was drafted by Council members following discussions with the city employes. The pay hike ordinance has been displeasing to members of the Washington C.H. Police Department.

Wolford said the city's legislators will also be considering an emergency ordinance establishing overtime pay policies and authorizing and prescribing a method for the payment of overtime.

Also, Council will be acting upon an emergency ordinance which is designed to adopt an integrated table of rates and salary rangers for city employes.

Ordinances dealing with the assignment of classifications and pay ranges for city employes and fixing the compensation of various positions and offices will also be taken care of by Council members.

Two ordinances to provide for the purchase of the first issue of clothing for uniformed members of the Washington C.H. police and fire departments also appears on the heavy City Council agenda. The ordinances provide for an annual clothing allowance for both departments after the first issue.

Council will act on an ordinance to accept the application for the annexation of a 0.94-acre tract in Union Township into Washington C.H.

An ordinance authorizing the employment of a special counsel to prepare and approve proceedings for the issuance of a proposed note for Washington C.H. in anticipation of the issuance of bonds to pay the city's portion of the cost of improving, in cooperation with the State of Ohio, Elm and Temple streets by widening and paving and by constructing curbs, gutter and storm sewers will also confront Council members.

AN ADDITIONAL ordinance will provide for the issuance of a note in anticipation of the issuance of bonds to pay the city's portion of the street improvement project.

Council will also consider an ordinance authorizing the employment of special counsel to prepare and approve proceedings for the issuance of a proposed note in anticipation of the issuance of bonds for the purpose of paying part of the costs of improving and expanding the city's sewage treatment plant.

An accompanying ordinance will provide for the issuance of a note to pay the city's portion of the improvements at the sewage treatment plant.

Chamber board slates session

A short work session for the 1974-75 Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors has been scheduled for 8 a.m. Wednesday by incoming president Bruce Galloway.

The session, according to Galloway, will deal primarily with a program of work area assignments for the coming year.

Old-Fashioned Bargain Days planning will highlight the Wednesday meeting of the Chamber's Downtown Business Association. Chairman Ray Downing said the four-day event will be held July 31-Aug. 3, in downtown Washington C.H. Bargain Days is generaly one of the year's largest promotions.

The association will also elect a 1974-75 chairman at Wednesday's session, to be held in the Chamber of Commerce office at 8:30 a.m.

Wheel, tire stolen as driver snoozes

A wheel and tire were stolen from a semi while the driver slept in the cab, according to the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

Virgil Petsche, of Prairie Du Chain, Wis., probably wishes he wasn't such a sound sleeper.

While he dozed in his semi trailer cab, parked at Stop 35, U.S. 35 and I-71, someone cut through a five-sixteenths inch chain and a double lock in order to steal his spare tire and wheel.

Sheriff's deputies stated the theft occurred sometime between Sunday night and Monday morning and are investigating.

Petsche is employed by Pre-Fab Transit Co., Farmer City, Ill.

A go-cart valued at $100 and belonging to James Mossbarger, 1350 N. North St., was taken from the side of his house where it was parked, sometime between 1 p.m. Saturday and 7 a.m. Monday, sheriff's deputies reported.

A car belonging to Jerry L. Quickle, Lynchburg, was stolen at 5:50 p.m. Monday, from the Mini Bar, Ohio 41-S.

Sheriff's deputies described the auto as a 1964 green Chevy, with fishing equipment in it and a checkbook owned by Donald Hall.

When Roma Bishop, Wilmington Road, returned from the restroom at Bert's Bar, 703 Delaware St., she discovered $52 taken from her pruse.

City police reported the theft took place sometime between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. Monday.

Funds allocated for vo-ed work

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education Monday approved allocation of $16.5 million in state and federal funds for 15 vocational education construction projects around Ohio.

The allocations completed state action on providing matching funds for all locally voted vocational education projects approved in the state to date.

In addition, the board approved $3.8 million in matching aid from previously appropriated funds for the proposed Columbus Metropolitan Career Center.

The latest allocations are contingent upon the release of state funds from the state lottery and federal vocational funds, and will not become available before next February.

Meanwhile, a move Monday to put in a bid with the General Assembly, before it adjourns for the summer, for state lottery proceeds for schools was tabled by the board.

The board acted on a motion by board President John Meckstroth of Cincinnati, who said members could not adequately request a particular amount of money without first studying the funds available.

Board member Anthony Russo of Cleveland had proposed the board ask the legislature to give schools $52 million from lottery proceeds.

Meckstroth said he objected only to the timing of the proposal, which he said Russo presented to members just prior to Monday's meeting.

The tabling had the effect of killing the proposal for now, since the legislature is expected to adjourn before the board's next monthly meeting.

The $52 million figure came from a proposal in the Ohio House by Rep. Frederick Young, R—38 Dayton, who suggested it be passed on to school districts through an across-the-board $22 hike in the per-pupil state subsidy for next year.

The proposal failed to gain approval as opponents pointed out that the constitutional amendment approved by voters last year provided that lottery revenues go into the general fund without being earmarked for a specific use.

In other action, the board:

—Scheduled a hearing Sept. 9 on the board's new standards for school bus purchases.

—Approved these contracts for preparing vocational education teachers: Bowling Green State University, $113,437; Cleveland State, $46,417; Kent State, $391,229; Miami, $25,354; Ohio State, $1,110,070; Ohio, $96,129; Akron, $12,578; Cincinnati, $181,228; Toledo, $88,613.

—Dissolved the present Darke County Joint Vocational District and assigned the member school districts to other vocational districts.

Cincy school aide quits

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Citing frustration over the issue of integration, a top school aide resigned Monday just hours before the Cincinnati Board of Education ordered administrative staff reductions by 1975.

The board informed Supt. Donald Waldrip he is to "substantially reduce" the ranks of administrative personnel.

Stanley A. Marsh, an assistant of Waldrip's, announced he was giving up his $25,000-a-year job because of mounting political pressures.

"The real issue was the big frustration of not being able to do what I was trying to do," he said. Marsh said failure to integrate the school district led to his action.

"I don't think that integration, or desegregation, should be left up to the courts," he said.

Court nixes Ohio man's argument

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Ohio man's argument that all defendants in criminal cases are entitled to free, court-appointed lawyers was rejected Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Freddie L. Wells, arrested in Berea, Ohio, on a charge of disturbing the peace, said the Supreme Court's decisions guaranteeing court-appointed counsel for indigents discriminated against other citizens, particularly the middle class.

He contended that the government and the courts cannot constitutionally set the poor apart as eligible for free counsel if all citizens are to be protected equally before the law.

Berea City Law Director H. E. Whitaker said appointing counsel for all defendants who seek it would render state and local government "insolvent within a very short time."

"Treating all Americans exactly alike is not synonymous with guaranteeing constitutional rights to be enjoyed by all in a uniform application of each," Whitaker argued.

The Supreme Court rejected the case without comment.

Stewart named assistant prosecutor in Springfield

SPRINGFIELD—Albert Stewart Jr., a Springfield attorney and 1965 graduate of Washington High School, has been named assistant city prosecutor for Springfield Municipal Court following approval by the Springfield City Commission for the employment of an additional full-time attorney to ease the heavy workload and increase efficiency of the court.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stewart, 718 Church S.t., he resides at 1132 E. John St., Springfield.

The city prosecutor's office, which officials say has been severely understaffed for some time, is currently a one-man operation. Prosecutor Bertram Hack, assisted by a secretary, handles an average of 75 cases per week.

"We fell the appointment of Mr. Stewart will provide additional service to the community and aid in the prosecution of the current case load." Hack said.

ALBERT STEWART JR.

STEWART, who received his law degree in 1972 from Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, is associated with Robert E. Renshaw, a Springfield attorney, in the practice of law.

After his graduation from high school here, he attended Wilberforce University, where he received a bachelor of science degree in 1969, and was awarded his law degree three years later at Case Western Reserve University, where he served as a representative to the student bar association.

Stewart was associated with the Dayton Model Cities Program and was a social worker there in 1968. He was assistance director for the Springield Urban League in 1969 and since then was associated as a law clerk with the Cleveland Law Department and with the Cleveland law firm of Gaines, Rogers, Horton and Forbes.

He also served as a legal intern with the Cleveland Legal Aid Division. He later was a technical analysis writer and assistant to the resident attorney for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in Cleveland.

Stewart is married to the former Sarah Lewis, of Elkins, W. Va.

New technical college board eyes planning

HILLSBORO—The newly-created board of trustees of the General Technical College serving Adams, Brown, Clinton, Fayette and Highland counties has met and begun initial planning for the new district.

General aim of the district, with inherited facilities at Wilmington and Macon, will be to provide a comprehensive as well as low cost general studies, technical and continuing education program.

Facilities for the technical phase will be at the Laurel Oaks Vocational Center on the site of the former Clinton County Air Force Base near Wilmington and at the Tri-County Academic Center at Macon in Brown County.

DR. MAX LERNER, vice chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents, met with the board. Edwin P. Reffett, superintendent of the Southern Hills Joint Vocational School, was named temporary chairman of the board.

An organizational meeting will be held June 19. By-laws and election of officers will take place at the June 19 meeting. Hugh M. Rea and Richard P. Kimmett, both of Washington C.H., have been appointed by Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan to the board of trustees.

Trustees will govern the entire district and appoint an administrator, but no immediate action on the latter is forseen. State funding for the unit will not begin until July 1, 1975. The trustees must develop a detailed plan of operation to the board of regents for approval.

The University of Cincinnate will continue to operate the Tri-County Academic Center at Macon and the new board gradually will assume control.

Funds totaling $1.25 million have been set aside for a new 34,000 square foot facility in Brown County. The center is currently an evening operation at Eastern High School.

'White-collar crime' under fire

By DEAN LOKKEN
Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mention "white-collar crime" and you're apt to evoke images of mild-mannered bank clerks skimming a few hundred dollars or office workers swiping company supplies.

But state and federal officials have uncovered in Utah what they say is white-collar crime running into millions of dollars, and they're filing charges in an attempt to halt it.

At a time when 14 individuals and three companies were indicted, federal officials said the crackdown was just beginning.

"When all criminal cases are finally completed, the Internal Revenue Service expects to have presented cases to the Department of Justice and the U.S. attornies' offices for prosecution in excess of 60 individuals on various federal tax violations," said C. Evan Wride, acting district director of the IRS in Utah.

The IRS attack on white-collar crime in Utah is being made by a special team of investigators operating under the title of "Project Shell." The name is derived from so-called shell corporations — publicly held, dormant companies with no assets or liabilities.

Of 63,000 corporations listed by the secretary of state, roughly half are shells, an assistant secretary of state says. Promoters buy control of the dormant companies, sell their stock and make off with the money.

Wride says one group acquired a company whose stock was worthless in late 1968, pumped questionable assets into it and managed to sell the stock for $13 a share.

W. Jerry Ungricht, assistant Utah attorney general, was hired nearly three years ago to investigate securities problems.

He says the state attorney general's investigation into securities frauds "mushroomed to the point where we felt we needed federal assistance." The federal Law Enforcement Planning Agency this month approved nearly $100,000 for a "Economic Crime Unit" to help the state.

Ungricht admits the state has been lax until recent years in policing securities transactions. He said the Uniform Securities Act, adopted in the early 1960s, is mainstay of state prosecutors.

"There was practically no prosecution up until now. County attorneys just weren't equipped to deal with it. It's very complicated and they didn't have the staffs to turn loose for several months of investigation on a single case," he said.

Agents estimate stolen stocks in the area run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars and phony stocks into the millions of dollars.

Charles D. Brennan, agent-incharge of the Salt Lake City FBI office, said individuals are losing $5,000 to $50,000 in stock swindles.

He said fraudulent stock issued on Utah-based companies is turning up all over the country and in foreign countries.

Ohioan sought in brutal murder

MIAMI (AP)—Dade County sheriff's deputies said Monday they had issued a nationwide alert for an ex-convict who killed a lonely old man who took him in and tried to give him a fresh start in life.

Neighbors said George Kistler, 65, was a nice old man who had been lonely since his wife died of cancer in 1966.

They added it was typical of Kistler to take in the ex-convict, Thomas W. Reau, 20, of Shelby, Ohio.

Deputies said the neighbors began to get a bit uneasy when they saw the ex-convict leave in Kistler's car May 24 and Kistler wasn't seen around his apartment building after that.

But it wasn't until June 2 that deputies were called to Kistler's apartment by neighbors who reported a foul smell in the building.

The deputies said they found Kistler, 65, lying in his kitchen. He had been beaten to death.

It has been hot in Miami this spring, and deputies said the air conditioning system in the building had worked so hard that it took a long time for the body to decompose to the point where the neighbors noticed it.

"We've started a nationwide search for Reau, and we are preparing the paperwork for the FBI to issue an unlawful flight warrant," a sheriff's department spokesman said Monday. "We really want to find this one."

Deputies said Reau was taken in by Kistler early in May.

"Mr. Kistler's car was found abandoned in Beaver Falls, Pa," the spokesman said. "We're concentrating our search in Ohio and other Midwestern areas where Reau worked as a laborer."

Deputies said Reau was released a few months ago from the Florida State Penitentiary, where he served 18 months for possession and sale of marijuana.

He also had a history of arrests on charges of grand larceny, burglary and resisting arrest with violence, officers said.

School charter rulings upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court Monday let stand an appellate court ruling upholding the Ohio State Board of Education's revocation of the charters of two school districts.

The board had revoked the charters of the Bloomfield-Mespo and Farmington local school districts, both in Trumbull County, for failure to comply with state regulations.

The revocations were ordered June 14, 1971, on the basis of recommendations of a referee who conducted hearings under the Ohio Administrative Procedure Act.

Money Does Matter . . .

By Robert E. Harper

PUT THEM TO WORK— FOR PAY, THAT IS . . .

Dr. George Crane, in one of his recent WORRY CLINIC newspaper columns, presented some advice designed to correct the modern tendency of some youth to be anti-establishment, dedicated to a "do it for me" philosophy.

Among other things he said:

"Avoid the un-American idea of giving children cash allowances.

"Instead, operated on the piecework plan whereby your parents pay for certain stipulated tasks around the house.

"Then they will no longer develop the typical playboy attitude that they are entitled to something for nothing.

"Instead they will realize that they can't blame dad and mother for their lack of funds, for it is then their own inertia and sloth that keeps their pocketbook empty.

"Always see to it that there are plenty of 'pay' chores available.

"Remember, it is not the youth who have worked for their own spending money who are the shiftless hippie generation!;;

Concerning the area Chamber of Commerce

Congratulations to out going president Fred Domenico for a job well done. Best wishes to incoming president Bruce Galloway for the upcoming year. Also, best wishes to the new incoming officers.

Congratulations to outstanding athlete Chuck Wilson for receiving the honored Christman award.

Congratulations to David Persinger upon being selected to appear in Who's Who American high school students, the largest award publication in the nation.

Just as it is important that parents set down good conduct and discipline guidelines for their growing children, it is also vital that as adults, we develop and maintain good money - management disciplines. Credit explosion causes worries

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the years from 1967 to 1973 there occurred what often is called an explosion of credit, amounting to $600 billion. And what are the projections for the next six years? Somewhere around $1.5 trillion.

This is the amount that government, business and households are expected to need if other projections are to be fulfilled, mainly those that call for a continued expansion of the economy and an upgrading of the quality of life.

Tremendous plans are on the agenda.

Corporations hope to enlarge and make their plants more productive in order to reduce the shortages of goods. And they are being compelled by law to make their plants more ecologically acceptable and more wholesome for workers.

The federal government seems bent on providing more and more services and may be unable or unwilling to cut its increasing demands for financing. That means all other borrowers will have stiff competition for funds.

Individuals and householders have learned to rely on credit to finance the life styles they have been led to believe are rightfully theirs, even if they haven't the cold cash in hand.

All these plans would seem reason for great excitement among financiers, but the truth is they are producing apprehension instead. Nobody really knows how all the money is going to be raised.

Speaking at a Conference Board meeting a few days ago, Dimitri N. Balatsos, economist and vice president of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., listed some of the problem areas that worry some financial men.

—Corporate profits could continue under pressure for the entire period, lessening the appeal of stock investments. High interest rates and labor costs, and demands for greater social responsibility, might cut into earnings.

—The alternative to equity financing through the stock market is to borrow. But during this period some $25 billion of maturing bonds must be refinanced. That is, old bills must be paid before taking on new ones.

—Savings might fail to keep pace with economic activity. The demographic makeup of the population is charging, with the 25-45 year age group showing the biggest increase. These are spenders; they have a low propensity to save.

Based on current understanding of the situation, severe bottlenecks seem inevitable. Balatsos retains some optimism, although it seems to arise more from faith than from any evidence now available.

During the latter part of the Middle Ages, he notes, the mood was somber and people were preoccupied with death. They didn't know that the Renaissance was in the making.

Could it be that a financial renaissance is in the making? We better hope so.

Remark by Hays ignites Brazilians

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, has come under sustained fire from Brazilian newspapers and officials for questioning the worth of the Brazilian expeditionary force in World War II.

Hays asserted at House Foreign Relations committee hearings on military aid to Latin America that Brazilian troops never got within 500 miles of the front.

The congressman's statement was published here Friday, and since then angry retorts from veterans have made daily headlines.

Sen. Paulo Torres termed Hays' statement "ridiculous."

An army ministry spokesman said the congressman's "ridiculous remarks do not deserve a reply."

The National Council of Former Combatants of Brazil said it would make no formal protest to U.S. authorities.

"Happily, what that congressman said does not represent the thinking of the American people," said retired Gen. Plino Pitaluga, president of the Council. "The U.S. secretary of defense knows our history, and that is what is important."

At the same House hearings, Defense Secretary James Schlesinger termed Brazil one of America's most faithful allies in the Italian campaign.

Roberto Botelho da Costa, a veteran who writes for the Sao Paulo newspaper Diario Popular, called Hays a "lightweight American congressman" and commented; "As that American understands it, the nearly 30,000 Brazilian men sent to the Italian theater of operations went there to be tourists, tourists around destruction and ashes. A beautiful tourism, without doubt, if it weren't for the 500 dead, the nearly 2,000 wounded and maimed, and so many dozen missing."

Rubens Leye de Andrade, who lost a leg with the expeditionary force, told the newspaper O Globo: "I feel like showing my mechanical leg to the American legislator. I guess it was necessary for me to lose my leg for a politician to say things like that today."

Planes in search of missing aircraft

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Planes of the Ohio Civil Air Patrol were searching today for a light aircraft that disappeared on a flight between Columbus and Islip, N.Y.

The CAP said the last known position of the plane was in the Zanesville area at 7 p.m. Friday.

Airports get improvement funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Airports serving Ohio's big cities are receiving a total of $700,000 for safety and security improvements.

The State Controlling Board authorized the expenditure Monday at the request of the Department of Transportation. Equal sums of $100,000 are earmarked for airports in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Youngstown, Toledo, and Akron-Canton.

Officials said the improvements will include fire-crash rescue equipment, navigational aids, television monitoring systems, security fencing, runway lighting, and others. The improvements are being financed with federal revenue sharing funds.

In other business, at its bimonthly meeting, the board approved requests totaling more than $3.7 million for construction of the new police training academy in London, Ohio.

It authorized the expenditure of $8.6 million for sewage treatment facilities in Circleville at the request of the Ohio Water Development Authority. A total of $63,950 was released for a survey of fire alarm systems at 16 institutions operated by the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

The board also released $12,700 for the construction of "barrier free" wheel chair ramps at the Statehouse and in the Ohio Departments Building on Front St. in downtown Columbus. That amount is part of $134,695 the legislature budgeted for similar improvements in various state buildings.

Two requests totaling more than $1.2 million were approved for the Department of Natural Resources.

These included $343,400 for the purchase of nearly 300 acres in Lucas County from the Toledo Trust Co. for the Maumee Bay State Park, and 591 acres from the same firm and other owners for $849,000 for the same park.

In other action, the board approved:

—$100,000 for the judiciary branch as the state's share of retired judges' salaries for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

—$392,958 for the adjutant general for construction of an Army maintenance shop on Tracy Road in Wood County. Federal cost of the project was listed at $902,694.

—$148,080 for the Youth Commission to enter into personal service contracts with 12 physicians serving eight institutions under the commission's jurisdiction.

—$311,802 for the Rehabilitation Services Commission to enter into agreements with 22 physicians for personal services during the fiscal year starting July 1.

—$25,000 for the Department of Natural Resources to purchase 11.6 acres of land in Summit County for the Cuyahoga Valley State Park.

—$20,540 for the Department of Natural Resources for marina facilities at Springfield Lake in Summit County.

—$50,316 for the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation for improvements at Tiffin State Hospital.

Daughter joins mother as partner in law firm

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Lucille Coughlin waited until she was a grandmother before returning to college to earn her law degree.

So did her daughter Nancy.

Lucille Coughlin was born in October.

So was daughter Nancy.

Lucille Coughlin was an only child.

So was daughter Nancy.

Lucille Coughlin taught a course in secretarial skills before she became a lawyer.

So did daughter Nancy.

Lucille Coughlin married a lawyer.

So did daughter Nancy.

Now there's one more item in the parallel lives of Mrs. Coughlin, 73, and daughter Nancy Appleton, 46. Mrs. Appleton last month became a partner in her mother's law firm.

It was in 1952 that Mrs. Coughlin entered the University of Miami at age 51 to earn a law degree so she could be a partner in the firm that belonged to her husband, John. She had been his legal secretary for many years.

She was graduated cum laude from the law school. When he died seven years ago, she took over the firm.

Nancy followed in mother's footsteps 18 years later. She entered the same law school, completing the three-year course in two years and three months.

Mrs. Coughlin is proud that she still has all the clients her husband had at his death.

"One man left," she says. "He wasn't too sure about having a woman for a lawyer. But three years later he came and asked if I'd take him back."

The mother-daughter law firm specializes in civil and corporate law.

Less gasoline for Ohioans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio is one of six states getting less gasoline in June than in May, on the basis of average daily supplies, the Federal Energy Office said Monday.

The FEO said it allocated Ohio 14.17 million gallons of gasoline per day this month, a decline of 7.6 per cent from May. The allocation amounts to 94.9 per cent of supplies in June, 1972.

The other states with smaller average daily supplies are Hawaii, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York.

For Ohio, the daily supply for June puts it just above the national average of 94.8 per cent of 1972 levels. The nationwide gasoline supply for June is 4.3 per rent higher than for May.

New real estate mortgages total $1,470,168 in May

New real estate mortgages totaling $1,470,168.52 were recorded in Fayette County during May, a large decrease when compared with the previous month's figure of $2,747,149.14.

Mortgage releases totaled $1,162,682.26. During April mortgage releases were $1,316,725.62.

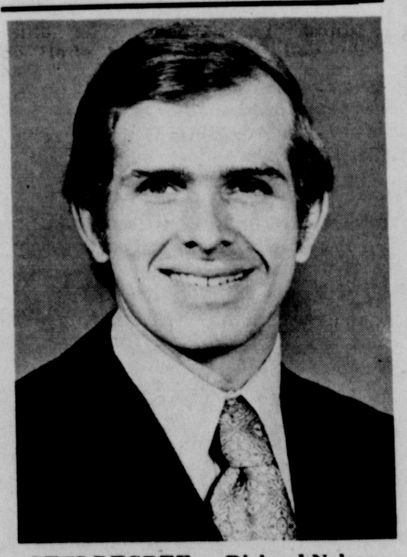

The new mortgage figure includes $918,568.52 on 67 lots and other platted properties and $551,600 on 610.32 acres of farm real estate in 20 transactions.

Released during the month were $406,816 in mortgages on 43 lots; $233,366.26 in liens on 628.38 acres of farm property in 13 transactions and a commercial mortgage totaling $522,500, according to the report prepared by Mrs. Lorie M. Armbrust, county recorder.

A TOTAL of 105 deeds were recorded in May, 30 of them changing title to 696.08 acres of farm real estate. There were seven certificates of transfer for lots and five for rural properties.

Other instruments recorded in May were:

One affidavit for transfer, one right of way and easement, two court orders for transfer, one re-recording of a deed, seven cemetery deeds, four open-end mortgages, one land contract, one re-recording of a mortgage, one supplemental mortgage indenture, one open-end mortgage release, four recorded mortgage releases, 12 recorded partial mortgage releases, four recorded mortgage assignments, one mortgage assignment, three certificates of mergers, one recorded lease release, one recorded lien, two creditor's lists, three leases, one lease modification, one lease assignment, one mechanic's lien, two power of attorney, 17 soldier's discharges, 119 financing statements and one notice of trustee in bankruptcy.

GETS DEGREE — Richard Nelson, son of Mrs. Ruth Nelson, Ohio 41-N, and the late Samuel F. Nelson, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Veterinary medicine from Ohio State University at the June 7 commencement exercises in St. John Arena, Columbus. Dr. Nelson graduated from Miami Trace High School in 1967 and entered OSU as an honor student. He is a member of the Alpha Psi Fraternity and the Student Chapter of American Veterinary Medical Association. He and his wife, the former Judy Mills, of Mount Vernon, plan to move to Delaware in the near future to establish practice there.

WILLIE THE HAMMER — Pittsburgh Pirates Willie Stargell uses a sledgehammer to warm-up in Chicago.

Expos handle Reds, 3-1

MONTREAL (AP) — For a moment it looked like the Cincinnati Reds were back up to their late-inning tricks. But there was a catch. Ken Singleton's.

The Montreal Expos' outfielder robbed the Reds' Joe Morgan of a two-run homer in the eighth inning Monday night to preserve a 3-1 triumph for pitcher Steve Renka.

Singleton snared Morgan's blast as it headed over the right field fence.

The twice-delayed game was finally called because of heavy showers with the Reds batting with one out in the ninth.

Renko, now 4-6, played a part with a bat too. He drilled a liner that got past a diving Cesar Geronimo for a triple, scoring a run. Earlier he scored after a walk, a sacrifice bunt by Ron Hunt, a single by Tim Foli and Willie Davis' line drive that Geronimo mishandled.

Geronimo, off to his best big league start, produced the Reds' lone run with a fifth inning homer. The hit kept his batting average above .300.

Jack Billingham, making his first start since May 31, drew the loss. He is now 6-4. The rangy righthander missed his last start due to a stiff shoulder.

The Expos struck for a pair of runs in the third inning, one a solo homer by catcher Barry Foote. Renko walked and came around to make it 2-0.

Bob Bailey opened the seventh with an opposite-field double and scored the third run on Renko's triple — the first of his career.

Johnny Bench and Tony Perez continued their torrid hitting streaks. The two, along with Dave Concepcion, had a pair of hits each.

The two clubs continue the series tonight with Cincinnati pitcher Roger Nelson, 3-4, facing Ohio native Dennis Blair, 1-1.

One of these days someone is really going to hit the roof at the Houston Astrodome. Mike Schmidt did Monday night ... in a matter of speaking.

The Philadelphia Phillies' infielder hit a ball in the first inning that appeared headed for home run territory in center field before it bounced off a speaker hanging from the roof of the chic glass house.

The ball fell back on the field and Schmidt got only a distinguished single out of it. Was he mad—even though the Phillies won the game, 12-0.

"If I'm one short of winning the National League home run title, I'll think back to this one that I didn't get," said Schmidt. "There's no doubt in my mind that it would have been a home run except for that speaker."

Houston centerfielder Cesar Cedeno thought so, too: "That ball might have hit the flag above the electronic scoreboard in centerfield if it hadn't hit the speaker."

As it was, the base hit was beneficial to the Philadelphia cause. It loaded the bases and set the stage for Bill Robinson's two-run double. A sacrifice fly by Mike Anderson staked Jim Lonborg to an early, three-run lead. It was all downhill after that.

Cardinals 4, Dodgers 2

Joe Torre led off the 11th inning with a home run into the left field pavilion at Dodger Stadium, helping St. Louis beat Los Angeles.

After Torre's blast off reliever Charlie Hough, 6-2, the Cardinals eventually added an insurance run on Jack Heidemann's single. Cardinal reliever Orlando Pena, 4-0, was the winner.

Padres 9, Pirates 8

Horace Clarke delivered a run-scoring single with two out in the ninth inning, capping a wild five-run rally that lifted San Diego over Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh built an 8-0 lead through 7½ innings, but starter Jim Rooker and a string of four relief pitchers could not stave off the Padres, who rallied for four runs in the bottom of the eighth and five in the ninth.

All-star balloting under way

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Wynn of the Los Angeles Dodgers may be leading the National League in home runs and tied for the lead in runs batted in, but in All-Star votes he's seventh among outfielders, according to figures released Monday by baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office.

Wynn, with 16 home runs and 51 RBI, has drawn 18,679 votes in the first week of fan balloting for the classic—nearly 64,000 fewer than the present leader, Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves.

Aaron, 40, who became the all-time home run king early in the season by hitting his 715th, got 82,121 votes to lead the league. Aaron, a member of every All-Star team since 1955, was followed by Reggie Smith of the St. Louis Cardinals with 57,756 and the Cardinals' Lou Brock with 45,605.

The next three players are Cincinnati's Pete Rose, Bobby Bonds of the San Francisco Giants, and Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell. After Wynn, Houston's Cesar Cedeno is eighth in the balloting, but in another surprise, the NL's leading hitter, Atlanta's Ralph Garr, is eighth.

The Reds have leaders at three other positions, according to this week's figures. Reds catcher Johnny Bench, with 64,116 votes, leads Ted Simmons of St. Louis by nearly 27,000; Joe Morgan tops second basemen with 44,501 ballots—almost 15,000 more than Dave Cash of the Philadelphia Phillies; and in the league's closest race, Dave Concepcion has 25,535 votes for shortstop to lead Philadelphia's Larry Bowa by 3,000.

Pittsburgh's Richie Hebner heads NL third basemen, drawing 23,980 votes to 19,893 for Atlanta's Derrell Evans, and first baseman Joe Torre of St. Louis, with 46,755 leads Cincinnati's Tony Perez by nearly 20,000. Steve Garvey of the Dodgers was another suprisingly weak draw, taking third behind Perez in the first baseman balloting despite sharing the RBI lead with teammate Wynn.

The first American League figures will be announced Friday. Balloting ends July 6 and the starting teams will be announced July 16. The pitchers for the NL team will be selected by New York Mets Manager Yogi Berra.

This year's game will be played at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium on Tuesday night, July 23.

U.S. Open jinx no bother for slammin' Sammy Snead

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — If the miserable, unshakable old character known as the "U. S. Open Jinx" is hanging around locker No. 538 at the Winged Foot Golf Club this week, Sam Snead is paying him no mind.

"It don't bother me none," the 62-year-old, sweet-swinging hillbilly from Hot Springs, Va., drawled. "As somebody once said, if it's not your life and not your wife, what difference does it make?"

Snead launches his 31st try for the U.S. Open crown, starting Thursday, and he insists he is not lying awake at night grieving over the half-dozen or so of the big championships that got away.

"If I've got a shot, it's a long one," Snead said. "All my life, it seems I get a sinking spell about this time every year— Open time, in June. I'm not putting good.

"People always say I get tight and press too hard in the Open and that's why I've never won. That's not so. Whether it's the Open, the Masters or any other tournament I give it a run.

"If it's my turn to win, I win. If it's somebody else's turn, I don't win. I think there's some unseen force that decides these things, and I believe it's been willed that I never win the Open, just as it looks like it's willed that Arnold Palmer will never win the PGA."

Snead, elevated to the list of Golf Immortals at the National Awards Dinner in New York Monday night, is one of the game's phenomenons. In a 41-year pro career, he has won 134 tournaments, including three Masters, three PGAs and the British Open—but never the U. S. Open.

"It looked like I was jinxed from the very first Open I played in 1937," he said. "I was in the club house with 283. Everybody was congratulating me. Then Ralph Guldahl had to sink 10-foot putts for bogeys on the 10th and 11th. On the 15th, he hit a ball which would have been almost unplayable and a spectator stopped it with his foot.

"He got a par when he would have been lucky to get a six. He won by two shots. Everything happened bad after that."

Similar mishaps confounded him in later years.

"You can't let it bug you," Sam said. "You gotta remember all you can do is play it free and easy. Some invisible force is calling the shots."

Hitters have big night

It was a hitter's night in the Washington Little League, Monday evening. In the first game, the Jets bombed the Mustangers 18-10 and Rotary Wheels blasted Downtown Drug 21-10 in the nightcap.

Clark Lee smashed a three run home run, his sixth of the season, and Chris Sheppard added another homer, as the Jets pounded out 16 hits The Mustangers were aided by 11 walks.

The Wheels rampaged for 17 hits in their victory. The big hit of the night was a home run by Tim Sowers.

In the Minor League, Elks defeated Helfrich 11-2 and Junior Firemen tagged Agrico 14-11 on three hitters.

NHL speeds up hockey games

MONTREAL (AP) — The National Hockey League passed sweeping changes Monday to speed up its hockey games, then put the theory into practice at the intraleague draft.

It took just 25 minutes for the 16 teams to conduct the draft, but the Buffalo Sabres' mischievous General Manager Punch Imlach found time to disrupt the activity by drafting a player who had been taken earlier in the proceedings.

The California Seals opened the draft by selecting defenseman Jim Neilson from the New York Rangers. The Rangers, with the option of taking compensation in cash or player personnel from the Seals, selected big forward Walt McKechnie.

The deal had been reported coming last week. McKechnie would go to the Rangers, then be traded by New York to the Boston Bruins for center Derek Sanderson.

The surprise came when Imlach selected McKechnie. His claim was disallowed by NHL President Clarence Campbell.

"I was looking for the best hockey player available," said Imlach. "McKechnie was the best player available at the time."

Imlach was upset because since the Rangers had already lost Neilson, McKechnie would automatically be protected in the NHL's expansion draft Wednesday. In effect, the Rangers would then be protecting 19 players—one over the limit.

Otherwise, there wasn't much action. The New York Islanders selected Dave Fortier from the Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers, the Vancover Canucks took Jim Wiley from the Pittsburgh Penguins, the St. Louis Blues drafted Brian Ogilvie from the Chicago Black Hawks and the Detroit Red Wings drafted Ron Busniuk from the Buffalo Sabres.

All the other clubs passed their choices.

Changes were made to stiffen penalty times for various infractions, and in goalie equipment repairs and substitutions.

Linesmen will be instructed to drop the pucks for faceoffs even if one center—after prior warning—is not suitably prepared for the faceoff.

The league also said Boston Bruins defenseman Bobby Orr was the only unanimous selection to the NHL All-Star team. He was joined on the first team by Bruins center Phil Esposito, Boston right wing Ken Hodge, left wing Rick Martin of Buffalo, and defenseman Brad Park of the Rangers. Bernie Parent, the goaltender who led Philadelphia to the Stanley Cup, was the first team netminder.

Tennis league being formed

Community Education is planning a tennis league for adults. The league play will be involving doubles teams only and the teams will be divided into three leagues.

Members of doubles teams may play in more than one league. The league divisions will be men's, women's and mixed.

An organizational meeting for the tennis program will be held in the Washington Junior High School gymnasium at 7:30 Wednesday. If anyone cannot attend the meeting, they should contact Hank Shaffer, 335-0291.

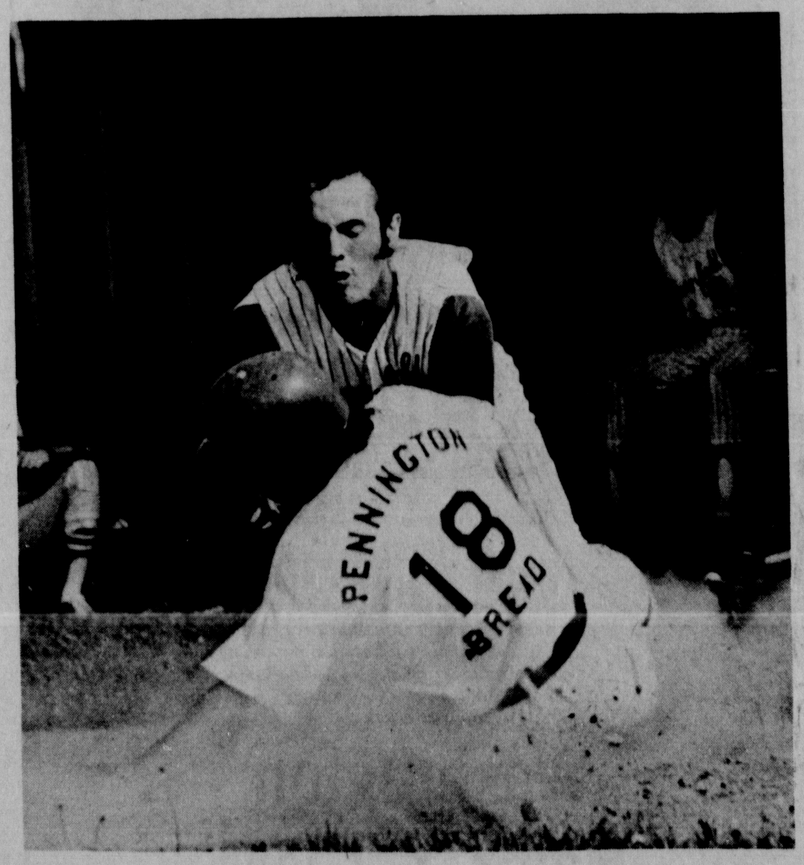

Girls' softball

In girls' softball play, Cupp's defeated Civil Air Patrol 20-11 in the Class A division and Jaycees edged Thompson Transfer 16-15 in Class B. Dianna Stewart and Sherry Elzy homered for the winners. Home runs for Thompsons' were hit by Kim Haithcock, Peggy Carter and Melody Leaverton.

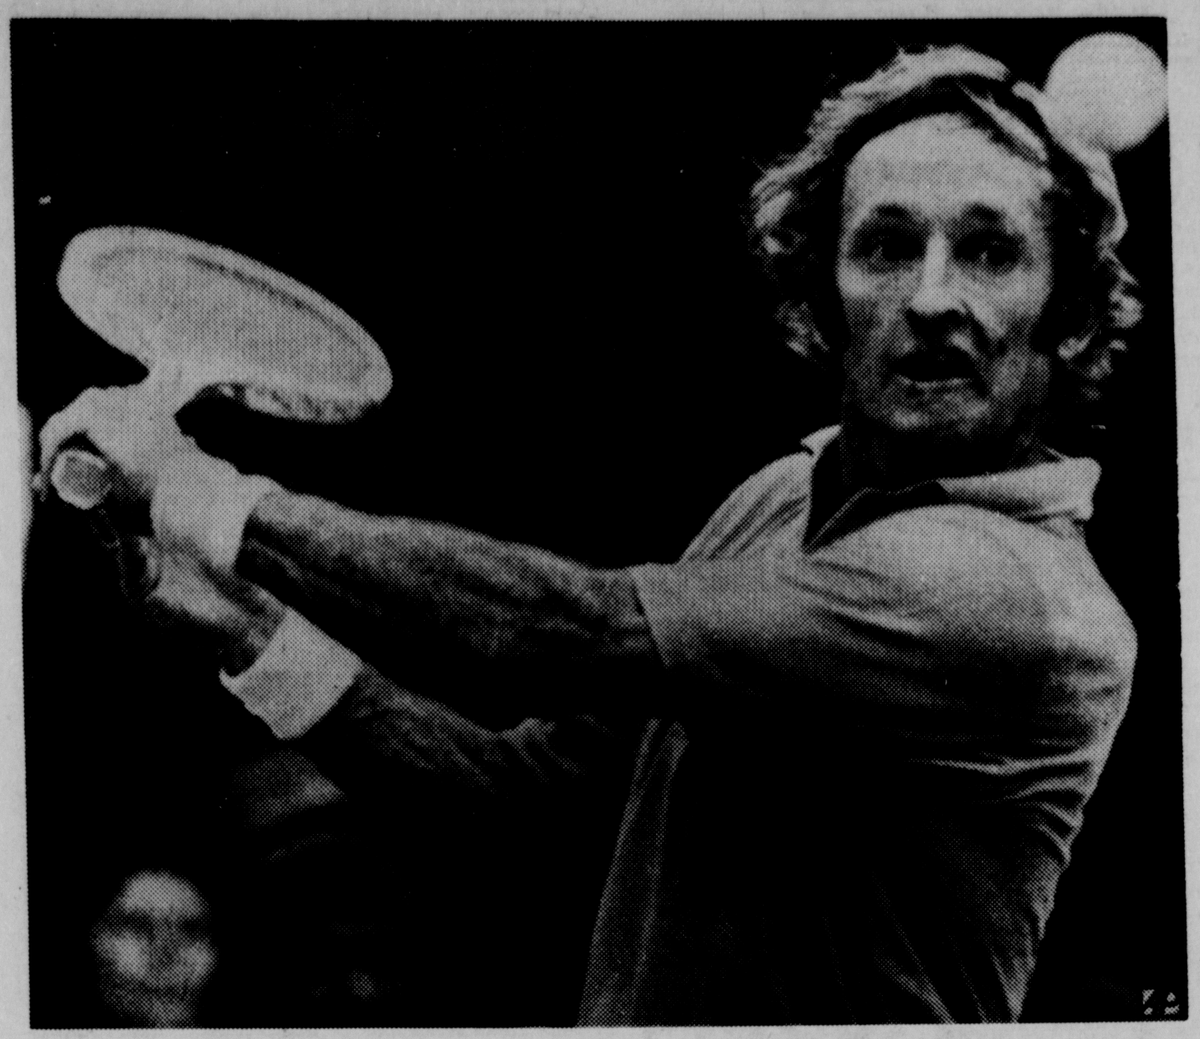

Swords may move

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—An official of the Buffalo Sabres of the National Hockey League confirmed a report Monday that the club's minor league club, the Cincinnati Swords, may be moved elsewhere.

"At the present moment, we are still in Cincinnati and still in the American Hockey League. But something might change that a little later," said Sabres' Assistant General Manager Freddie Hunt.

COLLISON COURSE — Greenfield's Steve Willett applies the tag to Post 25's Chris Shaper in Sunday's doubleheader. Post 25 swept the doubleheader, 13-1 and 9-2, to carry a 2-1 record into Wednesday evening's contest at Chillicothe Post 757. (Larry Watts Photo)

Rangers halt Tigers

By The Associated Press

Billy Martin learned Monday night that yes, you can go home again.

Martin, a crowd pleaser in Detroit during his three years as manager of the Tigers, made his first appearance in Detroit as skipper of the Texas Rangers Monday night and walked away with a 6-3 victory.

He received an ovation from the Tiger Stadium crowd of 22,696 when he took the lineup card to home plate before the game, and also was cheered loudly when he argued a pickoff call in the third inning. But in the eighth, when he went out to the mound to make a pitching change, there were a few boos mixed in with the cheers.

Martin said he was very pleased by the reaction he received from the Tiger fans:

"I don't know how other managers would feel but when you come back to the town you managed in and they cheer you like that, it really made me feel good."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox beat the Oakland A's 4-1, the New York Yankees trimmed the California Angels 7-5 and the Minnesota Twins routed the Baltimore Orioles 9-1.

After leading the Tigers to the American League East pennant in 1972, the mercurial Martin was fired by Detroit general manager Jim Campbell last September. Shortly after he signed a five-year contract to manage the Rangers, a young team which he has spurred into second place in the AL West, just two games behind Oakland.

Red Sox 4, A's 1

Dwight Evans' three-run homer and Luis Tiant's standout pitching carried the Red Sox past the A's in a battle of division leaders.

Evans lofted a fastball from Vida Blue down the right field line in the fifth inning and it just curled inside the foul pole for the homer, capping the decisive four-run inning.

Yankees 7, Angels 5

Lou Piniella drove in the winning run with an eighth inning double and then scored an insurance tally in the Yankees' triumph over California.

Twins 9, Orioles 1

The Minnesota Twins erupted for five runs in the seventh inning and coasted to victory over the Orioles. Tony Oliva laced a two-run single and Bobby Darwin smacked a two-run triple in the inning.

Late inning rallies aid Good Hope, Willis wins

Good Hope and Willis each posted one-run victories in the Fayette Babe Ruth League, Monday evening. Good Hope came up with one run in the bottom of the sixth inning to defeat the Medics 8-7 and a three-run rally in the bottom of the seventh frame aided Willis to a 6-5 win over Sabina.

Brent Dunn's single scored the winning run for Good Hope. Dunn also added a double and C.J. Nicley picked up two his hits for the winners. Tubbs and Melvin tripled, while Ackley doubled for the losers.

Heiny's sacrifice bunt with the bases losed scored the winning run for Willis., Willis gained two runs on a triple by Rex Coe and one run on a double by Bob Wilson. English also had two doubles and went four for four at the plate for the winners. Smith homered for Sabina's only extra base hit.

Perry, Wood to tangle

CHICAGO (AP)—The two winningest pitchers in the majors will meet during the two-game series between the Cleveland Indians and the Chicageo White Sox opening here tonight.

Gaylord Perry pitches for the Indians in the second game Wednesday night, facing Wilbur Wood of the White Sox.

Both have won 10 games, although Perry has lost only one, while Wood has been charged with six defeats.

Jim Perry opens the series tonight as the Indians meet the White Sox for the first time this season.

The White Sox, who are trying to keep their momentum going, send Stan Bahnsen to the mound.

The Sox have won four of their last six games and now have a 26-25 record in the American League West.

The Indians, who are at the .500 mark with 27 victories and 27 defeats in the American League East, hope the same thing doesn't happen that happened last year when they came into Chicago on Memorial Day weekend with two straight victories under their belts and started a downhill slide.

The Tribe won the opener, then lost two straight to Chicago and went on to lose 12 of 13 games.

The Indians have been limping along this month as a result of a series of injuries to Buddy Bell, John Ellis, John Lowenstein and Jack Brohamer.

Miller says era of Nicklaus over

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — The Jack Nicklaus era is over, says Johnny Miller.

That doesn't mean that the slender young blond is ready to claim pro golf's throne for his own—even though his credentials are all in order.

Not at all.

"I just think that the time is past when any one man will dominate the game," Miller said. "There are too many good players for that to happen now.

"I'm not knocking Jack," Miller emphasized. "Not at all. He's still my idol—sort of. He's probably the best player in the world. But I don't think you're going to see Jack winning 50 per cent of his starts any more.

"There are just too many good young players now," he said, and ticked off the list of the men who have become known as the game's Young Lions: "Hubert Green, Jerry Heard, John Mahaffey—he's a great player, Mahaffey is, and I guess Hubie (Green) has been the outstanding player on the tour in the last two months— Ben Crenshaw, Tom Watson, Forrest Fezler, Lanny Wadkins, even though Lanny has had his troubles this year, he's a really good player. He's a real competitor. He wants to beat your brains out for 10 cents."

Miller added: "And there's (Tom) Weiskopf, too. In just the last year he's become a great player.

"I disagree with Tom, though. He said he thinks the golf courses are being set up too easy and that's why we're getting all these real low scores....

"I think we're getting all these real low scores because there are just so many good players out here now. Boy, you make one mistake and a whole bunch of guys just go flying right by you, just whoosh. It happens all the time...."

Miller and Green, of course, have been the dominant figures on the tour this year. Miller has won five tournaments and $203,000. Green has won three events and $156,000. They rank one-two in both categories going into the U.S. Open championshap, the most prestigious of all the world's titles.

Nicklaus, winner of but one title this season but still the game's most feared competitor, said of the emergence of the game's young players: "I'm glad to see it. I was glad to see Tom (Weiskopf) come along like he did last year. "I was glad when Lee (Trevino) came along. I'm glad to see Johnny and Lanny and Hubert and the other young players developing.

Jeff teams win two games

Two Jeffersonville teams came out on the winning end in Monday's Jeffersonville Babe Ruth League. Jeff Lions handed Sedalia a 8-3 defeat, while Jeff Merchants easily conquered Jamestown No. 1 by a score of 13-5.

Gilespie fired a two-hitter for the Lions. Both of the hits, one of which was a double, were by Cowan, Pitstick stopped the Lions on four hits, but 13 walks proved fatal.

The Merchants banged out 10 hits in support of Tyree's four-hitter. Tyree added a home run and a double, while Spears also doubled for the winners. Cornell homered for the losers.

Student surgeons learn to staple

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 50 per cent of the medical teaching institutions in the United States are now teaching the use of stapling as a surgical technique. According to United States Surgical Corp., which markets surgical staplers, UCLA, the Mayo Clinic, the University of Pittsburg, Mt. Sinai University and Einstein College are among the universities teaching the procedure.

In addition, the Navy is also teaching stapling in its surgical training program at Oakland Naval Hospital.

Homemaker looks for assistance

NEW YORK (AP) — Ensuring variety and nutrition in each meal is a difficult task, according to an in-depth study of homemakers conducted for Hoffmann-La Roche Inc.

"The food industry bears the responsiability for giving the homemaker the guidance she needs," said John Gage, Roche food-nutrition marketing manager. "And one of the best ways is easier-to-understand food labels with clearer nutritional information."

Report Colson told Nixon of payoffs

NEW YORK (AP) — Time magazine says ex-White House aide Charles W. Colson told Watergate investigators he warned President Nixon about the Watergate cover-up two months before Nixon says he found out about it.

Quoting "knowledgeable people close to Colson," the magazine said in its latest issue that Colson has told the investigators he talked of the cover-up with the President in January and February of 1973.

Nixon has said he learned on March 21, 1973, of attempts to cover up the break-in from former White House counsel John W. Dean III.

Colson pleaded guilty last week to obstruction of justice in connection with the burglary of the Los Angeles office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

According to Time, in January Colson "told the President: 'Something is going on here that is very wrong. There's got to be an investigation.' Colson quotes Nixon as replying, 'What do you think we ought to do?' Colson's answer: 'I'll see what I can find out.'"

Time said that by February Colson learned of payments to the original Watergate defendants that allegedly were approved by former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

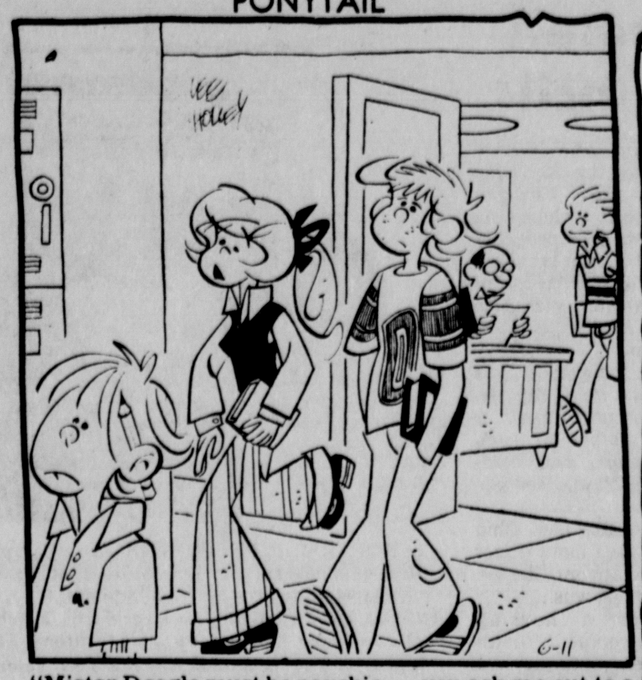

"Colson promptly warned the President that these payoffs were taking place," Time said. "Nixon's alleged reply: 'What do you mean? Mitchell says he's innocent.'"

The magazine's account said Colson told H.R. Haldeman, then-White House chief of staff, that Mitchell must come forward and accept blame for the payoffs.

"Haldeman answered: 'If Mitchell goes, he's going to take you with him,'" said Time.

Time also said that Colson told investigators he discussed executive clemency with Nixon for convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt after Hunt's wife was killed in a Chicago plane crash in December 1972, but the magazine said it could not be learned if Colson contended Nixon approved the clemency.

Opening lead - queen of hearts.

There are 30-point tricks and there are 300-point tricks. To lose 30 points is of little consequence, but to lose 300 points is a matter of more serious concern.

This deal occurred in a team match. At the first table, South got to six spades doubled on the sequence shown.

West led a heart. Declarer ruffed and played the ace of spades, West showing out. The 4-0 trump break appeared to be no more than a temporary inconvenience, so South led a diamond to dummy, planning to take a trump finesse next. But East ruffed, returned a club to West, and then ruffed another diamond to beat the contract two tricks—500 points.

Six spades doubled was the contract at the second table also. Again West led a heart, which South ruffed, and again declarer played the ace of spades, West showing out.

But at this point declarer displayed unusual foresight. He recognized that an immediate diamond lead was not urgent and, instead, he played a club.

As a result, he saved 300 points. West won and led another heart, which declarer ruffed. A diamond lead to dummy permitted East to ruff, all right, but that was the end of the hand. South went down 200 points at this table, instead of 500 points.

Not many declarers would have led a club at trick three to protect against the possibility of East's being void of diamonds. But the fact is that South had nothing to lose by the play, and something to gain if it turned out that East had no diamonds. After all, 300 points are not to be sneezed at.

Speaking of Your Health...

Drug Dependence

I am having a terrible problem with my wife. We are both 74-years-old. She is given all kinds of pills, but the one she keeps begging for is a drug called Talwin. Could she be addicted to this drug?

Mr. A. V., N.Y.

Dear Mr. V.:

When Talwin was first introduced as a pain killer, it was quickly recognized as being remarkably effective.

As frequently occurs, it takes a considerable amount of trial and use to learn all of the side effects of a new drug.

It has been found that this excellent drug can cause a dependence that closely resembles a form of addiction. It is for this very reason that Talwin and similar drugs are never prescribed for long periods of time without the complete control and supervision of the doctor.

* * *

I'm caught in a bind. Our doctor suggested that I feed my 5-year-old son apples for his constipation problem. When our regular doctor went on vacation his substitute doctor said, "Absolutely no apples," and gave me a diet instead. Please rush your answer.

Mr. S.N.W., N.C.

Dear Mrs. W.:

I am rushing my answer only to emphasize the unnecessary urgency you feel about a relatively insignificant problem.

I wonder, really, if there has not been too much concentration on your son's bowel movements.

Children readily reflect a parent's anxiety on this subject. This alone could perpetuate the problem.

I believe that whether or not your boy eats apples is not nearly as important as your relaxing about the problem.

* * *

Are there any adverse medical effects from pipe smoking? I don't inhale.

Mr. M.S.K., Miss.

Dear Mr. K.:

The toxic effects of pipe tobacco seem to be less than cigarettes.

Even if we were to disregard these toxic symptoms, there still is an adverse effect on the lungs caused by the smoke itself.

Smoke is a pollutant and as such must affect the free and easy exchange of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the lungs.

Public health officials warn that all smoke from tobacco can, over a long period of time, be hazardous not only to the smoker but to those who are exposed to it.

Charles Evers backs Wallace for no. 2 spot

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Charles Evers, civil rights leader and mayor of Fayette, Miss., says he could support Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace for vice president.

Evers said his opinion of Wallace, once known for his segregationist stand, has changed in recent years "because the man is changing."

The brother of slain civil right leader Medger Evers said Sunday his support of a Democratic party ticket which included Wallace would hinge on the presidential nominee.

He said he could vote for him on a ticket with Sen. Edward Kennedy or Sen. Walter Mondale but had reservations "about a ticket with Wallace and someone like Sen. Henry Jackson."

In Focus

by Charlie Pensyl

If you're thinking seriously of the photographic hobby today you're thinking of the exciting world of systems photography. There is virtually no limit to the photographic effects you can achieve with the one basic camera body and the hundreds of interchangeable lenses and accessories that match it. You see, that's what "systems photography" is all about. And that's where the fun of the photo hobby comes in.

The "normal" lens which comes with your camera when you get it is usually 50 or 55 mm. It sees about what your eye sees. And that's just exactly what you want of a camera in many cases. But "systems photography" goes far beyond this kind of shooting. You can change your camera from a photographic microscope into a photographic telescope in a few seconds by unscrewing one lens or attachment and substituting another.

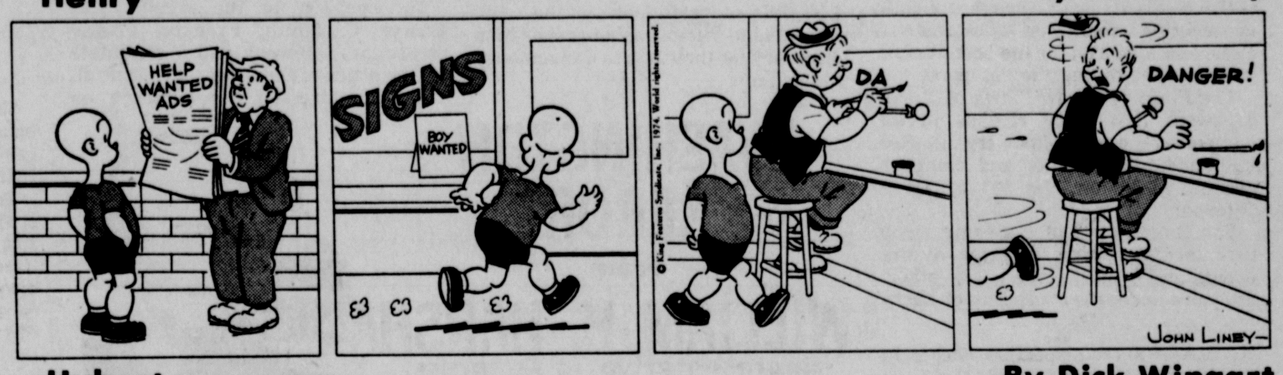

We feel that Honeywell has made the greatest strides in the "systems photography" field with the Pentax line of fine cameras and accessories. Take multi-coating, for example. No conventionally coated lens in the world can match the flare-taming and color-capturing ability of the Super-Multi-Coated Takumar. You see, it came about through the research on ways to cut reflection on the viewing windows in the Mercury, Gemini, Apollo and LEM spacecraft. We who use these Takumar lenses get the benefit of all this research. And our pix are much better because of it.

Let's turn from cameras to books. For those who are seriously interested in "systems photography" there is a book, THE PENTAX WAY, by Herbert Keppler, which is by far the best book on this kind of photography we have ever seen. It is for this area of photography what PHOTOGRAPHY IS. . . is to the entire field of picture making. Both these books should be in your photographic library.

Five committee chairmen named by health council

The Fayette County Health Planning Council met Monday to select committee chairmen and discuss the problems and progress of several of the committees.

The appointment of committee chairmen was announced by Council Chairman Richard E. Whiteside. They were Mrs. Phyllis Richards, community health services; John E. Rhoads, environmental health; James Dunn, health manpower; Robert L. Kunz, health feacilities, and Donald P. Woods finance.

Mrs. Richards stated that her group will be screening welfare recipients for health defects. Such screening can led to early recognition and treatment and is now required. All welfare recipients up to and including 21 years of age will be subject to the screening.

EFFORTS TO recruite medical manpower for this area are progressing well, according to Dunn. He said that committees in other communities are being contacted. Many ideas, including the use of paramedics and projects to entice doctors to the area, have been discussed.

Rhoads advised the council that sewage disposal and treatment is a major concern for the Environmental Health Committee. A program recently proposed for the Washington C.H. area has been approved by the Mid-Ohio Federation and the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, which was the first phrase in seeing the program implemented. Phase II of the program has been approved aand a grant of $675,000 for the preparatory plans for improvements at the Washington C.H. sewage treatment plant.

Al Dycles, Mid-Ohio Federation area representative for Fayette Conty explained to the members that a representative is available to each county to assist councils and committees concerning health and sewage problems.

Also discussed were the new Ohio Sanitary Code which goes inoto effect July 1, 1974, and request from Clarvin Subdivision in Paint Township for federal funding for a housing development. The Environment Health Committee was given authority to investigaate feasibility of a subsivision in this lication and make its recommendation.

The council voted to change the meeting date to the third Monday quarterly, meeting in March, June, September and December. A special meeting is planned in July for Dyckes to meet with officers and committee chairment to study implementation of the federation program

SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS—Ann Campbell, left, of Miami Trace, and Rhonda Cockerill and Bob Walters, of Washington Senior, were presented scholarship awards by Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club President George Gibbs Monday night. Also receiving a scholarship was John Bryant, of Miami Trace, but he was unable to attend. Financing of the scholarship fund is provided by the annual Kiwanis Teen Talent show.

Four scholarship awards given by Kiwanis members

Featured at the Washington Kiwanis Club meeting Monday night at the Lafayette Inn were the guest speaker, a Republican candidate for Ohio attorney general, and three area students who received Kiwanis Club scholarships. A fourth scholarship winner was unable to be present.

Scholarships totaling $600 were presented to Ann Capbell, a recent graduate of Miami Trace, Rhonda Cockerill and Bob Walters, who just graduated from Washington Senior High School, and John Bryant, Miami Trace, who was unable to attend.

All four students are planning to continue their education.

The speaker for the evening was George C. Smith, Franklin County prosecuting attorney and a candidate for the office of Ohio Attorney General.

Smith addressed the audience on "Consumer Fraud Protection." He noted that Franklin County is one of 15 counties which currently maintains a consumer fraud unit, the main purpose of which is to ferret out and prosecute those individuals who are engaged in swindling the public.

Smith said that fraud is common in such areas as home improvement, insurance, planned vacation trips, and animal sales.

Before closing, Smith added that it is possible for smaller counties such as Fayette to receive assistance from Franklin County's unit when there is evidence of consumer fraud in the area.

Dedication set Saturday at new Paint Creek Lake

BAINBRIDGE—The newest federally-constructed flood control and recreation project in Ohio, Paint Creek Lake, will be dedicated at a public ceremony Saturday.

James C. Krug, of Bainbridge, general chairman of the dedication committee, said 6th District Congressman William H. Harsha, will be principal speaker. Remarks also will be made by Brig. Gen. Wayne S. Nichols, the U.S. Army Crops of Engineers' Ohio River Division Engineer.

Festivities are scheduled to begin at 11:30 a.m., Krug said, with the formal program set for 2:30 p.m. and lasting about 45 minutes.

Entertainment is slated for both on and off the lake, and adequated parking and concession stands will be available, said Krug.

THE DEDICATION committee includes representatives from Bainbridge, Greenfield, Hillsboro, Chillicothe and the Rocky Fork Lake area.

Paint Creek Lake, located in Highland and Ross counties, is 39 miles above the mouth of Paint Creek and is accessible from U.S. 50 and Ohio 28.

The lake has 1,190 surface acres in the summer and two boat launching ramps. The Taylor Road campground, accessible by Rapid Forge Road and Taylor Road, will open on June 29.

The Paint Creek project, constructed by the U.S. Army Crop of Engineers, was authorized by Congress for flood control, reation, and fish and wildlife enhancement.

The earth and rock dam is 118 feet high, 800 feet long, and controls a drainage area of 573 square miles.

Here is a tentative schedule of some of the major dedication events: 11:30 a.m. — Morning balloon ascension. Balloonist Mark Litter. 11:30 a.m. — 12:30 p.m. — Greenfield McClain High School band Concert. Director, Mike Blevins. 1:30 p.m. — 2:30 p.m. — Paint Valley High School band concert. Director, H. George Harper.. 2 p.m. — 4 p.m. — Sailboat race by the Chillicothe Sailing Club. Commodore, Jack Hamilton. 2:30 p.m. — 3:30 p.m. — Dedication program. Master of ceremonies — J. Carlton Sitterle. Remarks — Brig. Gen. Wayne S. Nichols, Ohio River Division Engineer, Corps of Engineers. Speaker — Congressman William H. Harsha. 4 p.m. — Afternoon balloon ascension — Balloonist Mark Litter.

Other interesting attractions in this area are Seven Caves, Deer Acres, the Dental Museum, Seip Mound State Memorial and Rocky Fork Lake.

9 injured in outbreak at school

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)— Nine persons were reported injured Monday night in a disturbance at the Ohio Youth Commission's Indian River School, south of Massillon.

Stark County sheriff's deputies and Perry Township police were called out, along with Ohio highway patrolmen, to control the disturbance.

Acting School Supt. Gerald Novak said the patrol was expected to investigate a report that an employe pulled a knife on a group of boys, triggering the confrontation.

Novak said the allegation was made by inmates.

A highway patrol officer said about 60 youths from two dormitories refused to leave a central building area and return to the dormitories until officers arrived.

He said about 25 patrolmen were sent to help "get them to bed." The patrolmen remained on duty at the institution overnight.

Several inmates were reported injured by flying glass.

One employe at the youth facility, Robert Massey, was also injured.

All were treated and released at area hospitals.

Jeff Scouts capture awards at camporee

Boy Scouts in the Paint Creek Valley District met at Camp Pine over the weekend for their Spring Camporee. Troop No. 67 from Jeffersonville made an outstanding showing in the competitive events and for the eighth consecutive time won the District President's Ribbon for the best overall performance during the camporee.

The Flaming Arrow Patrol of Troop 67 swept first place ribbons in all competitive events, knot trying, fire building, edible plants and compass reading. The patrol is led by Dave Ritenour.

The Bear Patrol of the same troop took second ribbons in three of the events and a third place in the other. They are under the leadership of Larry Detty.

A CAMPSITE inspection was held Saturday afternoon, and the Jeffersonville troop achieved a 100 per cent score to again top the field. Troops from Hillsboro and Leesburg finished second and third respectively.

Webolos dens from Cub Scout Pack 229 in Washington C.H., Pack 37 in Hillsboro, Pak 255 in Leesburg, and Pack 143 in Mowrystown were special guests at the camporee. They stayed only Saturday night.

The Order of the Arrow, an honor society of Scouts, selected candidates for the order Saturday night. Twenty-two candidates were selected, including six from Jeffersonville Troop 67. They are Dave Ritenour, Steve Paisley, Mike Camstra, Doug Binegar, John Milstead and Jeff Robinson.

Scoutmaster Fred Doyle was also invited to join the order.

Initiation tests and activities are scheduled for June 21, 22 and 23 in Hillsboro.

Special awards were presented to two troops from the Paint Creek Valley District. The awards were presented by District Scout Executive John Young to Willard Winegar, scoutmaster of Troop No. 190 of Greenfield and to Doyle of the Jeffersonville Troop.

The awards recognize compliance with a strict outline of required scouting activities and accomplishments.

Scout Troop No. 112 of Washington C.H. did not participate in the camporee due to the extensive preparation necessary for their trip to Canada later this summer.

WSHS Honor Roll

The Washington Senior High School honor roll for the fourth nine-weeks grading period has been announced by Principal Fred A. Jones.

To earn honor roll recognition, a student must achieve an average of 3.00. A grade of D or F in any course used in computing the average disqualifies a student for honor roll consideration for that grading period. Physical education, music, band and art are excluded when computing averages.

10th GRADE

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA

Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

The second part of a two-step 11 per cent Social Security increase approved by Congress last year goes into effect this month, and beneficiaries will realize this additional amount in their July checks.

This boost is one of several Congress has approved recently to ensure that our senior citizens relying on these checks will be able to keep pace with the ever growing cost-of-living. In just the last five years, in fact, Congress has increased Social Security benefits by more than 60 per cent. In addition, future increases will be tied automatically to the cost-of-living jumps, and since we have yet to stop inflation, there are certain to be additional Social Security raises in the future.

ALTHOUGH this escalator clause provides a much needed measure of financial protection to recipients, it is also beginning to raise some serious questions about the future of the Social Security system. Specifically, where are we going to get the money to keep this program going without upping Social Security taxes to untenable rates? There is even some question as to whether raising taxes this way would actually help. Changes in the population indicate that more and more Americans are living beyond the age of 65 when they may qualify for benefits while the number of people in the work force paying into the system is declining as the country's birth rate stadily drops off.

A recent study released by the Social Security Administration indicates that because of this imbalance, the cost of Social Security would outstrip scheduled tax receipts by an average of almost three per cent for the next 75 years. More critical analysts of the Social Security system contend that the trust fund is already on the brink of bankruptcy. It now stands at $36.5 billion, an amount they say would only be sufficient to guarantee benefits for a little over ten and half months. They also point out that a fund of more than $600 billion would be needed to guarantee present Social Security promises. Furthermore, the current payroll set up necessitates that today's taxes do not go into a trust fund, they must go directly to pay today's benefits. That charts the whole Social Security system on a collision course with disaster unless some major revisions are introduced into the funding process.

The Social Security system could also stand some revisions in other areas as well. For years, I have been trying to eleiminate some of the offset provisions which cut benefits because the recipient receives some other type of pension or retirement income. This has particularly affected those on veterans pensions in recent years, and it should be corrected. In addition, the earnings limitation is unrealistically low, depriving many able and willing senior citizens of hard earned benefits simply because they want to continue being productive and useful members of the work force.

INEQUITIES also exist in the way payroll taxes are levied, hitting the poorest and least able to pay the most. It is also a fact that Social Security pays different benefits to people who have paid the same tax and, in some cases, no benefits to others who have paid thousands of dollars.

Social Security has been with us for over 40 years. Things have changed during that time and even the least gruesome statistics on its funding system provide convincing evidence that reforms are definitely needed. Although the Social Security Administration says predicted trust fund deficits will not affect the program's financing until 1980, it is not too early for Congress to begin investigating ways to correct this dangerous problem. Tax measures such as Social Security are generally incredibly complex and often highly controversial. They also take a considerable amount of time to formulate the most equitable and effective ones. Our Social Security program has served us well, but changes must be made to keep it going. Congress ought to start now before it will be too late.

Hearing date set for Perrill ditch

Other than routine items, the only matter of business heard by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday afternoon was the county engineer's profile of the necessary work and cost estimates on the Perrill ditch project.

The ammended profile estimates the project cost at $15,345. This amount would be assessed to some 37 property owners and other interested parties. (The division of costs would not be divided equally.)

The date for the final public hearing on the project has been set for 11 a.m. July 15.

Carnival slated

A neighborhood carnival will be held Saturday, June 15, at 722 Fairway Dr., with proceeds to go for research and treatment of Muscular Dystrophy.

Games, tests of skill, refreshments and book stalls will be set up.

Babysitting will be available for children up to four years of age.

Horse show set by B'burg Lions

BLOOMINGBURG — The Bloomingburg Lions Club will sponsor a horse show on Sunday, June 16 at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Trophies or cash prizes will be awarded in events such as barrel races, halter competition, horsemanship, performance, and showmanship.

The day's events will begin at 10 a.m., rain or shine.

Further information may be obtained by calling Jim Greene (437-7217), Dale Horney (437-7304), or Carl Wilt (335-1772).

Directory change deadline posted

GREENFIELD — The deadline for making changes of listings in the Greenfield-Leesburg telephone directory is Thursday, June 20, the General Telephone Co. of Ohio said today.

Tom O'Neil, Wilmington customer service manager, said customers should report any corrections in their phone listings or change of address planned before August to the company's business office no later than Thursday, June 20.

The manager said the 1974 directory is being compiled and will be delivered in August.

2 young Ohioans indicted for murder

LISBON, Ohio (AP)—The Columbiana County grand jury has indicted two young Ohio men on charges of aggravated murder in the shooting death of a western Pennsylvania man.

Indicted Monday were Stanley W. Strub and Donald R. Tucker, both of East Liverpool. Each is 19.

GOP senators claim large state surplus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Senate Republicans were set to claim today that a surplus exists in the state treasury of some $138 million—not just the $60 million or so they talked about last week.

Sen. Howard C. Cook, R—1 Toledo, said he can list the sources of the money that will be available to the state in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

He is a member of the Senate Finance Committee which called a meeting (at 10 a.m.) today to review a GOP remake of Gov. John J. Gilligan's supplemental appropriations bill.

The committee last week rearranged priorities in Gilligan's bill, which proposed to spend $43.5 million in lottery proceeds, and added $40.50 million in tax relief to hike the overall outlay to $83.4 million. That was based on an estimate at the time of a $60 million surplus.

Gilligan and John B. Olsen, director of the office of Budget & Management, denied that a surplus exists at all—setting the stage for a partisan skirmish this week that threatens to end with no bill at all.

The Senate and House both were due back from weekend recess for floor sessions today opening what they hope will be the last week before summer adjournment. Leaders said they hope to adjourn no later than Wednesday or Thursday.

Several major pieces of legislation remain stymied—including no-fault auto insurance, an omnibus bill creating 87 new judgeships, a proposal to create a state housing finance agency, landlord-tenant relations, and a bill to increase taxing powers of county and regional transit authorities, among others.

Cook had a breakdown Monday of revenue estimates he said was prepared by the Legislative Budget Office. It listed a total of increased revenue estimates for the fiscal year starting July 1 of $181,850,430.

It included about $44 million in estimated lottery profits—the money Gilliman seeks to spend—but otherwise showed a surplus of $138 million.

Kissinger threatens to resign from post

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today he would resign unless the controversy over his role in national security wire tapping was cleared up.

His voice breaking with emotion, Kissinger said the controversy is hurting America's foreign policy.

"I do not believe it is possible to conduct the foreign policy of the United States under these circumstances," he told a news conference. "If it is not cleared up I will resign."

Kissinger, his eyes glistening with tears, claimed that leaks to the news media defamed his honor and reputation.

"It is not possible to conduct national policy under this sort of attack," he said in delivering his threat to quit.

The Nobel Prize-winning diplomat, again denying he ordered wiretaps on his subordinates, called upon the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to reopen its hearings to investigate the controversy.

President makes stop in Austria

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — President Nixon met more than 1½ hours today with Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky to discuss the American chief executive's trips to the Middle East and Moscow.

Nixon leaves this medieval city Wednesday for Egypt on the first stop of a five-nation Middle East tour.

The talks also touched on European matters, presidential spokesman Ronald Ziegler said, particularly the European security conference that includes Russia and other eastern European nations.

Ziegler raised the possibility that Nixon will hold a summit meeting with Western European leaders before he gets to Moscow.

A final determination probably will depend on whether a new declaration of principles for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is initialed by NATO foreign ministers in Canada later this month.

Ziegler also defended Nixon against criticism by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who said that the President "is screwing it up," in reference to the Middle East achievements by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"That view is not shared by the majority of the Senate," Ziegler said, and not "by the majority of the American people, in my view."

Jackson told a labor convention Monday in Atlantic City, N.J., that he thought Kissinger had brought some stability to the Middle East and he fears the President's trip might bungle the cease-fire agreements.

Nixon appeared to be counting on medieval Salzburg to be something of a good luck talisman for his trip to the Middle East.

IRS faces Senate probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service faces questioning by a Senate panel on charges that it works with a quota system that can victimize taxpayers and reward agents for harshness.

IRS Commissioner Donald Alexander was scheduled to appear today before an appropriations subcommittee holding hearings on IRS operations.

Today's session is a continuation of hearings that started in April when witnesses accused IRS of violating peoples' rights.

Watergate witness list eyed by panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee, driving to complete its impeachment inquiry by July 15, is resisting Republican members' demands that it decide now whether to call key Watergate witnesses.

It also is refusing to get into an argument with President Nixon over its right to subpoena White House tapes, ignoring his latest rebuff and making plans to issue a new subpoena.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said after a meeting of committee Democrats on Monday that it was "important and urgent" that the committee meet its July 15 deadline for recommending to the House whether Nixon should be impeached.

If necessary, the House leadership wants an impeachment vote by the full House in late July or early August.

The Democratic caucus followed a similar meeting of the Republican members, who agreed unanimously to send Rodino a letter demanding the question about witnesses be settled this week.

Rodino has insisted that the presentation of all documentary evidence gathered in the inquiry be completed first.

The presentation, which continues in closed session today, is due to end June 19 or 20.

As for witnesses, Rodino has indicated the number the committee is likely to call will be limited.

Charles W. Colson, former White House counsel who has agreed to testify in pending Watergate trials, is the only potential witness in which the Democrats seem interested. The committee staff has been instructed to

Judge separates Ehrlichman case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge today severed the conspiracy trial of John D. Ehrlichman from that of three other defendants in the Ellsberg break-in case.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said President Nixon's refusal to allow Ehrlichman and his lawyers access to the files he needs for his defense "makes it impossible for the court to do its duty" to conduct a fair trial.

James D. St. Clair, President Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, told Gesell on Monday that the President still reserved the final say over what materials from Ehrlichman's own files the former domestic aide could use.

"The proposal is unacceptable," Gesell said, "It denies him the right of counsel."

Gesell has said that he, not Nixon, would be the final judge of what material could be admitted as evidence at Ehrlichman's trial.

Gesell had threatened to dismiss the case against Ehrlichman entirely unless Nixon agreed to release the material sought by Ehrlichman for his defense.

Instead he severed Ehrlichman's case and said Ehrlichman would be tried later.

The other three defendants go on trial Monday.

The three who will be tried Monday are G. Gordon Liddy, Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio Martinez, who were convicted previously in connection with the Watergate break-in.

Ehrlichman, Liddy, Barker and Martinez are charged with conspiracy to violate the rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding, by sending White House agents into Fielding's office.

Ehrlichman is also charged with three counts of lying to a grand jury and one of lying to the FBI.

There was no indication when Ehrlichman will go to trial.

Also pending before Gesell was a motion to find in contempt "those persons in possession or control of the documents called for in the subpoena," filed by Ehrlichman's lawyer.

If granted, that motion could lead to another hearing ordering the President and others to show cause why they should not be held in contempt.

When White House lawyer James D. St. Clair told Gesell last week that the President would retain final say over what White House material could be used for trial, Gesell said angrily:

"It seems to me that it is dismissal which the President's action would seem to be pointing towards intentionally."

But he added: "It is a course I should not follow until I have exhausted all other possible opportunities."

Drought, disease hurt nation's wheat harvest

WASHINGTON (AP)— Drought and disease have reduced the nation's expected harvest of winter wheat, a crop which normally provides three-fourths of the nation's consumer bread grain.

The Agriculture Department said Monday that winter wheat prospects declined 5 per cent last month. As of June 1, production for 1974 was estimated at 1.53 billion bushels, the Crop Reporting Board said.

Although it would still be a record crop, the new estimate was down 81 million bushels from the government's forecast one month earlier. It means less wheat will be on tap for U.S. consumers and foreign customers than thought previously.

Officials said most of the decline during the month occurred in the southern Great Plains. Kansas, which normally produces the largest harvest, was estimated at 384.2 million bushels. That was down 22.6 million bushels, or 6 per cent from the May estimate.

The board said "lack of moisture and disease" contributed to the decline of the crop in Kansas and elsewhere.

Despite the drought since May, the new winter wheat estimate still could be a record, up 21 per cent from 1973 output as farmers—responding to higher prices—stepped up planting sharply. The crop, however, is sorely needed to replenish dwindling U.S. stockpiles, which are the smallest in 27 years.

But Kansas wheat authorities say the state crop estimate by the USDA is still too high and that it is more likely to total around 300 million bushels, some 84 million fewer than USDA predicted Monday.

Colorado and Oklahoma also shared greatly in winter wheat declines last month. Altogether the three states accounted for about three-fourths of the 81 million-bushel decline from May 1 to June 1.

Meanwhile, according to USDA, the reserve of old-crop wheat on July 1 will dip to 170 million bushels, the lowest level since 1947. Huge export demands have accounted for the shrinkage. Out of a then-record crop last year of 1.7 billion bushels, the most recent USDA figures show some 1.2 billion were expected.

Thus, observing the decline in U.S. wheat reserves, the shrinkage of 81 million bushels in winter wheat prospects from last month is significant. But perhaps more important will be the forecast in July which will show how much USDA expects 1974 production of spring-planted wheat to be.

Officials have projected, strictly on probability, that the spring wheat crop will yield 560 million bushels. But Monday's report indicated farmers on June 1 were far behind in spring planting, raising questions that spring wheat output will reach the projected mark.

If it does, total wheat production this year still could be more than 2 billion bushels and supply more than enough for domestic use and expected exports in the year beginning July 1.

Coffee Break . .

SPECULATORS and hoarders of pennies have caused what seems to be a shortage of the coin in certain areas of the country and the U.S. Treasury Department is calling on every American to get the penny back in circulation and keep it there. . . .

The price of copper has retreated, closing at $1.15 per pound on May 20. . . There will be no aluminum penny, according to Mrs. Mary Brooks, mint director, and the 62 billion pennies produced during the past 15 years have no numismatic value and because of the huge mintage they will never attain great value. . .

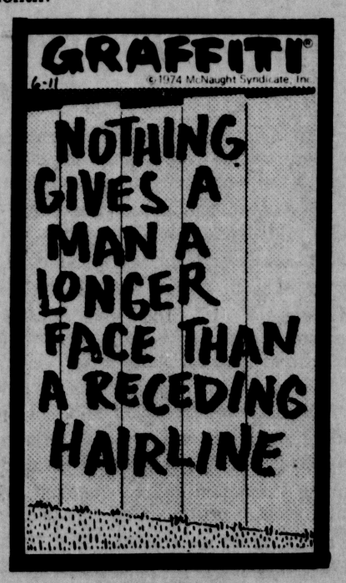

It is estimated that 30 billion pennies are in circulation, doing the job for which they were intended. . . Somewhere in this vast country of ours, however, in excess of 30 billion pennies are in hiding. . . These are the pennies the Treasury Department is looking for. . . They are in dresser drawers, shoe boxes, pickle jars; most anyplace you can think of that will get them out of pocket and out of sight. . . They are unwanted, unused and unappreciated. . .

Mrs. Brooks explained that for the mint to be forced to continue increasing its penny production to meet the current extraordinary demand is wasteful. . . One billion pennies returned to circulation will save the taxpayers $10 million. . .

The current price and supply of copper allows the mint to continue production and distribution of the copper-bearing cent. . . During the past 15 years, the mint has pumped out over 62 billion pennies using some 202,000 tons of copper. . .

This year alone the mint expects to use 33,000 tons of copper in cent production, making about 35 million pennies each working day. . .

If just 15 billion pennies could be lured out of hiding, the mint, at current production figures, wouldn't have to make pennies for almost two years and it would represent a saving of $150 million. . .

Pentagon jargon guidebook explains the KISS principle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The KISS principle, according to a new Army staff officer's guidebook, means "keep it simple, stupid."

This bit of advice is among hundreds of terms in a glossary intended to help an officer freshly assigned to the Pentagon understand some of the jargon he'll hear around the building.

The glossary is included in a 125-page paperback guidebook stocked with information on staff procedures, sample forms, telephone numbers, and personal services available during a duty tour in the "puzzle palace" (i.e., the Pentagon).

When a new staff officer is told he is to attend a "dog and pony show," he need only flip to page 81 and find that is "a briefing which uses a number of viewgraph slides, flip charts, or other training aids."

If someone tells him his staff paper is "flaky," he will know it "contains conclusions and recommendations that will not hold up under hard analysis."

His boss may criticize his paper's "fog index" as too high, in which case he will look for ways to make its wording less obscure and more readable."

Once he gets his boss' okay, he will have to scurry around and try to persuade all the interested agencies to "read off the same sheet of music" (get them coordinated into a common position).

In the course of this bureaucratic exercise, he may find that the final wording of his staff paper amounts to a "waffle" (the "intentional or unintentional use of phraseology which skirts the issue").

Above all, he will try to avoid a "glitch" (error) or to minimize "heartburn" (serious disagreement).

He may find himself greeted by fellow officers affectionately as a "cannon cocker" (if he is an artillery man) or referred to somewhat disdainfully as a "muddy boots" (if he came from the infantry).

If he is ambitious to become a general some day, he'll want to be known as a "water walker" (or, as the guidebook puts it, "an officer with a singularly outstanding military record; usually an officer who has been selected for one or more early promotions").

Nixon's hair easy to cut, but Kissinger's a problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's hair is easy to cut, but Henry A. Kissinger's?

It's a problem because it's so curly, their barber confided. "First I have to shampoo it, then cut it with scissors. Then I use a razor to blend the hair, and the hot air blower to dry and style it.

"That gives it a curly but smooth look. There, look how smooth it looks in the photograph."

Milton Pitts, who has been clipping the presidential hair for four and a half years, pointed to a photograph of Nixon with his secretary of state. "I gave them both haircuts yesterday."

Nixon's haircuts—once a week, "never any longer than 10 days"—take about 20 minutes. During that time the President is quite congenial, Pitts says, and "talks to me quite a bit, but usually in generalities and never about politics."

From his vantage point, Pitts sees no physical change in the President despite the rigors of his office and the troubles of his administration.

"I've never seen a person under the pressure he's under so relaxed," he said. "I see no change in the President."

Pitts spends each Tuesday and Thursday manning the one chair barbershop in the White House West Wing, trimming, clipping and styling the hair of the President, Cabinet members and top White House aides.

Pitts, a 58-year-old native of Greenville, S.C., also runs a barber shop in the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel a few blocks from the White House. He charges $4 for a straight haircut and $8.50 for the kind of hair styling he does on Nixon and Kissinger.

He is on call at all other times if the President suddenly decides to get a haircut, Pitts said.

"When I read about some of the people that are in trouble, I'm quite surprised," Pitts said. "They were all such nice people."

Claim Russia ahead in atom technology

WASHINGTON — Soviet research and not spying has boosted Russia ahead of the United States in the nuclear arms race, the man commonly regarded as the father of the hydrogen bomb has told a Senate Committee.

Dr. Edward Teller used this testimony Monday to argue for an end to most secrecy surrounding nuclear technology. He said secrecy impedes the work of American scientists and fails to halt Russian nuclear progress.

The Soviets, Teller told the Senate Government Operations Committee, "are moving ahead at a rapid rate while we are practically standing still. There is no doubt, Russia is No. 1," he said.

Teller said he believes word of any major scientific breakthrough in the United States will reach the Soviet Union in a year or less.

"The number of people to whom the main lines of relevant information about nuclear weapons is available is probably between 100,000 and one million," Teller said.

"Under these conditions one must accept the conclusion that nuclear secrets, as a general rule, are secrets in name only," he said.

Teller proposed that Congress legislate declassification of most basic scientific information immediately and create a two-year classification for some details.

Little information deserves to be held longer or more securely, Teller said.

"I believe that only essential details, blueprints and descriptions on how to make nuclear weapons effective can continue to be safeguarded on the relatively informal basis of U.S. proprietary information," he said.

While novel ideas and plans for such weapons can be classified for the two-year period, he said, "the general ideas concerning nuclear weapons should be made available to the public."

Teller said he has concluded reluctantly that scientific intelligence information on Soviet achievements should be withheld from publication even though its release would inform the public as to "the great strength of Russia's military information."

Publication, he said, likely would cause the sources of the information to be discovered and shut off. Secrecy, Teller said, gives a false feeling of safety and permits people to avoid the hard decisions that they would have to face if all the facts were out in the open.

New York City's garbage may be buried near Cadiz

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency will be watching the operations closely if New York City contracts to dump its garbage in an abandoned Harrison County strip mine, an EPA official says.

New York City reportedly is close to approving a contract with Control Systems, Inc., of Cincinnati for annual disposal of 624,000 tons of compacted wastes in the 400-acre site near Cadiz.

The garbage would be hauled by rail to the site at a rate of between 2,000 and 2,500 tons a day and used as reclamation landfill.

Charles Scott, Control Systems vice president, said he expects the firm to get the contract. He said it will be at least two years after the contract is signed before the operation begins "because of the lead time in getting the bailing equipment."

Donald Day, assistant chief of the EPA's Division of Waste Management, said the Harrison County site was approved as a landfill in 1969. He said an amended plan providing for disposal of compacted waste at the site was approved by the EPA "about a year and a half ago."

Day said the compaction system reduces 2,700 pounds of household wastes into an odorless block three feet by three feet by four feet, and hard enough to be transported and used as landfill.

"It's awfully hard for people to talk about things they don't know about, but when you look at the ravaged strip mine areas of Ohio that need reclamation, there should be no reason for concern," Scott said.

"It's land reclamation, that's what it is, and you'll be able to harvest this ground," he said.

The Environmental Action Coalition, Inc., of New York last week criticized the rail hauling of New York garbage to Ohio because it felt burying the wastes is a poor example of resource recovery.

Karen Dumont, director of the coalition, said that while strip mines are a blight on the landscape, "using them as garbage disposal sites is not a feasible solution.

"Landfill areas are notorious for the pollution of nearby waterways and water tables, as well as the creation of methane gas which renders the land unuseable until the gas is thoroughly dispersed," she said.

Day said the Ohio EPA also would prefer a better resource recovery plan than simply burying garbage.

"If they get the contract, I'm sure we'll be breathing down their neck and watching the operation," he said.

Disaster aid law faces opening test

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, people who lost a car or a roof in a natural disaster may apply to the federal government for a grant of money they won't have to repay.

The weekend tornadoes and floods in the Midwest will provide a test of the Federal Disaster Relief Act of 1974, which went into effect last month.

Under it, a traveling salesmen could ask for up to $5,000 to replace his car and get him back on the road, or a family might seek a $2,500 minigrant to patch its roofs.

The $2,500 grants are available to individuals who need funds quickly for home repairs.

Some minigrants would be available within two weeks after an application is submitted, but three to four weeks would be needed in most cases, a spokesman said.

The grants generally are available only after a storm victim has applied for a loan, but can be awarded in addition to the loan, she added.

Criteria for receiving the grants include a victim's financial status and the extent of damage.

This new program is one of a number of assistance programs available to individuals ranging up to $50,000 in Small Business Administration loans for major construction, she said.

"One-stop" centers are being set up throughout Minnesota, Missouri, Illinois, Oklahoma and portions of Kansas area that President Nixon declared disaster areas on Monday. The new act is being applied retroactively to all but Oklahoma.

These centers will permit the storm victim to apply for assistance without visiting various agencies throughout a city.

One program could be used to pay a family's rent for up to one year if it cannot find suitable replacement housing.

Under the Family and Individual Grant Program, up to $5,000 can be provided for medical needs and other requirements brought on by the disaster. Individual states must join this program, paying 25 per cent of the cost.

Grants are available under certain conditions to help farmers, and cities can seek federal funds to repair or replace roads and other municipal facilities.

Osteopaths on increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The president of the American Osteopathic Association says the majority of general practicioners in this country 20 years from now will be doctors of osteopathy (DOs) rather than MDs if planned DO medical schools open.

Dr. John C. Taylor of Kansas City, Mo., told delegates to the association's annual meeting here Monday that such schools will start in the next few years in Florida, Ohio, New York and New England.

There are now seven DO schools in the nation and new ones will open this fall in West Virginia and Oklahoma, he said.

While DOs represent only 5 per cent of the physician population today, Taylor said, they are general practitioners to an estimated 25 million Americans.

"The reason DOs provide this disproportionate amount of general practice care is that 75 per cent of our profession is in general practice," he said.

"For the first time in our 100-year history, we can state unequivocally that our profession is on full parity with allopathic (MD) medicine in every one of the 50 states," Taylor declared.

Witness list

question him privately to determine what he has to say.

In their letter, the 17 Republicans say other former White House aides such as John W. Dean III, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman also should be called.

The Republicans said Nixon's refusal to comply with the subpoenas for tapes and other evidence makes it all the more important to call witnesses who might be able to supply the same information.

Most of the committee's 21 Democrats believe that except for Colson the testimony of all the other witnesses the Republicans want to call already has been given in other court and committee proceedings.

In rejecting the committee's fourth subpoena, Nixon also rejected its contention that the power of impeachment overrode any claim he could make to executive privilege.

"I cannot accept such a doctrine," Nixon said in a letter to Rodino. "No President could accept such a doctrine, which has never before been seriously asserted."

Nixon also said the committee would not be able to conclude from his refusal to comply with the subpoenas that he was withholding incriminating evidence—an inference the committee has said it is prepared to draw.

"A claim of privilege which is valid under the doctrine of separation of powers and is designed to protect the principle of separation of powers must be accepted without adverse inference, or else the privilege itself is undermined and the separation of powers nullified," Nixon said.

The committee, which sent Nixon a letter after each previous refusal to comply with a subpoena, may not do anything this time, Rodino said: "The committee's position is clear."

Rodino may call a business meeting of the committee for Thursday or Friday. But instead of taking up the question of witnesses, he said he would consider a request by special counsel John Doar for a new subpoena seeking tapes and other material dealing with the settlement of antitrust litigation against International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and a rise in the milk support price ordered by Nixon in 1971. The committee asked for the material a month ago.

In other Watergate-related developments:

—White House lawyers reasserted the right to screen the material Ehrlichman has subpoenaed in the plumbers trial. They said Nixon himself will determine whether the material will be produced for trial.

—Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski and presidential lawyers asked the Supreme Court to make public the report of a grand jury that named Nixon as in unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up.

—U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica began pretrial hearings in the cover-up case involving seven defendants, including some former top White House officials. Defense lawyers are seeking dismissal of grand jury indictments, mainly on the grounds of pretrial publicity.

—House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., predicted the House will impeach Nixon if the Judiciary Committee recommends it.

President Nixon to the Middle East. It was there earlier this month that Kissinger, working as a mediator, helped bring about the Israeli-Syrian military disengagement pact that has cleared the way for a full-scale Mideast peace conference in Geneva.

At his news conference, Kissinger was referring to allegations stemming from reports that he had ordered wiretaps on administration officials who had access to national security documents that were leaked to the press.

In his confirmation hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Sept. 15-17, Kissinger denied ordering the taps.

He said then he had provided the names of officials who had access to the documents, but had not suggested the taps nor did he ever order them used.

He also said he had received only infrequent reports of the taps and then only for 10 months. This all took place when he was President Nixon's national security adviser.

Tapes of conversations between Nixon and other officials recently heard in the House Judiciary Committee supposedly quoted the President as saying Kissinger had initiated some wiretaps.

Kissinger told a news conference last week the President must have been under some "misapprehension" or the tape was unclear.

However, at that news conference he changed his version slightly by saying he had never "directly" ordered any wiretaps.

Rumor quits; Italy plunged into crisis

ROME (AP) — The resignation of Premier Mariano Rumor plunged Italy into a political vacuum today, compounding the nation's worst economic crisis since World War II.

Rumor quit Monday night after the Socialist party, the No. 2 faction in his coalition government, and the trade unions refused to go along with his proposals for an austerity program of tight credit and higher taxes to stave off national bankruptcy. It was the second center-left coalition headed by Rumor to collapse in 11 months.

Italy's 36th government since World War II lasted only three months.

President Giovanni Leone asked Rumor and his cabinet to continue in office as a caretaker regime until a new government is formed. The president was expected to start consultations with political leaders today in search of a new premier.

The government fell at Italy's darkest hour in its 28 years as a republic. Inflation is soaring at the rate of 20 per cent a year. The government's foreign credit is exhausted. The lira has dropped 18 per cent in a year. The foreign trade deficit is more than a billion dollars a month. Crime is up, and political terrorism is plaguing the country.

'Italy is deeply sick," said Transport Minister Luigi Preti, a Democratic Socialist. "It is clear that this is the most serious of the government crises since the war."

With no party having a majority in Parliament and no majority possible without the participation of the Christian Democrats, the largest and dominant party, Leone has few options.

He could ask Rumor or another Christian Democrat to try to form another coalition with the Socialists. Or he could call for new elections, a prospect that doesn't appeal to the Christian Democrats because of the beating they took in last month's referendum on divorce.

Kingston sets recall vote

KINGSTON, Ohio (AP) — Village residents of Kingston will vote July 2 on replacing Mayor Lynn Clausen and simultaneously will cast ballots for a successor if the recall goes through.

Candidates to succeed Clausen have until 4 p.m. Wednesday to file for a spot on the election ballot, said Guy Brown, Ross County elections director.

Brown said a sufficient number of validly signed petitions had been turned in May 29 by the one-precinct village with 577 registered voters.

If Clausen is not ousted, Brown said, the law provides for the village to pay one-half the amount he is legally allowed to spend for an election campaign.

The recall petitions were filed by Richard Rickabaugh, a resigned village councilman, and his attorney.

Cool, dryer air spread across Ohio overnight, bringing a temporary end to the hot weather that has dominated the state for more than a week.

The cool weather is expected to continue until Thursday, followed by a warming trend through the weekend.

A low over the northern Great Lakes receded northward today as the dry air spread across Ohio. Another cool, unstable air mass will bring a chance of showers to Ohio late tonight and Wednesday.

Highs today and Wednesday were forecast from the 60s to near 70. Lows tonight should fall to the mid to upper 40s.

Skies cleared overnight in the western half of the state, and clearing skies were forecast this morning in the east.

Temperatures at dawn today were generally in the 50s.

The weather will become warmer Thursday through Saturday with a chance of showers Saturday. Highs Thursday in the 70s, warming to the 80s by Saturday. Lows in the upper 40s and the 50s Thursday, warming to the upper 50s and the 60s by Saturday.

Sunny skies cover most of nation

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms that plagued a broad stretch of the midcontinent most of last week, much weaker now, rumbled eastward toward the Atlantic Coast today.

Free of the conditions which spawned last week's tornadoes and heavy rains, the region from the central Gulf Coast and Mississippi Valley west to the Pacific was under fair skies. Scattered thundershowers marred that sunny outlook, however, in parts of the central Plains.

Rain also splashed into sections of Lower Michigan, northern New England and the Atlantic Coast.

Sunny skies brought record temperatures in some parts of the nation Monday.

The mercury soared to 95 in New York City, a June 10 record there. Utilities from Massachusetts to Virginia were forced to cut back on electrical power by five per cent when they could not keep up with demand.

In the desert Southwest, it was 107 at Palm Springs, Calif., 106 at Phoenix, Ariz., and a sizzling 111 at Gila Bend, Ariz.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 38 at Marquette County Airport in Michigan to 91 at Blythe, Calif.

Nun hangs out shingle as doctor

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — In some rural area of Michigan greatly in need of a physician, a Roman Catholic nun plans soon to hang out a shingle reading: "Rosemary Havey, D.O."

"Any way we can use whatever talents to bring better quality life to people is very appropriate," said the 44-year-old Dominican sister, who just was graduated with a doctor of osteopathy degree from Michigan State University.

"It doesn't make any difference whether it's helping a terminal patient die with dignity, bringing a new baby into the world or helping a married couple improve their relationship," she said.

Dr. Havey, celebrating her 25th year or silver jubilee of taking her vows at the religious convent in Adrian, will intern in Detroit. Then she plans to practice in a rural area.

She said she is the first nun in her order who plans to be a physician in private practice. She wears conventional clothes.

Being a physician will not affect her status as a nun, she said. She added that she would still live on the same stipend as any sister. Any money over that will go to the religious order, she said.

"Whenever I go into a hospital, it seems that within a few minutes everyone knows I'm a sister," said Dr. Havey, of Center Line, Mich. "They find out, however, that I'm human and laugh and have the same frustration as any other human being," she said. "But I like my life style."

Stock prices pull back

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices pulled back today as a six-session rally bogged down in profit-taking.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.83 at 855.84. Losers just about doubled the number of gainers in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said it seemed the momentum of last week's sharp advance had been largely dispelled by the failure of a prime rate cut posted by New York's First National City Bank last Friday to spread immediately to other big banks.

Textron, the Big Board volume leader, gave up ¼ to 17 in a 161,700-share block trade. The company has a major role in a proposed plan to restructure Lockheed Aircraft, the financially-pressed aerospace giant.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .37 at 86.22.

The Amex' most-active issue was Airwick Industries, unchanged at 12¾.

The NYSE composite index of some 1,500 common stocks retreated .37 to 48.62.

Eye gold ownership by citizens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said today he hopes it will be possible for Americans to own gold before the end of this year.

Simon told a House Banking and Currency subcommittee that he favors allowing Americans to own gold, which now is prohibited.

President Nixon has authority from Congress to remove the ban at any time and Simon said he hopes this will be possible "before the end of the year unless there are damaging developments."

Simon appeared before the House subcommittee, which is considering U.S. contributions to the International Development Association. The association makes interest-free development loans to the world's poorest countries.

The Senate already has approved an appropriation, but with a stipulation that Americans should be free to own gold effective Sept. 1.

The House subcommittee, which previously turned down the IDA bill, also is considering setting a gold owning date as a condition for passage of the bill, say sources.

Mills wants controls reimposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills says that even though wage-price curbs may be "anathema to many," the controls should be reimposed to help combat inflation.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, sounded the appeal Monday as concern over inflation was voiced on both sides of Capitol Hill and both chambers wrestled with various tax reform and tax cut proposals.

Mills suggested the controls should be similar to those in effect in 1972 under Phase 2 of the now discontinued Nixon economic program, but should be mandatory rather than left to presidential discretion. He ruled out price rollbacks.

Mills said the lawmakers cannot blame failure of leadership on the problems Nixon is having—an apparent reference to Watergate and the impeachment inquiry.

The Treasury had no immediate comment.

However, Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking Committee, which has jurisdiction over controls legislation, said: "It is a fact of life that the continuation of wage-price controls was defeated overwhelmingly earlier this year in the Banking and Currency Committee and I know of no change in that sentiment."

Boy Scouts have own Watergate

CHICAGO (AP) — The Boy Scouts of America faces charges by some paid staff members that it padded membership rolls and possibly cheated to gain additional federal money.

"If we were in the business of covering it up, it could be the Watergate of the Boy Scouts," responds Alden G. Barber, chief executive of the Boy Scouts.

"Some of our people cheat— quite frankly" on membership rolls, Barber added. "While we always felt that scouting should expand and grow, we never condoned or encouraged less than ethical practices or conduct."

But Barber said Monday he hadn't heard of possible cheating to gain federal funds until a two-part series that began Sunday in the Chicago Tribune.

The problem apparently lies in the $65 million "Boypower 76" recruitment campaign that began in 1968 to add two million boys to scouting ranks by 1976. The program, designed to push total Scout membership to six million, is nearly two years behind schedule.

Barber said some staff members apparently created fictitious members and troops to reach membership quotas.

He said the organization has known about the abuses since August and that national Boy Scout headquarters in North Brunswick, N.J., has investigated 10 local councils. He said disciplinary actions are expected shortly in three cities. He declined to name them.

Barber said the number of phantom scouts isn't known but that the cheating seems confined mainly to the professional organization.

The Tribune said additional federal money was obtained through the padding procedures.

The Tribune reported that some staff members said difficulties seem particularly critical in Chicago, home of the Boy Scouts' largest council. Some Scout excutives estimated that only about 25 to 50 per cent of the city's 87,000 registered Scouts actually exist.

NEW YORK (AP) — Twentyeight years ago, the U.S. Army hanged a top Japanese general, Tomoyuki Yamashita, for atrocities his troops committed in the Philippines toward the end of World War II.

Tonight, ABC-TV is offering a 90-minute dramatization of the controversial military trial of Yamashita, convicted and sentenced to death on Dec. 7, 1945, the fourth anniversary of Pearl Harbor.

The program's intent is admirable, but its content is weak. It tackles a profound, complex matter with all the subtlety of a howitzer crew firing for effect and drawing only light return fire.

The show's producer, director and narrator is film maker Stanley Kramer.

In tonight's case, Kramer, armed with a script by Norman Corwin, has taken the stuff of exciting reality and turned it into portentous docu-drama that feigns life only now and then.

A major issue in the Yamashita case was whether his trial ever could have been fair when the court and its rules of law were created by the man's victorious opponent, Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Another key question, a perennial one, was the extent of a military commander's responsibility for his troops' conduct in wartime.

The first issue is rapidly disposed of as Kramer and the script pile on point after point to argue the trial was little more than a drumhead courtmartial, conducted in the battle-scarred city of Manila in an atmosphere of "grief, anger and the heavy residue of hate."

That Yamashita's men committed atrocities and massacres against thousands of prisoners of war and civilians isn't questioned.

Whether he could have prevented them, had he known of them, is studied and covered in his largely unrebutted assertions of innocence.

He emerges as a veritable saint, yet little question is made of his claim heavy U.S. military pressure severed his lines of communication and left him a demoralized army he could barely control.

There was no evidence he knew of or ordered any atrocity, but the military tribunal that convicted him held he "failed to provide effective control of his troops as required by the circumstances."

The U.S. Supreme Court upheld the conviction, though not, as Kramer notes, without a strong dissent by Associate Justice Frank Murphy, who warned of "dangerous implications" in the decision.

Indeed, Murphy added, "the fate of some future president of the United States and his chiefs of staff and military advisers may well have been sealed by this decision."

Push textile automation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading government research scientist called today for total automation of the U.S. textile industry so that it can meet future needs and demands of consumers.

Dr. Mary E. Carter, director of the Agriculture Department's Southern Regional Research Center at New Orleans, said the industry is beginning to use new yarn-spinning equipment that is four times faster than conventional systems, but she said a 10-fold increase is needed.

The first use of lenses to form a telescope is attributed to Roger Bacon of England, who died in 1292.

Speech therapy course to open here June 17

Eight weeks of speech therapy will be offered again this summer by the Fayette County Society for Crippled Children and Adults in cooperation with the Fayette County Health Department. The course will start next Monday, June 17. There will be two centers, one at the Eastside Elementary School in Washington C.H. and one at the Jeffersonville Elementary School.

The first three days will be dovoted for evaluation:

In Washington C.H. at the Eastside School on Monday from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 3:30 p.m.; Tuesday from 1 to 3:30 p.m. and Wednesday from 9 to 11 a.m.

In Jeffersonville on Tuesday from 9 to 11 a.m. and Wednesday from 1 to 3: P.M.

No appointment is necessary for the evaluation. Any questions can be answered by Mrs. James H. Hagler (335-6713), chairman of the Easter Seal Committee, or at the Health Department (335-5910).

Any children, who have been referred by the speech therapist at school, although they may have received speech therapy during the school year or were seen by a speech therapist at a pre-school conference, should be taken to one of the evaluation sessions, it was explained at the Health Department. The therapist will determine then how often therapy will be needed an make the appointments for return visits.

The therapist this year will be Miss Charlotte Smather, who received her degree in speech therapy last Saturday from Ohio University. She has been employed as a speech therapist for the Miami Trace school system for the 1974-75 school year.

Miss Smather, a native of Columbus, did her practice teaching in Cleveland the last quarter.

She will reside in Washington C.H. this summer.

Albino frog discovered

WARREN, Mich. (AP) — Research scientists at the University of Michigan Amphibian Facility are excited by a backyard find—Charlie the albino toad.

Charlie, who has transparent skin, was found last week by 4-year-old Joey Strain in a backyard near his home.

The Amphibian Facility wants to study the rare animal and breed it for research.

Albino toads or frogs are "a one in a million" occurrence, said a facility scientist.

Dr. George W. Nace, a zoology professor, says the transparent skin on albino frogs and toads makes it possible to observe their bodily functions.

"Frogs have many features like those of man," he said. "We study them to try to learn how the genes control the development process."

At first Joey was reluctant to part with his pet, his mother said. But now he approves.

William Koza, Joey's stepfather, says he'll probably drive Joey and Charlie the toad to the facility at Ann Arbor next week.

Opinion And Comment

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Is there a presidential strategy?

We often fall into the Platonic fallacy of assuming that because there is a question, there must be an answer. When I was last in Washington, for example, a big discussion was underway as to who would succeed Senator J.W. Fulbright as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The smart money said that Senator William Proxmire (D., Wis.) would abandon his chairmanship of the Banking Committee and take over Foreign Relations. The thought of this has bankers all over the United States blanching, since Sparkman will be succeeded as chairman of Banking by Senator John Sparkman (D., Ala.) who has announced loud and clear over the years that sooner will a camel pass through the eye of a needle than a banker into the realm of righteousness.

Indeed, the bankers rushed to help Sparkman in his last Alabama campaign, and did their best to help Fulbright beat Dale Bumpers, Frankly, in my judgment, the bankers and Bill Proxmire deserve each other — it's going to be real fun if they come eyeball to eyeball. That is, if Sparkman does plan to change committees. In my capacity as investigative reporter I decided to attempt to fathom Sparkman's intentions. The answer I received from three close asociates of the Senator was that they couldn't tell me. Not from secrecy, but because as far as they could determine Sparkman himself didn't know what his plans were.

But determining a course of action at Foreign Relations is beginner's play compared to what goes on at the White House. Let us explore the fascinating question: Does President Nixon have a strategy for coping with Watergate? The more I watch the action, the more I am convinced that every morning the President wakes up and simply reacts to whatever has been served into his court. On divulging tapes, for example, first it was "He never," then "Maybe some," then back to "No more." A strategic response would have been either to 1) turn them all over right off the bat with a qualifying statement that this constituted no precedent; or 2) burn them all the night before Alexander Butterfield testified to the Ervin committee and revealed their existence.

Mr. Nixon, the renowned poker player, has, however, consistently been playing middle hands in a high-low game. So now the matter is off to the Supreme Court for final adjudication, and once again the President is waffling all over the map. Last year, when the matter was initially adjudicated as far as the Court of Appeals, the President backed off from appeal to the high Court and disgorged a number of tapes. At that time, while avoiding the Supreme Court, he said he would accept a "definitive" holding by the Justices on the matter of executive privilege. I have been teaching constitutional law for a quarter of a century and never before learned of the distinction between a definitive and a non-definitive holding. It's a simple matter of counting heads with the majority of a quorum (6) providing the answer.

True, there can be divisions among the Justices on why they ruled as they did; the death penalty decision was a classic of this kind. But when it comes down to the straight answer — Yes or No — it makes no difference what routes the judges took. In other words, the Court majority could disagree among themselves on why Mr. Nixon has, or does not have, executive privilege. But, unless the Court takes a dive on the ground that this is a "political question," a head count will answer the President's query.

However, recently—after first trying to talk the Court out of using a jurisdictional shortcut to speed things up — the President and his spokesmen are hedging on whether he would accept an (undefined) "definitive" judgment. This all begins to have an Alice in Wonderland quality about it. What is more interesting is that, even with Mr. Justice Rehnquist disqualifying himself from hearing any Watergate-related cases, four Justices were willing to grant certiorari and sidestep the Court of Appeals. By traditional criteria this would indicate the Court is willing to tackle the merits (although it should be noted that in the De Funis case involving reverse segregation, four Justices agreed to hear the argument and then a majority denied jurisdiction on the ground that the issue was moot).

So the stall didn't work. But instead of asking what the President's strategy next entails, I am just wondering what bright idea he will wake up with on the day the Justices hand down their decision. A man who sent his lawyer, who had not heard the tapes, into a courtroom to argue they were irrelevant could come up with almost anything.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what you outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 12

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Keen perception will be important now. You may there with get a brand new slant on a puzzling job situation.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

You have a way with you when your better self is out front, which it should be now. Day requires stamina and patience for the long pull — which will bring lasting rewards.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Financial matters under some restrictions. Keep a tight grip on your wallet and curb tendencies toward extravagance.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

If you attempt to gain your ends by unconventional methods, it could cause discord. You are usually fairly conservative, but there's a tendency toward indiscretion now.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Solar influences somewhat adverse. If certain negotiations are pending, try to postpone decisions for 48 hours, when influences will be more propitious.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23$

Romance under something of a cloud. Be prepared for the unexpected and disconcerting. In business affairs, however, a matter of importance is decided in your favor.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Avoid a tendency toward procrastination and concentrate on immediate objectives. Inclinations now are to daydream about the future — unrealistically.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Some things you thought "impossible" begin to work out now, can be pushed by your know-how and dexterity. Take the proverbial bull by the horns — and ACT!

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Much competition in store. You should revel in most of the challenges offered. A fine day for capitalizing on your organizational abilities.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

An excellent day for considering new business arrangements — especially if they involve real estate or property improvements.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Fine Uranus influences. A good day for capitalizing on unusual ideas, initiating new systems, experimenting generally.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Some restraint in order; also some rechecking of plans. Prospects brightening in several areas, but foresight a "must."

YOU BORN TODAY: Being extraordinarily versatile, you might be called a "Jack of all trades" but, unlike "Jack," you can master any to which you set your mind and heart. You are imaginative, artistic, something of a mystic and poet, but you attain your goals in a most practical way. Even though given to restlessness and impulsiveness, you usually turn in a top performance. Properly educated, of course, you could succeed at almost any vocation you choose, as well as an avocation — which would probably be along literary or musical lines.

State to look at own agencies?

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It may be too late to come this year, but the General Assembly in the not-too-distant future probably will ask state government to take a close look at its bureaucratic self.

A pair of proposals caught the attention of more than a few lawmakers at the current session which is nearing adjournment. One came in late and the other failed to inspire enough members of the Senate Rules Committee to get it past that obstacle.

Early in the year Sen. Paul R. Matia, R-25 Westlake, offered a bill creating yet another state commission to evaluate the more than 180 boards and commissions that help run the government.

Matia said the purpose of the envisioned seven-member commission would be to eliminate agencies that were unnecessary to improve those remaining. Many have been added piecemeal over the years and, perhaps, no longer are needed, he said.

The Westlake lawmaker's bill moved promptly through the Senate Ways and Means Committee only to become stymied in the powerful Rules Committee, with little hope of getting out before adjoutnment.

In the House, Rep. Thomas P. Gilmartin, D-51 Youngstown, took another approach to the same basic problem. But, he didn't get his bill in until almost mid-May. His proposal called for the legislature to study and approve the rules and regulations under which the proliferating boards and commissions operate.

Gilmartin claims that at least some of the boards and commissions adopt rules and operate on their own without conducting hearings under the Administrative Procedures Act.

"There may not be a lot of them doing it, but some are," he said. "That's what we want to find out."

Gilmartin said quite a few of his colleagues expressed interest in the measure, but indicated it received a cool reception from some officials in the Gilligan administration— cool enough, apparently, to put his proposal to rest for this year.

The Youngstown Democrat said he plans to resume efforts to get his bill passed next year, if he is re-elected. Matia also is up for re-election this year.

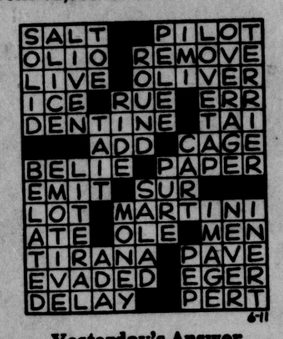

Lung cancer, the leading killer of all cancers, has increased by about 100 per cent for both men and women. Deaths are expected to rise to 75,000 in 1974 from 72,000 in 1973.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Black boyfriend shocks her parents

DEAR ABBY: Judy, our 22-year-old daughter, is a graduate student, living out of state. She's pretty and popular and always has been a leader and an honor student.

Judy had written us about a very fine black girl she had become friendly with at college. We live in a small midwestern town and never had anything to do with the few black families who live on the highway.

Judy phoned a few days ago and asked if she could bring a young man home for a visit. I said: "Certainly."

Then she said: "He's black."

I asked: "HOW black?"

She said: "About as black as black can get." Then she went on to tell me that he was the brother of her college friend, also a graduate student, and an outstanding person, etc.

I managed to control my emotions, and asked whether she was serious about him. She said: "Possibly, but I don't think I'm lucky enough to get him." (My stomach turned over!)

Abby, no one in her father's family or mine would ever understand if Judy were to marry a black man. I can see nothing but heartaches and problems ahead for her if she married him. I'm not a bigot, but we just aren't ready for something like this. I told her not to bring him home until I could prepare her father for the shock, so she said: "Unless you will treat him properly, I'd rather not subject him to any humiliation." That's where we left it.

Now what do I do, Abby?

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

DEAR SLEEPLESS: Unless you and your husband can treat your daughter's friend as though he were a Caucasian with a sun tan, tell her not to bring him home. But don't be surprised if Judy doesn't come either. She's old enough to choose her own friends. And by the way, what is your definition of a bigot?

DEAR ABBY: My career is my home and family, and I am proud of it. But for some strange reason, when a housewife is asked what she does, she very apologetically says: "I'm ONLY a housewife." This irritates me no end.

When I am asked what I do, I proudly say: "I am an oikologist." The word comes from the Greek words "oikos," which means house, and "ologist," which means "one who studies" or is "an expert in."

Please pass this on for other housewives. Perhaps they will feel more important if they use it, too.

OIKOLOGIST

DEAR OIK: I wouldn't recommend springing that on the average Joe without defining it. The "oikologist" might be mistaken for an expert on pigs.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you'll put this in your column for those nice people who are guilty, but are not aware of it.

Two montha ago I had a breast removed, also the lymph glands under my arm. (Cancer.)

I am doing fine, and I look fine, so I started to go to my club meetings and to church.

Just about every other person I meet is so happy to see me up and around again that they slap or grip my sore arm. I'm sure they don't realize how painful this is because they don't connect my operation with my arm.

They are dear people, and I wouldn't hurt them for the world, but, Abby, my arm is still swollen, has fever in it, and when it's gripped it hurts like mad. It's getting so I hate to go anywhere because I'm afraid of this painful greeting I'm sure to get.

Maybe some of those nice but slap-happy people will read this and take note.

ACHING ARM

DEAR ACHING: Consider it done.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, June 11, the 162nd day of 1974. There are 203 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1942, it was disclosed that the United States and the Soviet Union had made a lend-lease agreement to aid the Soviet war effort in World War II.

On this date—

In 1727, King George I of England died.

In 1859, a prospector laid claim to a silver deposit in Six Mile Canyon in Nevada. The claim turned out to be the Comstock Lode, which yielded ore worth more than $300 million.

In 1940, Princess Juliana of The Netherlands arrived in Canada as an exile during World War II.

In 1963, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace stepped aside to permit blacks to register at the University of Alabama in Montgomery as the federalized National Guard stood by.

In 1967, Egypt and Syria settled into a cease-fire with Israel after the six-day war.

In 1970, the United States completed a pullout from Wheelus Air Force Base in Libya, the last major American military facility in North Africa.

Ten years ago: New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Republican nomination of Barry Goldwater for President would spell disaster for the GOP and for the country.

Five years ago: Soviet and Chinese troops clashed on the border of China's Sinkiang Province.

One year ago: Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said the Senate Watergate hearings were destroying the chances of justice and truth being achieved.

Y-Gradale installs new officers

Y-Gradale Sorority met recently in the home of Mrs. Don Kirk when prospective members were entertained at a Tea. The main items of business for the evening was the installation of new officers for 1974-75.

Mrs. Ralph Child, a Y-Gradale adviser, conducted the impressive candlelight service for Mrs. Dick Anthony, president; Mrs. Kirk, vice president; Mrs. Carl Wilt II, secretary; and Mrs. Robert Stanforth, treasurer.

Visiting and games were enjoyed following the ceremony, and plans were completed for the picnic to be held June 17 at the cottage of Mrs. John Rhoads at Cedarhurst. Special guest for the picnic will be sorority pledges.

Prospective members were Mrs. Jeffrey Evans, Mrs. Frank Grooms, Mrs. Gene Hatfield and Miss Bonnie Shoemaker. Members present were Mrs. Ned Abbott, Mrs. Anthony, Mrs Phil Douglass, Mrs. Ed Fisher, Mrs. Bill Kearney, Mrs Don Kirk, Mrs. Jim Kirk, Mrs. Allen Mossbarger, Mrs. John Noble, Mrs. Loren Noble, Mrs. Jack Plymire, Mrs. Robert Simpson, Mrs. Stanforth, Mrs. Bill Stoughton, Mrs. Joe Smith and Mrs. Carl Wilt II.

Miss Knost feted at shower

Miss Rebecca Knost, bride-elect of Richard C. Williams of Wilmington, was guest of honor at a bridal shower held in the home of Mrs. Charles W. Link, 223 Wagner Way.

A game prize was won by Mrs. James Bonham, the bride-elect's sister.

Guests were the bride's mother, Mrs. Michael Opacic, the prospective groom's mother, Mrs. John K. Williams of Wilmington, Mrs. Bonham, Mrs. Sally Petitt, Mrs. Larry Edwards, Mrs. Frank Casey, the bride-elect's sisters, Mrs. John Williams, Mrs. Randall Quiqley, Mrs. William Walker, Mrs. Robert Williams, Mrs. Joe Boylan, Mrs. Charles Humprey, Mrs. Frank Terrell, Mrs. Fulton Terry, Mrs. Mildred Hewitt, Mrs. Arthur Tyree, Mrs. Dorothy Knisley, Mrs. Ben McQuiniff, Mrs. Edna Osborne, Mrs. Horace Jacobs, Mrs. Jay Morris, Mrs. Lucille Braden, Mrs. Brian Mickle, Miss Cindy Pine, Mrs. Charles Forsythe, Mrs. Chester Howell and Miss Monica Jaeckels.

ACCEPTS POSITION—Miss Terry Lynn Dumford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Dumford, 635 Warren Ave., has accepted a position as staff nurse at Riverside Hospital, Columbus, and will assume her duties July 16. She graduated Friday from the Riverside Hospital School of Nursing. Attending commencement exercises besides her parents were her brother, Larry, and sisters, Tricia and Mrs. Mark (Lori) Sheridan.

Auxiliary votes to support scholarship fund

The Fayette Memorial Hospital Auxiliary met in the conference room at the hospital, when Mrs. Ralph Child conducted the meeting and welcomed two guests, along with the 24 members present.

A report on the gift shop and the TV sets was made, and Mrs. Roy (Jean) Coe Jr., director of the Practical School of Nursing at the hospital, thanked the Auxiliary for the new tile placed in the office of the school. She also asked their support with the scholarship fund, which the group voted to do. A committee was appointed to work with her concerning the fund.

New officers will be elected at the Sept. 2 meeting.

Miss Kuhlwein completes wedding plans

Miss Diane Kuhlwein, bride-elect of Thomas Joseph Pallmaccio, has completed plans for their open-church wedding which will take place at 1:30 p.m. June 22 in First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Gerald Wheat and Dr. David Francoeur officiating.

Miss Kuhlwein has asked her sister, Mrs. Doug Davis, to be matron of honor, and Mrs. Donald Bullis, Miss Belinda Ramey, Miss Jonelle Shoemaker and Miss Janelle Donahue the bridesmaids.

Serving as best man will be Richard DeMers. Seating the wedding guests will be Guy Naylor, Chris Essman, Donald Bullis and Joe Henry. The acolytes will be Gregory Kuhlwein, brother of the bride-elect and Patrick Palmaccio, brother of the prospective groom.

Mr. Garrell Leasure, organist, will present the wedding music.

PERSONALS

Miss Janice Chaney of Cincinnati, was a guest of her mother, Mrs. T. B. Chaney, 910 Leesburg Ave., this weekend. Additional guest on Sunday afternoon and evening were Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Brown of War, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. William Granger of Springfield.

MISS BARBARA A. AMONETTE

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. William Amonette of Sabina, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Ann, to Danny Ray Summers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Summers of Washington C.H.

Miss Amonette, a 1974 graduate of East Clinton High School, is employed by the O.W. Hunt Agency in Sabina.

Her fiance, a 1974 graduate of Miami Trace High School, is employed at the Willis Lumber Company in Washington C.H.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Class of 1959 set reunion for Aug. 3

The Class of 1959 of Washington High School has made final plans for the annual reunion and dinner. The steak dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. Aug. 3 in the American Legion Hall, with dancing at 9 p.m. A band from Columbus will provide music for the evening.

Reservations must be made by June 15 with Miss Mary Kay West, 222 W. Market St., or calls may be made to Mrs. Jack (Linda Dunnagan) Hatmacher 335-2939.

Alpha Delta Gamma guests

Alpha Delta Gamma members of Delta Kappa Gamma Society were breakfast guests of Beta Rho chapter at Pickaway Arms in Circleville on Saturday.

Additional invited chapters were from Beta Tau of Waverly, Alpha Nu of Lancaster, Alpha Gamma of Chillicothe, and Alpha Delta of Washington C.H.

State Alpha Delta president Mrs. Helen D. Stephenson was the speaker and the installatin officer for the 1974-76 officers of Circleville. She reported on the recent State Convention and urged all members to attend the International Convention in Spokane, Wash., in August.

Local members attending were Mrs. Frank Mayo, Mrs. William Mace, Mrs. Tranquilo DelPonte and Mrs. Karl Harper.

Plans are made for the June 17 luncheon-meeting of Alpha Delta State of Delta Kappa Gamma at the Elks Lodge in Wilmington at 11:30 a.m. A tour of Laurel Oaks Vocational School will follow at 1 p.m. All members are urged to meet at the Elks Lodge on that day.

Kensington Club remembers fathers

The Bloomingburg Kensington Club met in the home of Mrs. John Gibeaut with Mrs. Forest Baughn as the assisting hostess.

The poem, "Peonies" was read by Mrs. William Rockhold and reports were heard. A cheer card was sent to Mrs. W.P. Noble and the ladies read appropriate readings following roll call.

Mrs. Jean Brown read "Country Church," Mrs. Bloomer "The Church," Mrs. Joe Elliott "Kindness," Mrs. Forest Haines "Times Change," Mrs. Frank Slager "An Apology," Mrs. Don Thornton "Tomorrow is Not Promisied Us," Mrs. Gibeaut "Count the Changes and Things to Remember," Mrs. Lawrence Garinger "Show the Way," Mrs. Forest Baughn "Conditions Change," and Mrs. Rockhold "When Father Asks the Blessing."

In honor of Father's Day June 16, each told of a favorite incident concerning her father.

During the social hour refreshments were served to 11 members seated at the dining room table. A floral arrangement with individual corsages graced the table.

Twin Oaks Garden Club tours Roscoe Village

This year the Twin Oaks Garden Club met at Wayne Hall in Good Hope and motored to Roscoe Village near Coshocton, for the annual tour. This is a restored canal town of the former Ohio Erie Canal. The townspeople were filled with awe at the first sight of the canal boat 'Monticello' as it arrived in the village in 1830, it is said.

Once a busy port on the Ohio Erie Canal, Roscoe Village is now a living monument of the hardy pioneers. The group made their first stop at the Old Township Hall where they received a pleasant welcome and heard about the heritage of Roscoe Village, which is built on a steep hillside and the restored houses are the old houses along the canal banks. After the railroads came through, the canal was closed, as the railroad moved goods 10 mile per hour, and the boats at two mile per hour. The town remained nearly forgotten until work was begun in 1968.

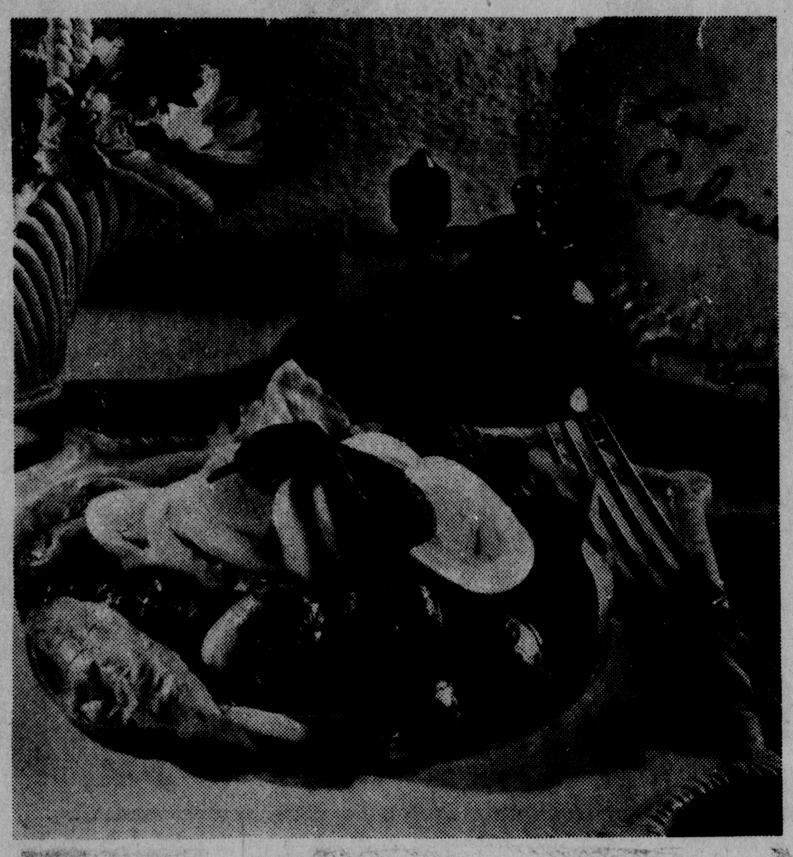

Members visited the Williams House which was filled with antiques. They also visited the book store. Hans Stockle's Cheese Cellar, General Store, Goose Nest Gift Shp, Captain Nye's Sweet Shop and craft shops. They also saw how one starts with wool from a sheep and ends by making a nice rug or carpet. They also enjoyed a ride on a horse-drawn trolley for a 20 minute round trip to the triple locks and back.

Dinner was served in the Warehouse cellar. This restored section has one long street, known as Whiteswomen St. En route home, the ladies stopped at Rosevill and Crooksville, the pottery center of the state, and through Lancaster, a scenic route.

GRADUATES—Kimberley K. Emrick (center), and her twin brothers, Jim (left) and Tim Emrick (right), were among the graduates this month at South Plantation High School in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Emrick, formerly of Washington C.H., and the grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Groves, 822 E. Paint St. and Mrs. Margaret Emrick, Washington Manor Court.

Think thin

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

DIETING needn't be dull, though it often seems to be. The trick is to vary the menu. Try new foods and different combinations to give yourself a change of taste.

A vegetable dieters can enjoy is the Brussels sprout. A member of the cabbage family, it is high in vitamins A and C and contributes fair amounts of iron. Its mellow flavor is most appealing.

Here's a salad that's a meal in itself, easy to make, too. It combines a convenient frozen vegetable with hard-cooked eggs and pimiento. The count in calories is only 118 per serving:

ON-A-DIET SALAD

2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen California Brussels sprouts, partially thawed
½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
6 tablespoons low-calorie Italian dressing
6 lettuce leaves
6 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 canned pimiento, cut into 6 strips

Prepare sprouts according to package directions, adding monosodium glutamate. Drain, if necessary. Mix with 4 tablespoons of the dressing. Chill several hours, stirring occasionally. Arrange approximately ½ cup marinated Brussels sprouts on each lettuce leaf with 1 egg and 1 pimiento strip. Sprinkle each serving with 1 teaspoon of remaining dressing.

Serves 6.

Approximately 118 calories per serving.

For a company dinner, nothing makes more sense than a one-dish entree. Even if dieting, you can enjoy the sprouts and chicken (don't eat the skin) in this skillet; but go easy on the long grain and wild rice, settling for a taste. Dieting needn't mean swearing off favorite foods. You can still enjoy them, but learn to enjoy them in much smaller portions.

CHICKEN AMERICANA

1 (3½ pound) broiler-fryer chicken, cut up
Paprika
¼ cup butter or margarine
Salt and pepper
1 package (6 ounces) long grain and wild rice mix
1 can (12 ounces) vegetable juice cocktail
½ cup pitted ripe olives, halved
2 canned pimientos, cut into thin strips
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen California Brussels sprouts

Sprinkle chicken with paprika and brown in 2 tablespoons of the butter in skillet. Cover and simmer abut 30 minutes. Remove chicken and sprinkle well on both sides with salt and pepper.

Discard fat in skillet. Brown white rice from mix in remaining 2 tablespoons butter in skillet.

Reserve ½ cup of vegetable juice. Add enough water to remaining juice to make 2¾ cups liquid. Stir into rice in skillet along with wild rice and herb sauce from mix. Return chicken to skillet; cover and simmer about 30 minutes or until rice and chicken are tender. Sprinkle olives and pimiento over chicken the last 10 minutes of cooking.

Cook sprouts according to package directions, using the ½ cup vegetable juice for half of liquid. Drain sprouts and spoon around chicken in skillet or on serving platter.

Serves 4 to 6.

Auxiliary installs committees

Eighteen members of the Eagles Auxiliary were present for the installation of officers recently conducted by Mrs. Jeanie Minshall, president.

Installed were the various committees: Visiting - Doris Beedy, Molly Combs, Connie Cornell, Kay Riley, Pam Kessler, Mary Jo Hunter, Debbie Hildreth and Kim McCoy;

Delinquent - Barbara McCoy, Carolyn Mitchener and Ruth Walters; Grievance - Mary Hatfield, Donna Wolfe, Carmelia East, Kathryn Joslin, Marie Hizer, Ruth Walters and Hazel Bonner.

Finance - Margaret Clickner, Betty Graves, Jean Rinehart; Publicity - Betty Elliott, Esther Hyer and Kathy Gardner.

Investigation - Minerva Dyson, Phyllis Lester and Ruby Anders; Auditor - Mable Briggs; Memorial - Marie Hizer, Margaret McCoy, Irma Beatty, Maude Robinson, Ruth Burden and Jean Harper.

Health - Ruby Anders, Molly Combs, Alice Reed, Sharon Hays, Ruby Ater, Mariellen Maddux, Linda Brown and Mary Kay Kimball.

Membership - Peg Jenkins, Mary Hatfield and Rosalie Cubbage. Kathryn Joslin and Theresa Combs were prize winners and the meeting was closed by Mrs. Joslin.

The next meeting is planned for June 24.

When you cook new potatoes in their skin, do so in about an inch of boiling salted water. Use about one-quarter teaspoon salt for each half-cup of water.

Jones' observe anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Jones, 1689 White Rd., observed their silver wedding anniversary at a carry-in dinner recently in their home. Hosts for the occasion were their family, Mr. and Mrs. Roger M. Garringer and son, Jason, Mr. and Mrs. Jon R. Creamer and daughter, Krista, and Barry Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones were married June 6, 1949, in the Xenia Church of Christ by the Rev. J. W. Jordan. Mr. Jones is a farmer.

Pink streamers adorned the gift and cake table. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the table with white candles on each side. A floral arrangement, a gift from their son, Barry, who resides in Florida, centered the dining room table.

Present for the meal were Mr. and Mrs. Jon Creamer and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Garringer and son, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Daughtrey, Mr. and Mrs. James Bone, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Cook and daughter, Heather, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Minshall, and Miss Imogene Daughtrey. Arriving later in the day for homemade ice cream and cake were Mr. and Mrs. Jean Creamer and Mrs. and Mrs. Eugene Creamer, who served as best man and maid of honor at the guest's of honor's wedding.

Also sending gifts were Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Woodmansee and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Breakall, Miss Cheryl McNew and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brown.

One investigator seeking the origin of tektites — small glassy blobs that many scientists believe originated on the moon — suggested that a comet head collided with the earth, exploding with the energy of a half-million hydrogen bombs, and scattering bits of melted earth materials.

The parties were married June 5, 1971 and have two children, according to the petition. The plaintiff asks that the defendant be ordered to share in the payment of the parties' debts and to contribute to their support.

Eldiva L. Jackson, of Good Hope, has filed for divorce from Frank Jackson Jr. on grounds of extreme cruelty. The parties were married Nov. 5, 1948 and have one minor child, according to the petition. The plaintiff is seeking alimony, custody and support.

Avon L. Pepper, of Jeffersonville, has filed for divorce from Ethel P. Pepper, Washington C. H., on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The parties were married Nov. 25, 1967 in Clintwood, Va., and have no children, according to the petition.

Columbus man sentenced on 3 charges

A Columbus man was heavily fined and handed a 30-day suspended jail sentence in Municipal Court Monday after he pleaded guilty to three charges filed by city police.

Vernon C. Rose, 49, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated, following too closely and having a stolen operator's license in his possession. In addition to the suspended sentence, Rose was fined $325 and incarcerated for the mandatory three days on the DWI charge.

The two traffic charges were filed after an accident in Washington C.H. During the investigation, city police found that the license was one of many that were stolen from the Bureau of Motor Vehicles warehouse in Aug. 1973.

A charge of assault filed against Richard A. Grondalski, 25, of 730 Broadway, was dismissed at the request of the plaintiff.

The earth's atmosphere weighs an estimated 5,809 trillion tons.

Head Start program opens here

The local Headstart program opened classes Monday with 92 students present, according to Roger Mickle, program director.

Mickle said a total of 115 students were registered for the program and vacancies still existed for five more. Classes are being held at Jeffersonville, Staunton, Blomingburg elementary schools in Fayette County and at Eastside and Rose Avenue elementary schools in the city. Seven teachers are in charge of the classes. They are assisted by 14 girls in the Neighborhood Youth Corps program and seven mothers also working as aides.

Mickle said the program is open to pre-school and kindergarden children on the basis of family income and number of persons in the family. The program is funded by the federal government.

An accompaying health program provides for a tuberculosis skin test and dental checkups for the students. Mickle said physical examinations were also provided to the new students in the program, all at no cost to the parents. Any dental work needed is also without charge to the parents and any additional medical attention needed, not covered by insurance, is also paid for by the program.

Static isometric exercises dangerous to some people

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Popular isometric exercises may slim many people, but they can bring death to those with high blood pressure, according to two Texas doctors.

The doctors emphasized that they were referring specifically to static exercise — tensing muscles against fixed objects — and not to dynamic exercise which includes jogging, swimming, bicycling, rowing and rhythmic calistenics.

The doctors, Jere H. Mitchell and Norman M. Kaplan of the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas, presented their findings on exercise and high blood pressure Friday during a symposium sponsored by the University of Texas and the University of Oklahoma.

Kaplan said high blood pressure leads to heart diseases that kill 3,000 persons a day in the United States, and the wrong kind of exercise may be responsible for a lot of those deaths.

"The kind of exercises you see advertised are the isometric type ... that make you look sexy and muscular. They may be good if you are a normal person, but can kill you if you have high blood pressure," Kaplan said.

"It takes very little actual pressure against a fixed object to increase the blood pressure," he said. "A person with high blood pressure with very little effort can have his pressure increased by 50 points and that is a dangerous thing."

Trial set Wednesday for prison escapees

A trial has been scheduled Wednesday for three state prison inmates who were involved in a bizarre escape attempt March 27 which resulted in the death of a colleague.

The trio, David Pilkington, 29, of Olmstead, Robert Laws, 27, of Columbus, and Donald Nickerson, 45, of Vandalia, will appear in Ross County Common Pleas Court, Chillicothe, on charges escape, aggravated burglary and three counts of kidnaping. They were charged in a five-count joint indictment returned by the Ross County grand jury.

Pilkington, Nickerson and Laws, all serving life sentences in the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility at Lucasville, escape from custody March 27 while being transported from Lucasville to Columbus for trials in Franklin County Common Pleas Court.

A fourth escapee, Doyle W. Manning, 35, of Indianapolis, Ind., was killed during an exchange of gunfire with a Washington C.H. police officer.

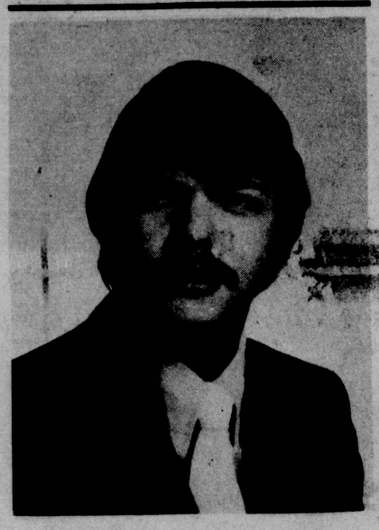

THE FOUR convicts attempted to strangle Milton E. Cramer, a 66-year-old former Franklin County Sheriff's deputy, with a makeshift wire noose and later poured an ether-like fluid on him through a wire fence separating them from the driver's seat.

With the elderly deputy as a hostage, they drove to a farm house on U.S. 35 about five miles west of Chillicothe near Ater's Lake.

There they held at gunpoint and handcuffed Cramer, Irene Birchwell, and a two-year-old boy, After ripping out the telephone, they stole a station wagon and sedan from the farm and headed toward Fayette County.

Nickerson and Pilkington were captured by Fayette County Sheriff's Sgt. William R. Crooks following a high-speed chase and eventual collision on the Old Chillicothe Road, just east of Washington C.H.

Laws, who was riding with Manning in one of the two stolen cars, was apprehended after a number of armed officers surrounded the Charles W. Ellis residence, 436 E. Market St.

GRADUATE — Michael Oswald, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Oswald, 805 Briar Ave., graduated Sunday from the University of Cincinnati where he majored in pharmacy. He received the 'student affairs committee award.' Having served his internship at Risch's Drug Store in Washington C. H., he has accepted a position with Risch's Drugs in Logan, where he will reside on Homer Ave. Attending the commencement exercises besides his parents were his sisters, Jeannie, Kathy, Barbara, and Mrs. Charles VanWassenhove and Mr. Vanwassenhove of Cincinnati.

$396,902 spent by Glenn campaign

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Democratic U.S. Senate nominee John Glenn's campaign organization reported Monday it spent $396,902 between Jan. 1 and May 31, the bulk of it on the former astronaut's primary election battle.

Citizens for John Glenn reported receipts for the same period of $357,493 in campaign expense statements filed with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

Monday's filing was for the period of April 28 through May 31, during which the organization listed receipts of $108,291 and expenditures of $128,619.

Summer youth job program to open on Monday

A limited number of applications are still being accepted for the Community Action Commission's summer youth program, according to Fred Rost, program director.

Rost said the program was funded for 95 youths, but only a few positions remained to be filled. The jobs will begin Monday and run to Aug. 30.

The program is funded by the state government and will provide jobs for 95 economically disadvantaged youths in local non-profit organizations or departments, including city and county government.

Each youth will be permitted to work only 20 hours per week at the federal minimum wage of $2 per hour. Applicants must be at least 15 years of age and must be returning to school next fall to qualify for the program, Rost said. Youths not returning to school cannot apply.

Counselor for the program will be Marty Jones, Bloomingburg, a recent graduate of Central State University.

Those areas in which the youths will be working are Head Start program, Fayette Memorial Hospital, city and county street and highway departments, Kiddie Kare Center, city, county and township cemeteries, Fairground maintenance, and several other areas.

Woman injured in city crash

A accident involving cars driven by Roy Allen Taylor, 34, of Bainbridge and Martha Lou Fairchild, 19, of 205 N. Fayette St., resulted in injury to the passenger in the Fairchild auto; Martha Burkhardt, 20, of 205 N. Fayette St.

Ms. Burkhardt was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital and treated for a lacerated forehead and contusions of the left elbow and right knee. She was released.

The mishap, which occurred at 2:04 p.m. Monday, took place in the Washington Square Shopping Center parking lot, near the First National Bank.

Moderate damage was reported to both autos, city police reported.

An accident which occurred at the intersection of Fourth and S. North streets at 5:52 p.m. Monday involved cars driven by Donna Jean Pollock, 27, of 324 E. Elm St., and Ronald D. Forsha, 19, of 621 S. North St.

Ms. Pollock was charged by city police with failure to yield right of way and moderate damage was done to both cars.

A car driven by Dena C. Neitz, 19, Staunton-Sugar Grove Rd., struck a brick retaining wall owned by Jess Gilmore at 12:54 p.m. Monday.

Ms. Neitz attempted to pass another auto while traveling west on Leesburg Avenue, near Colonial Court and had to hit the brakes when that auto also started to pass. She skidded off the roadway and into the wall.

Police reported slight damage and no injury.

FOLLOW THE CARS, OR FOLLOW THE SIGNS — Since the stream of cars flowing to the Fayette County Airport is not always continuous, the Fayette County Pilots Association decided to help motorists on Ohio 38-N follow the signs. Jack Sanders held the new signs while Eddie Pendergraft checked to make sure they were straight and level. The association recently put up both signs and painted the support.

Memorial services set Sunday at Camp Murdock

Memorial services in honor of the late Mrs. Carolyn Murdock, of Washington will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at Camp Murdock, near South Salem.

Mrs. Murdock was extremely active in the Camp Fire Girls program in Fayette County and Washington C. H. until her death last Aug. 19. She donated the land for the camp site in Ross County to the Camp Fire Girls.

A bronze plaque and large bird feeding station will be dedicated in Mrs. Murdock's memory during Sunday afternoon's ceremonies.

The Rev. Charles Kirsch, pastor of the Christ United Methodist Church in Kettering, will officiate at the memorial services.

Camp Fire Girls from the Paint Valley Council will be attending the service.

13 measures await action

Pay hike ordinance on Council's agenda

Thirteen pieces of legislation, four dealing with pay increases for city employes, will be considered by members of Washington C.H. City Council during its regular semi-monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

City Manager Dan Wolford said Council members will consider an emergency ordinance authorizing the payment of salary and wage increases due retroactively from Jan. 1, 1974 to city employes.

THE PAY increase measure was drafted by Council members following discussions with the city employes. The pay hike ordinance has been displeasing to members of the Washington C.H. Police Department.

Wolford said the city's legislators will also be considering an emergency ordinance establishing overtime pay policies and authorizing and prescribing a method for the payment of overtime.

Also, Council will be acting upon an emergency ordinance which is designed to adopt an integrated table of rates and salary rangers for city employes.

Ordinances dealing with the assignment of classifications and pay ranges for city employes and fixing the compensation of various positions and offices will also be taken care of by Council members.

Two ordinances to provide for the purchase of the first issue of clothing for uniformed members of the Washington C.H. police and fire departments also appears on the heavy City Council agenda. The ordinances provide for an annual clothing allowance for both departments after the first issue.

Council will act on an ordinance to accept the application for the annexation of a 0.94-acre tract in Union Township into Washington C.H.

An ordinance authorizing the employment of a special counsel to prepare and approve proceedings for the issuance of a proposed note for Washington C.H. in anticipation of the issuance of bonds to pay the city's portion of the cost of improving, in cooperation with the State of Ohio, Elm and Temple streets by widening and paving and by constructing curbs, gutter and storm sewers will also confront Council members.

AN ADDITIONAL ordinance will provide for the issuance of a note in anticipation of the issuance of bonds to pay the city's portion of the street improvement project.

Council will also consider an ordinance authorizing the employment of special counsel to prepare and approve proceedings for the issuance of a proposed note in anticipation of the issuance of bonds for the purpose of paying part of the costs of improving and expanding the city's sewage treatment plant.

An accompanying ordinance will provide for the issuance of a note to pay the city's portion of the improvements at the sewage treatment plant.

Chamber board slates session

A short work session for the 1974-75 Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors has been scheduled for 8 a.m. Wednesday by incoming president Bruce Galloway.

The session, according to Galloway, will deal primarily with a program of work area assignments for the coming year.

Old-Fashioned Bargain Days planning will highlight the Wednesday meeting of the Chamber's Downtown Business Association. Chairman Ray Downing said the four-day event will be held July 31-Aug. 3, in downtown Washington C.H. Bargain Days is generaly one of the year's largest promotions.

The association will also elect a 1974-75 chairman at Wednesday's session, to be held in the Chamber of Commerce office at 8:30 a.m.

Wheel, tire stolen as driver snoozes

A wheel and tire were stolen from a semi while the driver slept in the cab, according to the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

Virgil Petsche, of Prairie Du Chain, Wis., probably wishes he wasn't such a sound sleeper.

While he dozed in his semi trailer cab, parked at Stop 35, U.S. 35 and I-71, someone cut through a five-sixteenths inch chain and a double lock in order to steal his spare tire and wheel.

Sheriff's deputies stated the theft occurred sometime between Sunday night and Monday morning and are investigating.

Petsche is employed by Pre-Fab Transit Co., Farmer City, Ill.

A go-cart valued at $100 and belonging to James Mossbarger, 1350 N. North St., was taken from the side of his house where it was parked, sometime between 1 p.m. Saturday and 7 a.m. Monday, sheriff's deputies reported.

A car belonging to Jerry L. Quickle, Lynchburg, was stolen at 5:50 p.m. Monday, from the Mini Bar, Ohio 41-S.

Sheriff's deputies described the auto as a 1964 green Chevy, with fishing equipment in it and a checkbook owned by Donald Hall.

When Roma Bishop, Wilmington Road, returned from the restroom at Bert's Bar, 703 Delaware St., she discovered $52 taken from her pruse.

City police reported the theft took place sometime between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. Monday.

Funds allocated for vo-ed work

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education Monday approved allocation of $16.5 million in state and federal funds for 15 vocational education construction projects around Ohio.

The allocations completed state action on providing matching funds for all locally voted vocational education projects approved in the state to date.

In addition, the board approved $3.8 million in matching aid from previously appropriated funds for the proposed Columbus Metropolitan Career Center.

The latest allocations are contingent upon the release of state funds from the state lottery and federal vocational funds, and will not become available before next February.

Meanwhile, a move Monday to put in a bid with the General Assembly, before it adjourns for the summer, for state lottery proceeds for schools was tabled by the board.

The board acted on a motion by board President John Meckstroth of Cincinnati, who said members could not adequately request a particular amount of money without first studying the funds available.

Board member Anthony Russo of Cleveland had proposed the board ask the legislature to give schools $52 million from lottery proceeds.

Meckstroth said he objected only to the timing of the proposal, which he said Russo presented to members just prior to Monday's meeting.

The tabling had the effect of killing the proposal for now, since the legislature is expected to adjourn before the board's next monthly meeting.

The $52 million figure came from a proposal in the Ohio House by Rep. Frederick Young, R—38 Dayton, who suggested it be passed on to school districts through an across-the-board $22 hike in the per-pupil state subsidy for next year.

The proposal failed to gain approval as opponents pointed out that the constitutional amendment approved by voters last year provided that lottery revenues go into the general fund without being earmarked for a specific use.

In other action, the board:

—Scheduled a hearing Sept. 9 on the board's new standards for school bus purchases.

—Approved these contracts for preparing vocational education teachers: Bowling Green State University, $113,437; Cleveland State, $46,417; Kent State, $391,229; Miami, $25,354; Ohio State, $1,110,070; Ohio, $96,129; Akron, $12,578; Cincinnati, $181,228; Toledo, $88,613.

—Dissolved the present Darke County Joint Vocational District and assigned the member school districts to other vocational districts.

Cincy school aide quits

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Citing frustration over the issue of integration, a top school aide resigned Monday just hours before the Cincinnati Board of Education ordered administrative staff reductions by 1975.

The board informed Supt. Donald Waldrip he is to "substantially reduce" the ranks of administrative personnel.

Stanley A. Marsh, an assistant of Waldrip's, announced he was giving up his $25,000-a-year job because of mounting political pressures.

"The real issue was the big frustration of not being able to do what I was trying to do," he said. Marsh said failure to integrate the school district led to his action.

"I don't think that integration, or desegregation, should be left up to the courts," he said.

Court nixes Ohio man's argument

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Ohio man's argument that all defendants in criminal cases are entitled to free, court-appointed lawyers was rejected Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Freddie L. Wells, arrested in Berea, Ohio, on a charge of disturbing the peace, said the Supreme Court's decisions guaranteeing court-appointed counsel for indigents discriminated against other citizens, particularly the middle class.

He contended that the government and the courts cannot constitutionally set the poor apart as eligible for free counsel if all citizens are to be protected equally before the law.

Berea City Law Director H. E. Whitaker said appointing counsel for all defendants who seek it would render state and local government "insolvent within a very short time."

"Treating all Americans exactly alike is not synonymous with guaranteeing constitutional rights to be enjoyed by all in a uniform application of each," Whitaker argued.

The Supreme Court rejected the case without comment.

Stewart named assistant prosecutor in Springfield

SPRINGFIELD—Albert Stewart Jr., a Springfield attorney and 1965 graduate of Washington High School, has been named assistant city prosecutor for Springfield Municipal Court following approval by the Springfield City Commission for the employment of an additional full-time attorney to ease the heavy workload and increase efficiency of the court.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stewart, 718 Church S.t., he resides at 1132 E. John St., Springfield.

The city prosecutor's office, which officials say has been severely understaffed for some time, is currently a one-man operation. Prosecutor Bertram Hack, assisted by a secretary, handles an average of 75 cases per week.

"We fell the appointment of Mr. Stewart will provide additional service to the community and aid in the prosecution of the current case load." Hack said.

ALBERT STEWART JR.

STEWART, who received his law degree in 1972 from Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, is associated with Robert E. Kinsher, a Springfield attorney, in the practice of law.

After his graduation from high school here, he attended Wilberforce University, where he received a bachelor of science degree in 1969, and was awarded his law degree three years later at Case Western Reserve University, where he served as a representative to the student bar association.

Stewart was associated with the Dayton Model Cities Program and was a social worker there in 1968. He was assistance director for the Springfield Urban League in 1969 and since then was associated as a law clerk with the Cleveland Law Department and with the Cleveland law firm of Gaines, Rogers, Horton and Forbes.

He also served as a legal intern with the Cleveland Legal Aid Division. He later was a technical analysis writer and assistant to the resident attorney for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in Cleveland.

Stewart is married to the former Sarah Lewis, of Elkins, W. Va.

New technical college board eyes planning

HILLSBORO—The newly-created board of trustees of the General Technical College serving Adams, Brown, Clinton, Fayette and Highland counties has met and begun initial planning for the new district.

General aim of the district, with inherited facilities at Wilmington and Macon, will be to provide a comprehensive as well as low cost general studies, technical and continuing education program.

Facilities for the technical phase will be at the Laurel Oaks Vocational Center on the site of the former Clinton County Air Force Base near Wilmington and at the Tri-County Academic Center at Macon in Brown County.

DR. MAX LERNER, vice chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents, met with the board. Edwin P. Reffett. superintendent of the Southern Hills Joint Vocational School, was named temporary chairman of the board.

An organizational meeting will be held June 19. By-laws and election of officers will take place at the June 19 meeting. Hugh M. Rea and Richard P. Kimmett, both of Washington C.H., have been appointed by Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan to the board of trustees.

Trustees will govern the entire district and appoint an administrator, but no immediate action on the latter is forseen. State funding for the unit will not begin until July 1, 1975. The trustees must develop a detailed plan of operation to the board of regents for approval.

The University of Cincinnate will continue to operate the Tri-County Academic Center at Macon and the new board gradually will assume control.

Funds totaling $1.25 million have been set aside for a new 34,000 square foot facility in Brown County. The center is currently an evening operation at Eastern High School.

'White-collar crime' under fire

By DEAN LOKKEN
Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mention "white-collar crime" and you're apt to evoke images of mild-mannered bank clerks skimming a few hundred dollars or office workers swiping company supplies.

But state and federal officials have uncovered in Utah what they say is white-collar crime running into millions of dollars, and they're filing charges in an attempt to halt it.

At a time when 14 individuals and three companies were indicted, federal officials said the crackdown was just beginning.

"When all criminal cases are finally completed, the Internal Revenue Service expects to have presented cases to the Department of Justice and the U.S. attornies' offices for prosecution in excess of 60 individuals on various federal tax violations," said C. Evan Wride, acting district director of the IRS in Utah.

The IRS attack on white-collar crime in Utah is being made by a special team of investigators operating under the title of "Project Shell." The name is derived from so-called shell corporations — publicly held, dormant companies with no assets or liabilities.

Of 63,000 corporations listed by the secretary of state, roughly half are shells, an assistant secretary of state says. Promoters buy control of the dormant companies, sell their stock and make off with the money.

Wride says one group acquired a company whose stock was worthless in late 1968, pumped questionable assets into it and managed to sell the stock for $13 a share.

W. Jerry Ungricht, assistant Utah attorney general, was hired nearly three years ago to investigate securities problems.

He says the state attorney general's investigation into securities frauds "mushroomed to the point where we felt we needed federal assistance." The federal Law Enforcement Planning Agency this month approved nearly $100,000 for a "Economic Crime Unit" to help the state.

Ungricht admits the state has been lax until recent years in policing securities transactions. He said the Uniform Securities Act, adopted in the early 1960s, is mainstay of state prosecutors.

"There was practically no prosecution up until now. County attorneys just weren't equipped to deal with it. It's very complicated and they didn't have the staffs to turn loose for several months of investigation on a single case," he said.

Agents estimate stolen stocks in the area run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars and phony stocks into the millions of dollars.

Charles D. Brennan, agent-incharge of the Salt Lake City FBI office, said individuals are losing $5,000 to $50,000 in stock swindles.

He said fraudulent stock issued on Utah-based companies is turning up all over the country and in foreign countries.

Ohioan sought in brutal murder

MIAMI (AP)—Dade County sheriff's deputies said Monday they had issued a nationwide alert for an ex-convict who killed a lonely old man who took him in and tried to give him a fresh start in life.

Neighbors said George Kistler, 65, was a nice old man who had been lonely since his wife died of cancer in 1966.

They added it was typical of Kistler to take in the ex-convict, Thomas W. Reau, 20, of Shelby, Ohio.

Deputies said the neighbors began to get a bit uneasy when they saw the ex-convict leave in Kistler's car May 24 and Kistler wasn't seen around his apartment building after that.

But it wasn't until June 2 that deputies were called to Kistler's apartment by neighbors who reported a foul smell in the building.

The deputies said they found Kistler, 65, lying in his kitchen. He had been beaten to death.

It has been hot in Miami this spring, and deputies said the air conditioning system in the building had worked so hard that it took a long time for the body to decompose to the point where the neighbors noticed it.

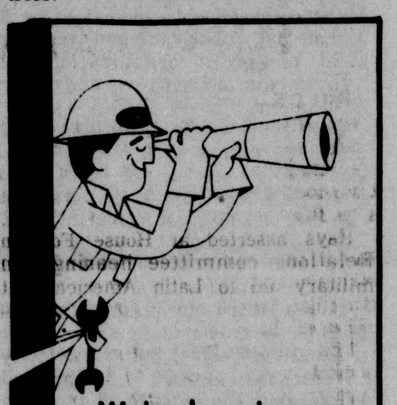

"We've started a nationwide search for Reau, and we are preparing the paperwork for the FBI to issue an unlawful flight warrant," a sheriff's department spokesman said Monday. "We really want to find this one."

Deputies said Reau was taken in by Kistler early in May.

"Mr. Kistler's car was found abandoned in Beaver Falls, Pa," the spokesman said. "We're concentrating our search in Ohio and other Midwestern areas where Reau worked as a laborer."

Deputies said Reau was released a few months ago from the Florida State Peniteniary, where he served 18 months for possession and sale of marijuana.

He also had a history of arrests on charges of grand larceny, burglary and resisting arrest with violence, officers said.

School charter rulings upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court Monday let stand an appellate court ruling upholding the Ohio State Board of Education's revocation of the charters of two school districts.

The board had revoked the charters of the Bloomfield-Mespo and Farmington local school districts, both in Trumbull County, for failure to comply with state regulations.

The revocations were ordered June 14, 1971, on the basis of recommendations of a referee who conducted hearings under the Ohio Administrative Procedure Act.

Money Does Matter . . .

By Robert E. Harper

PUT THEM TO WORK— FOR PAY, THAT IS . . .

Dr. George Crane, in one of his recent WORRY CLINIC newspaper columns, presented some advice designed to correct the modern tendency of some youth to be anti-establishment, dedicated to a "do it for me" philosophy.

Among other things he said:

"Avoid the un-American idea of giving children cash allowances.

"Instead, operated on the piecework plan whereby your parents pay for certain stipulated tasks around the house.

"Then they will no longer develop the typical playboy attitude that they are entitled to something for nothing.

"Instead they will realize that they can't blame dad and mother for their lack of funds, for it is then their own inertia and sloth that keeps their pocketbook empty.

"Always see to it that there are plenty of 'pay' chores available.

"Remember, it is not the youth who have worked for their own spending money who are the shiftless hippie generation!;;

Concerning the area Chamber of Commerce

Congratulations to out going president Fred Domenico for a job well done. Best wishes to incoming president Bruce Galloway for the upcoming year. Also, best wishes to the new incoming officers.

Congratulations to outstanding athlete Chuck Wilson for receiving the honored Christman award.

Congratulations to David Persinger upon being selected to appear in Who's Who American high school students, the largest award publication in the nation.

Just as it is important that parents set down good conduct and discipline guidelines for their growing children, it is also vital that as adults, we develop and maintain good money - management disciplines. Credit explosion causes worries

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the years from 1967 to 1973 there occurred what often is called an explosion of credit, amounting to $600 billion. And what are the projections for the next six years? Somewhere around $1.5 trillion.

This is the amount that government, business and households are expected to need if other projections are to be fulfilled, mainly those that call for a continued expansion of the economy and an upgrading of the quality of life.

Tremendous plans are on the agenda. Corporations hope to enlarge and make their plants more productive in order to reduce the shortages of goods. And they are being compelled by law to make their plants more ecologically acceptable and more wholesome for workers.

The federal government seems bent on providing more and more services and may be unable or unwilling to cut its increasing demands for financing. That means all other borrowers will have stiff competition for funds.

Individuals and householders have learned to rely on credit to finance the life styles they have been led to believe are rightfully theirs, even if they haven't the cold cash in hand.

All these plans would seem reason for great excitement among financiers, but the truth is they are producing apprehension instead. Nobody really knows how all the money is going to be raised.

Speaking at a Conference Board meeting a few days ago, Dimitri N. Balatsos, economist and vice president of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., listed some of the problem areas that worry some financial men.

—Corporate profits could continue under pressure for the entire period, lessening the appeal of stock investments. High interest rates and labor costs, and demands for greater social responsibility, might cut into earnings.

—The alternative to equity financing through the stock market is to borrow. But during this period some $25 billion of maturing bonds must be refinanced. That is, old bills must be paid before taking on new ones.

—Savings might fail to keep pace with economic activity. The demographic makeup of the population is charging, with the 25-45 year age group showing the biggest increase. These are spenders; they have a low propensity to save.

Based on current understanding of the situation, severe bottlenecks seem inevitable. Balatsos retains some optimism, although it seems to arise more from faith than from any evidence now available.

During the latter part of the Middle Ages, he notes, the mood was somber and people were preoccupied with death. They didn't know that the Renaissance was in the making.

Could it be that a financial renaissance is in the making? We better hope so.

Remark by Hays ignites Brazilians

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, has come under sustained fire from Brazilian newspapers and officials for questioning the worth of the Brazilian expeditionary force in World War II.

Hays asserted at House Foreign Relations committee hearings on military aid to Latin America that Brazilian troops never got within 500 miles of the front.

The congressman's statement was published here Friday, and since then angry retorts from veterans have made daily headlines.

Sen. Paulo Torres termed Hays' statement "ridiculous."

An army ministry spokesman said the congressman's "ridiculous remarks do not deserve a reply."

The National Council of Former Combatants of Brazil said it would make no formal protest to U.S. authorities.

"Happily, what that congressman said does not represent the thinking of the American people," said retired Gen. Plino Pitaluga, president of the Council. "The U.S. secretary of defense knows our history, and that is what is important."

At the same House hearings, Defense Secretary James Schlesinger termed Brazil one of America's most faithful allies in the Italian campaign.

Roberto Botelho da Costa, a veteran who writes for the Sao Paulo newspaper Diario Popular, called Hays a "lightweight American congressman" and commented; "As that American understands it, the nearly 30,000 Brazilian men sent to the Italian theater of operations went there to be tourists, tourists around destruction and ashes. A beautiful tourism, without doubt, if it weren't for the 500 dead, the nearly 2,000 wounded and maimed, and so many dozen missing."

Rubens Leye de Andrade, who lost a leg with the expeditionary force, told the newspaper O Globo: "I feel like showing my mechanical leg to the American legislator. I guess it was necessary for me to lose my leg for a politician to say things like that today."

Planes in search of missing aircraft

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Planes of the Ohio Civil Air Patrol were searching today for a light aircraft that disappeared on a flight between Columbus and Islip, N.Y.

The CAP said the last known position of the plane was in the Zanesville area at 7 p.m. Friday.

Airports get improvement funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Airports serving Ohio's big cities are receiving a total of $700,000 for safety and security improvements.

The State Controlling Board authorized the expenditure Monday at the request of the Department of Transportation. Equal sums of $100,000 are earmarked for airports in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Youngstown, Toledo, and Akron-Canton.

Officials said the improvements will include fire-crash rescue equipment, navigational aids, television monitoring systems, security fencing, runway lighting, and others. The improvements are being financed with federal revenue sharing funds.

In other business, at its bimonthly meeting, the board approved requests totaling more than $3.7 million for construction of the new police training academy in London, Ohio.

It authorized the expenditure of $8.6 million for sewage treatment facilities in Circleville at the request of the Ohio Water Development Authority. A total of $63,950 was released for a survey of fire alarm systems at 16 institutions operated by the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

The board also released $12,700 for the construction of "barrier free" wheel chair ramps at the Statehouse and in the Ohio Departments Building on Front St. in downtown Columbus. That amount is part of $134,695 the legislature budgeted for similar improvements in various state buildings.

Two requests totaling more than $1.2 million were approved for the Department of Natural Resources.

These included $343,400 for the purchase of nearly 300 acres in Lucas County from the Toledo Trust Co. for the Maumee Bay State Park, and 591 acres from the same firm and other owners for $849,000 for the same park.

In other action, the board approved:

—$100,000 for the judiciary branch as the state's share of retired judges' salaries for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

—$392,958 for the adjutant general for construction of an Army maintenance shop on Tracy Road in Wood County. Federal cost of the project was listed at $902,694.

—$148,080 for the Youth Commission to enter into personal service contracts with 12 physicians serving eight institutions under the commission's jurisdiction.

—$311,802 for the Rehabilitation Services Commission to enter into agreements with 22 physicians for personal services during the fiscal year starting July 1.

—$25,000 for the Department of Natural Resources to purchase 11.6 acres of land in Summit County for the Cuyahoga Valley State Park.

—$20,540 for the Department of Natural Resources for marina facilities at Springfield Lake in Summit County.

—$50,316 for the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation for improvements at Tiffin State Hospital.

Daughter joins mother as partner in law firm

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Lucille Coughlin waited until she was a grandmother before returning to college to earn her law degree.

So did her daughter Nancy.

Lucille Coughlin was born in October.

So was daughter Nancy.

Lucille Coughlin was an only child.

So was daughter Nancy.

Lucille Coughlin taught a course in secretarial skills before she became a lawyer.

So did daughter Nancy.

Lucille Coughlin married a lawyer.

So did daughter Nancy.

Now there's one more item in the parallel lives of Mrs. Coughlin, 73, and daughter Nancy Appleton, 46. Mrs. Appleton last month became a partner in her mother's law firm.

It was in 1952 that Mrs. Coughlin entered the University of Miami at age 51 to earn a law degree so she could be a partner in the firm that belonged to her husband, John. She had been his legal secretary for many years.

She was graduated cum laude from the law school. When he died seven years ago, she took over the firm.

Nancy followed in mother's footsteps 18 years later. She entered the same law school, completing the three-year course in two years and three months.

Mrs. Coughlin is proud that she still has all the clients her husband had at his death.

"One man left," she says. "He wasn't too sure about having a woman for a lawyer. But three years later he came and asked if I'd take him back."

The mother-daughter law firm specializes in civil and corporate law.

Less gasoline for Ohioans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio is one of six states getting less gasoline in June than in May, on the basis of average daily supplies, the Federal Energy Office said Monday.

The FEO said it allocated Ohio 14.17 million gallons of gasoline per day this month, a decline of 7.6 per cent from May. The allocation amounts to 94.9 per cent of supplies in June, 1972.

The other states with smaller average daily supplies are Hawaii, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York.

For Ohio, the daily supply for June puts it just above the national average of 94.8 per cent of 1972 levels. The nationwide gasoline supply for June is 4.3 per rent higher than for May.

New real estate mortgages total $1,470,168 in May

New real estate mortgages totaling $1,470,168.52 were recorded in Fayette County during May, a large decrease when compared with the previous month's figure of $2,747,149.14.

Mortgage releases totaled $1,162,682.26. During April mortgage releases were $1,316,725.62.

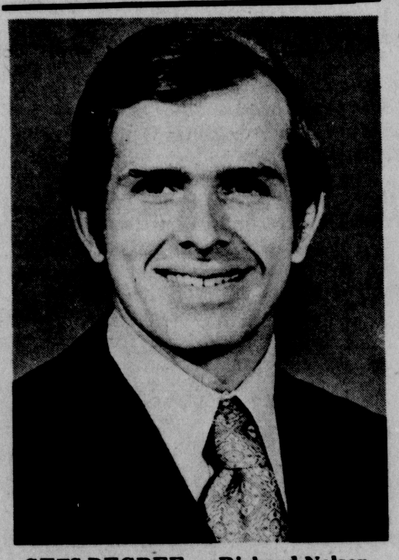

The new mortgage figure includes $918,568.52 on 67 lots and other platted properties and $551,600 on 610.32 acres of farm real estate in 20 transactions.

Released during the month were $406,816 in mortgages on 43 lots; $233,366.26 in liens on 628.38 acres of farm property in 13 transactions and a commercial mortgage totaling $522,500, according to the report prepared by Mrs. Lorie M. Armbrust, county recorder.

A TOTAL of 105 deeds were recorded in May, 30 of them changing title to 696.08 acres of farm real estate. There were seven certificates of transfer for lots and five for rural properties.

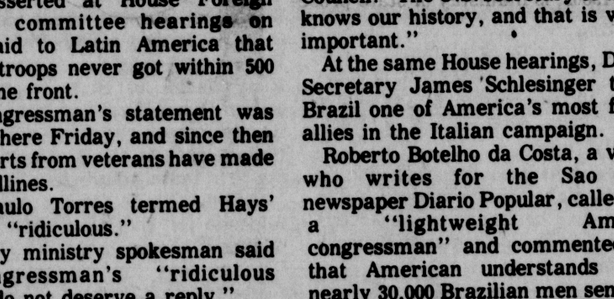

Other instruments recorded in May were:

One affidavit for transfer, one right of way and easement, two court orders for transfer, one re-recording of a deed, seven cemetery deeds, four open-end mortgages, one land contract, one re-recording of a mortgage, one supplemental mortgage indenture, one open-end mortgage release, four recorded mortgage releases, 12 recorded partial mortgage releases, four recorded mortgage assignments, one mortgage assignment, three certificates of mergers, one recorded lease release, one recorded lien, two creditor's lists, three leases, one lease modification, one lease assignment, one mechanic's lien, two power of attorney, 17 soldier's discharges, 119 financing statements and one notice of trustee in bankruptcy.

GETS DEGREE — Richard Nelson, son of Mrs. Ruth Nelson, Ohio 41-N, and the late Samuel F. Nelson, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Veterinary medicine from Ohio State University at the June 7 commencement exercises in St. John Arena, Columbus. Dr. Nelson graduated from Miami Trace High School in 1967 and entered OSU as an honor student. He is a member of the Alpha Psi Fraternity and the Student Chapter of American Veterinary Medical Association. He and his wife, the former Judy Mills, of Mount Vernon, plan to move to Delaware in the near future to establish practice there.

WILLIE THE HAMMER — Pittsburgh Pirates Willie Stargell uses a sledgehammer to warm-up in Chicago.

Expos handle Reds, 3-1

MONTREAL (AP) — For a moment it looked like the Cincinnati Reds were back up to their late-inning tricks. But there was a catch. Ken Singleton's.

The Montreal Expos' outfielder robbed the Reds' Joe Morgan of a two-run homer in the eighth inning Monday night to preserve a 3-1 triumph for pitcher Steve Renka.

Singleton snared Morgan's blast as it headed over the right field fence.

The twice-delayed game was finally called because of heavy showers with the Reds batting with one out in the ninth.

Renko, now 4-6, played a part with a bat too. He drilled a liner that got past a diving Cesar Geronimo for a triple, scoring a run. Earlier he scored after a walk, a sacrifice bunt by Ron Hunt, a single by Tim Foli and Willie Davis' line drive that Geronimo mishandled.

Geronimo, off to his best big league start, produced the Reds' lone run with a fifth inning homer. The hit kept his batting average above .300.

Jack Billingham, making his first start since May 31, drew the loss. He is now 6-4. The rangy righthander missed his last start due to a stiff shoulder.

The Expos struck for a pair of runs in the third inning, one a solo homer by catcher Barry Foote. Renko walked and came around to make it 2-0.

Bob Bailey opened the seventh with an opposite-field double and scored the third run on Renko's triple — the first of his career.

Johnny Bench and Tony Perez continued their torrid hitting streaks. The two, along with Dave Concepcion, had a pair of hits each.

The two clubs continue the series tonight with Cincinnati pitcher Roger Nelson, 3-4, facing Ohio native Dennis Blair, 1-1.

One of these days someone is really going to hit the roof at the Houston Astrodome. Mike Schmidt did Monday night ... in a matter of speaking.

The Philadelphia Phillies' infielder hit a ball in the first inning that appeared headed for home run territory in center field before it bounced off a speaker hanging from the roof of the chic glass house.

The ball fell back on the field and Schmidt got only a distinguished single out of it. Was he mad—even though the Phillies won the game, 12-0.

"If I'm one short of winning the National League home run title, I'll think back to this one that I didn't get," said Schmidt. "There's no doubt in my mind that it would have been a home run except for that speaker."

Houston centerfielder Cesar Cedeno thought so, too: "That ball might have hit the flag above the electronic scoreboard in centerfield if it hadn't hit the speaker."

As it was, the base hit was beneficial to the Philadelphia cause. It loaded the bases and set the stage for Bill Robinson's two-run double. A sacrifice fly by Mike Anderson staked Jim Lonborg to an early, three-run lead. It was all downhill after that.

Cardinals 4, Dodgers 2

Joe Torre led off the 11th inning with a home run into the left field pavilion at Dodger Stadium, helping St. Louis beat Los Angeles.

After Torre's blast off reliever Charlie Hough, 6-2, the Cardinals eventually added an insurance run on Jack Heidemann's single. Cardinal reliever Orlando Pena, 4-0, was the winner.

Padres 9, Pirates 8

Horace Clarke delivered a run-scoring single with two out in the ninth inning, capping a wild five-run rally that lifted San Diego over Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh built an 8-0 lead through 7½ innings, but starter Jim Rooker and a string of four relief pitchers could not stave off the Padres, who rallied for four runs in the bottom of the eighth and five in the ninth.

All-star balloting under way

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Wynn of the Los Angeles Dodgers may be leading the National League in home runs and tied for the lead in runs batted in, but in All-Star votes he's seventh among outfielders, according to figures released Monday by baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office.

Wynn, with 16 home runs and 51 RBI, has drawn 18,679 votes in the first week of fan balloting for the classic—nearly 64,000 fewer than the present leader, Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves.

Aaron, 40, who became the all-time home run king early in the season by hitting his 715th, got 82,121 votes to lead the league. Aaron, a member of every All-Star team since 1955, was followed by Reggie Smith of the St. Louis Cardinals with 57,756 and the Cardinals' Lou Brock with 45,605.

The next three players are Cincinnati's Pete Rose, Bobby Bonds of the San Francisco Giants, and Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell. After Wynn, Houston's Cesar Cedeno is eighth in the balloting, but in another surprise, the NL's leading hitter, Atlanta's Ralph Garr, is eighth.

The Reds have leaders at three other positions, according to this week's figures. Reds catcher Johnny Bench, with 64,116 votes, leads Ted Simmons of St. Louis by nearly 27,000; Joe Morgan tops second basemen with 44,501 ballots—almost 15,000 more than Dave Cash of the Philadelphia Phillies; and in the league's closest race, Dave Concepcion has 25,535 votes for shortstop to lead Philadelphia's Larry Bowa by 3,000.

Pittsburgh's Richie Hebner heads NL third basemen, drawing 23,980 votes to 19,893 for Atlanta's Derrell Evans, and first baseman Joe Torre of St. Louis, with 46,755 leads Cincinnati's Tony Perez by nearly 20,000. Steve Garvey of the Dodgers was another suprisingly weak draw, taking third behind Perez in the first baseman balloting despite sharing the RBI lead with teammate Wynn.

The first American League figures will be announced Friday. Balloting ends July 6 and the starting teams will be announced July 16. The pitchers for the NL team will be selected by New York Mets Manager Yogi Berra.

This year's game will be played at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium on Tuesday night, July 23.

U.S. Open jinx no bother for slammin' Sammy Snead

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — If the miserable, unshakable old character known as the "U. S. Open Jinx" is hanging around locker No. 538 at the Winged Foot Golf Club this week, Sam Snead is paying him no mind.

"It don't bother me none," the 62-year-old, sweet-swinging hillbilly from Hot Springs, Va., drawled. "As somebody once said, if it's not your life and not your wife, what difference does it make?"

Snead launches his 31st try for the U.S. Open crown, starting Thursday, and he insists he is not lying awake at night grieving over the half-dozen or so of the big championships that got away.

"If I've got a shot, it's a long one," Snead said. "All my life, it seems I get a sinking spell about this time every year— Open time, in June. I'm not putting good.

"People always say I get tight and press too hard in the Open and that's why I've never won. That's not so. Whether it's the Open, the Masters or any other tournament I give it a run.

"If it's my turn to win, I win. If it's somebody else's turn, I don't win. I think there's some unseen force that decides these things, and I believe it's been willed that I never win the Open, just as it looks like it's willed that Arnold Palmer will never win the PGA."

Snead, elevated to the list of Golf Immortals at the National Awards Dinner in New York Monday night, is one of the game's phenomenons. In a 41-year pro career, he has won 134 tournaments, including three Masters, three PGAs and the British Open—but never the U. S. Open.

"It looked like I was jinxed from the very first Open I played in 1937," he said. "I was in the club house with 283. Everybody was congratulating me. Then Ralph Guldahl had to sink 10-foot putts for bogeys on the 10th and 11th. On the 15th, he hit a ball which would have been almost unplayable and a spectator stopped it with his foot.

"He got a par when he would have been lucky to get a six. He won by two shots. Everything happened bad after that."

Similar mishaps confounded him in later years.

"You can't let it bug you," Sam said. "You gotta remember all you can do is play it free and easy. Some invisible force is calling the shots."

Swords may move

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—An official of the Buffalo Sabres confirmed a report Monday that the club's minor league club, the Cincinnati Swords, may be moved elsewhere.

"At the present moment, we are still in Cincinnati and still in the American Hockey League. But something might change that a little later," said Sabres' Assistant General Manager Freddie Hunt.

NHL speeds up hockey games

MONTREAL (AP) — The National Hockey League passed sweeping changes Monday to speed up its hockey games, then put the theory into practice at the intraleague draft.

It took just 25 minutes for the 16 teams to conduct the draft, but the Buffalo Sabres' mischievous General Manager Punch Imlach found time to disrupt the activity by drafting a player who had been taken earlier in the proceedings.

The California Seals opened the draft by selecting defenseman Jim Neilson from the New York Rangers. The Rangers, with the option of taking compensation in cash or player personnel from the Seals, selected big forward Walt McKechnie.

The deal had been reported coming last week. McKechnie would go to the Rangers, then be traded by New York to the Boston Bruins for center Derek Sanderson.

The surprise came when Imlach selected McKechnie. His claim was disallowed by NHL President Clarence Campbell.

"I was looking for the best hockey player available," said Imlach. "McKechnie was the best player available at the time."

Imlach was upset because since the Rangers had already lost Neilson, McKechnie would automatically be protected in the NHL's expansion draft Wednesday. In effect, the Rangers would then be protecting 19 players—one over the limit.

Otherwise, there wasn't much action. The New York Islanders selected Dave Fortier from the Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers, the Vancover Canucks took Jim Wiley from the Pittsburgh Penguins, the St. Louis Blues drafted Brian Ogilvie from the Chicago Black Hawks and the Detroit Red Wings drafted Ron Busniuk from the Buffalo Sabres.

All the other clubs passed their choices.

Changes were made to stiffen penalty times for various infractions, and in goalie equipment repairs and substitutions.

Linesmen will be instructed to drop the pucks for faceoffs even if one center—after prior warning—is not suitably prepared for the faceoff.

The league also said Boston Bruins defenseman Bobby Orr was the only unanimous selection to the NHL All-Star team. He was joined on the first team by Bruins center Phil Esposito, Boston right wing Ken Hodge, left wing Rick Martin of Buffalo, and defenseman Brad Park of the Rangers. Bernie Parent, the goaltender who led Philadelphia to the Stanley Cup, was the first team netminder.

Tennis league being formed

Community Education is planning a tennis league for adults. The league play will be involving doubles teams only and the teams will be divided into three leagues.

Members of doubles teams may play in more than one league. The league divisions will be men's, women's and mixed.

An organizational meeting for the tennis program will be held in the Washington Junior High School gymnasium at 7:30 Wednesday. If anyone cannot attend the meeting, they should contact Hank Shaffer, 335-0291.

Rangers halt Tigers

By The Associated Press

Billy Martin learned Monday night that yes, you can go home again.

Martin, a crowd pleaser in Detroit during his three years as manager of the Tigers, made his first appearance in Detroit as skipper of the Texas Rangers Monday night and walked away with a 6-3 victory.

He received an ovation from the Tiger Stadium crowd of 22,696 when he took the lineup card to home plate before the game, and also was cheered loudly when he argued a pickoff call in the third inning. But in the eighth, when he went out to the mound to make a pitching change, there were a few boos mixed in with the cheers.

Martin said he was very pleased by the reaction he received from the Tiger fans:

"I don't know how other managers would feel but when you come back to the town you managed in and they cheer you like that, it really made me feel good."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox beat the Oakland A's 4-1, the New York Yankees trimmed the California Angels 7-5 and the Minnesota Twins routed the Baltimore Orioles 9-1.

After leading the Tigers to the American League East pennant in 1972, the mercurial Martin was fired by Detroit general manager Jim Campbell last September. Shortly after he signed a five-year contract to manage the Rangers, a young team which he has spurred into second place in the AL West, just two games behind Oakland.

Red Sox 4, A's 1

Dwight Evans' three-run homer and Luis Tiant's standout pitching carried the Red Sox past the A's in a battle of division leaders.

Evans lofted a fastball from Vida Blue down the right field line in the fifth inning and it just curled inside the foul pole for the homer, capping the decisive four-run inning.

Yankees 7, Angels 5

Lou Piniella drove in the winning run with an eighth inning double and then scored an insurance tally in the Yankees' triumph over California.

Twins 9, Orioles 1

The Minnesota Twins erupted for five runs in the seventh inning and coasted to victory over the Orioles. Tony Oliva laced a two-run single and Bobby Darwin smacked a two-run triple in the inning.

Late inning rallies aid Good Hope, Willis wins

Good Hope and Willis each posted one-run victories in the Fayette Babe Ruth League, Monday evening. Good Hope came up with one run in the bottom of the sixth inning to defeat the Medics 8-7 and a three-run rally in the bottom of the seventh frame aided Willis to a 6-5 win over Sabina.

Brent Dunn's single scored the winning run for Good Hope. Dunn also added a double and C.J. Nicley picked up two his hits for the winners. Tubbs and Melvin tripled, while Ackley doubled for the losers.

Heiny's sacrifice bunt with the bases losed scored the winning run for Willis., Willis gained two runs on a triple by Rex Coe and one run on a double by Bob Wilson. English also had two doubles and went four for four at the plate for the winners. Smith homered for Sabina's only extra base hit.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Longshots Worth My Weight and Valley Hill pounded to the lead down the stretch and held on to highlight the featured race Monday at River Downs Race Track.

Worth My Weight, an 8-1 choice, won by a length to return $16.60, $7.00 and $6.20.

Perry, Wood to tangle

CHICAGO (AP)—The two winningest pitchers in the majors will meet during the two-game series between the Cleveland Indians and the Chicageo White Sox opening here tonight.

Gaylord Perry pitches for the Indians in the second game Wednesday night, facing Wilbur Wood of the White Sox.

Both have won 10 games, although Perry has lost only one, while Wood has been charged with six defeats.

Jim Perry opens the series tonight as the Indians meet the White Sox for the first time this season.

The White Sox, who are trying to keep their momentum going, send Stan Bahnsen to the mound.

The Sox have won four of their last six games and now have a 26-25 record in the American League West.

The Indians, who are at the .500 mark with 27 victories and 27 defeats in the American League East, hope the same thing doesn't happen that happened last year when they came into Chicago on Memorial Day weekend with two straight victories under their belts and started a downhill slide.

The Tribe won the opener, then lost two straight to Chicago and went on to lose 12 of 13 games.

The Indians have been limping along this month as a result of a series of injuries to Buddy Bell, John Ellis, John Lowenstein and Jack Brohamer.

Miller says era of Nicklaus over

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — The Jack Nicklaus era is over, says Johnny Miller.

That doesn't mean that the slender young blond is ready to claim pro golf's throne for his own—even though his credentials are all in order.

Not at all.

"I just think that the time is past when any one man will dominate the game," Miller said. "There are too many good players for that to happen now.

"I'm not knocking Jack," Miller emphasized. "Not at all. He's still my idol—sort of. He's probably the best player in the world. But I don't think you're going to see Jack winning 50 per cent of his starts any more.

"There are just too many good young players now," he said, and ticked off the list of the men who have become known as the game's Young Lions: "Hubert Green, Jerry Heard, John Mahaffey—he's a great player, Mahaffey is, and I guess Hubie (Green) has been the outstanding player on the tour in the last two months— Ben Crenshaw, Tom Watson, Forrest Fezler, Lanny Wadkins, even though Lanny has had his troubles this year, he's a really good player. He's a real competitor. He wants to beat your brains out for 10 cents."

Miller added: "And there's (Tom) Weiskopf, too. In just the last year he's become a great player.

"I disagree with Tom, though. He said he thinks the golf courses are being set up too easy and that's why we're getting all these real low scores....

"I think we're getting all these real low scores because there are just so many good players out here now. Boy, you make one mistake and a whole bunch of guys just go flying right by you, just whoosh. It happens all the time...."

Miller and Green, of course, have been the dominant figures on the tour this year. Miller has won five tournaments and $203,000. Green has won three events and $156,000. They rank one-two in both categories going into the U.S. Open championshap, the most prestigious of all the world's titles.

Nicklaus, winner of but one title this season but still the game's most feared competitor, said of the emergence of the game's young players: "I'm glad to see it. I was glad to see Tom (Weiskopf) come along like he did last year. "I was glad when Lee (Trevino) came along. I'm glad to see Johnny and Lanny and Hubert and the other young players developing.

Jeff teams win two games

Two Jeffersonville teams came out on the winning end in Monday's Jeffersonville Babe Ruth League. Jeff Lions handed Sedalia a 8-3 defeat, while Jeff Merchants easily conquered Jamestown No. 1 by a score of 13-5.

Gilespie fired a two-hitter for the Lions. Both of the hits, one of which was a double, were by Cowan, Pitstick stopped the Lions on four hits, but 13 walks proved fatal.

The Merchants banged out 10 hits in support of Tyree's four-hitter. Tyree added a home run and a double, while Spears also doubled for the winners. Cornell homered for the losers.

Student surgeons learn to staple

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 50 per cent of the medical teaching institutions in the United States are now teaching the use of stapling as a surgical technique. According to United States Surgical Corp., which markets surgical staplers, UCLA, the Mayo Clinic, the University of Pittsburg, Mt. Sinai University and Einstein College are among the universities teaching the procedure.

In addition, the Navy is also teaching stapling in its surgical training program at Oakland Naval Hospital.

Homemaker looks for assistance

NEW YORK (AP) — Ensuring variety and nutrition in each meal is a difficult task, according to an in-depth study of homemakers conducted for Hoffmann-La Roche Inc.

"The food industry bears the responsiability for giving the homemaker the guidance she needs," said John Gage, Roche food-nutrition marketing manager. "And one of the best ways is easier-to-understand food labels with clearer nutritional information."

Report Colson told Nixon of payoffs

NEW YORK (AP) — Time magazine says ex-White House aide Charles W. Colson told Watergate investigators he warned President Nixon about the Watergate cover-up two months before Nixon says he found out about it.

Quoting "knowledgeable people close to Colson," the magazine said in its latest issue that Colson has told the investigators he talked of the cover-up with the President in January and February of 1973.

Nixon has said he learned on March 21, 1973, of attempts to cover up the break-in from former White House counsel John W. Dean III.

Colson pleaded guilty last week to obstruction of justice in connection with the burglary of the Los Angeles office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

According to Time, in January Colson "told the President: 'Something is going on here that is very wrong. There's got to be an investigation.' Colson quotes Nixon as replying, 'What do you think we ought to do?' Colson's answer: 'I'll see what I can find out.'"

Time said that by February Colson learned of payments to the original Watergate defendants that allegedly were approved by former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

"Colson promptly warned the President that these payoffs were taking place," Time said. "Nixon's alleged reply: 'What do you mean? Mitchell says he's innocent.'"

The magazine's account said Colson told H.R. Haldeman, then-White House chief of staff, that Mitchell must come forward and accept blame for the payoffs.

"Haldeman answered: 'If Mitchell goes, he's going to take you with him,'" said Time.

Time also said that Colson told investigators he discussed executive clemency with Nixon for convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt after Hunt's wife was killed in a Chicago plane crash in December 1972, but the magazine said it could not be learned if Colson contended Nixon approved the clemency.

Opening lead - queen of hearts.

There are 30-point tricks and there are 300-point tricks. To lose 30 points is of little consequence, but to lose 300 points is a matter of more serious concern.

This deal occurred in a team match. At the first table, South got to six spades doubled on the sequence shown.

West led a heart. Declarer ruffed and played the ace of spades, West showing out. The 4-0 trump break appeared to be no more than a temporary inconvenience, so South led a diamond to dummy, planning to take a trump finesse next. But East ruffed, returned a club to West, and then ruffed another diamond to beat the contract two tricks—500 points.

Six spades doubled was the contract at the second table also. Again West led a heart, which South ruffed, and again declarer played the ace of spades, West showing out.

But at this point declarer displayed unusual foresight. He recognized that an immediate diamond lead was not urgent and, instead, he played a club.

As a result, he saved 300 points. West won and led another heart, which declarer ruffed. A diamond lead to dummy permitted East to ruff, all right, but that was the end of the hand. South went down 200 points at this table, instead of 500 points.

Not many declarers would have led a club at trick three to protect against the possibility of East's being void of diamonds. But the fact is that South had nothing to lose by the play, and something to gain if it turned out that East had no diamonds. After all, 300 points are not to be sneezed at.

Drug Dependence

I am having a terrible problem with my wife. We are both 74-years-old. She is given all kinds of pills, but the one she keeps begging for is a drug called Talwin. Could she be addicted to this drug?

Mr. A. V., N.Y.

Dear Mr. V.:

When Talwin was first introduced as a pain killer, it was quickly recognized as being remarkably effective.

As frequently occurs, it takes a considerable amount of trial and use to learn all of the side effects of a new drug.

It has been found that this excellent drug can cause a dependence that closely resembles a form of addiction. It is for this very reason that Talwin and similar drugs are never prescribed for long periods of time without the complete control and supervision of the doctor.

I'm caught in a bind. Our doctor suggested that I feed my 5-year-old son apples for his constipation problem. When our regular doctor went on vacation his substitute doctor said, "Absolutely no apples," and gave me a diet instead. Please rush your answer.

Mrs. S.N.W., N.C.

Dear Mrs. W.:

I am rushing my answer only to emphasize the unnecessary urgency you feel about a relatively insignificant problem.

I wonder, really, if there has not been too much concentration on your son's bowel movements.

Children readily reflect a parent's anxiety on this subject. This alone could perpetuate the problem.

I believe that whether or not your boy eats apples is not nearly as important as your relaxing about the problem.

Are there any adverse medical effects from pipe smoking? I don't inhale.

Mr. M.S.K., Miss.

Dear Mr. K.:

The toxic effects of pipe tobacco seem to be less than cigarettes.

Even if we were to disregard these toxic symptoms, there still is an adverse effect on the lungs caused by the smoke itself.

Smoke is a pollutant and as such must affect the free and easy exchange of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the lungs.

Public health officials warn that all smoke from tobacco can, over a long period of time, be hazardous not only to the smoker but to those who are exposed to it.

Charles Evers backs Wallace for no. 2 spot

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Charles Evers, civil rights leader and mayor of Fayette, Miss., says he could support Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace for vice president.

Evers said his opinion of Wallace, once known for his segregationist stand, has changed in recent years "because the man is changing."

The brother of slain civil right leader Medger Evers said Sunday his support of a Democratic party ticket which included Wallace would hinge on the presidential nominee.

He said he could vote for him on a ticket with Sen. Edward Kennedy or Sen. Walter Mondale but had reservations "about a ticket with Wallace and someone like Sen. Henry Jackson."

If you're thinking seriously of the photographic hobby today you're thinking of the exciting world of systems photography. There is virtually no limit to the photographic effects you can achieve with the one basic camera body and the hundreds of interchangeable lenses and accessories that match it. You see, that's what "systems photography" is all about. And that's where the fun of the photo hobby comes in.

The "normal" lens which comes with your camera when you get it is usually 50 or 55 mm. It sees about what your eye sees. And that's just exactly what you want of a camera in many cases. But "systems photography" goes far beyond this kind of shooting. You can change your camera from a photographic microscope into a photographic telescope in a few seconds by unscrewing one lens or attachment and substituting another.

We feel that Honeywell has made the greatest strides in the "systems photography" field with the Pentax line of fine cameras and accessories. Take multi-coating, for example. No conventionally coated lens in the world can match the flare-taming and color-capturing ability of the Super-Multi-Coated Takumar. You see, it came about through the research on ways to cut reflection on the viewing windows in the Mercury, Gemini, Apollo and LEM spacecraft. We who use these Takumar lenses get the benefit of all this research. And our pix are much better because of it.

Let's turn from cameras to books. For those who are seriously interested in "systems photography" there is a book, THE PENTAX WAY, by Herbert Keppler, which is by far the best book on this kind of photography we have ever seen. It is for this area of photography what PHOTOGRAPHY IS. . . is to the entire field of picture making. Both these books should be in your photographic library.

Five committee chairmen named by health council

The Fayette County Health Planning Council met Monday to select committee chairmen and discuss the problems and progress of several of the committees.

The appointment of committee chairmen was announced by Council Chairman Richard E. Whiteside. They were Mrs. Phyllis Richards, community health services; John E. Rhoads, environmental health; James Dunn, health manpower; Robert L. Kunz, health feacilities, and Donald P. Woods finance.

Mrs. Richards stated that her group will be screening welfare recipients for health defects. Such screening can led to early recognition and treatment and is now required. All welfare recipients up to and including 21 years of age will be subject to the screening.

EFFORTS TO recruite medical manpower for this area are progressing well, according to Dunn. He said that committees in other communities are being contacted. Many ideas, including the use of paramedics and projects to entice doctors to the area, have been discussed.

Rhoads advised the council that sewage disposal and treatment is a major concern for the Environmental Health Committee. A program recently proposed for the Washington C.H. area has been approved by the Mid-Ohio Federation and the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, which was the first phrase in seeing the program implemented. Phase II of the program has been approved aand a grant of $675,000 for the preparatory plans for improvements at the Washington C.H. sewage treatment plant.

Al Dycles, Mid-Ohio Federation area representative for Fayette Conty explained to the members that a representative is available to each county to assist councils and committees concerning health and sewage problems.

Also discussed were the new Ohio Sanitary Code which goes inoto effect July 1, 1974, and request from Clarvin Subdivision in Paint Township for federal funding for a housing development. The Environment Health Committee was given authority to investigaate feasibility of a subsivision in this lication and make its recommendation.

The council voted to change the meeting date to the third Monday quarterly, meeting in March, June, September and December. A special meeting is planned in July for Dyckes to meet with officers and committee chairment to study implementation of the federation program

SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS—Ann Campbell, left, of Miami Trace, and Rhonda Cockerill and Bob Walters, of Washington Senior, were presented scholarship awards by Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club President George Gibbs Monday night. Also receiving a scholarship was John Bryant, of Miami Trace, but he was unable to attend. Financing of the scholarship fund is provided by the annual Kiwanis Teen Talent show.

Four scholarship awards given by Kiwanis members

Featured at the Washington Kiwanis Club meeting Monday night at the Lafayette Inn were the guest speaker, a Republican candidate for Ohio attorney general, and three area students who received Kiwanis Club scholarships. A fourth scholarship winner was unable to be present.

Scholarships totaling $600 were presented to Ann Capbell, a recent graduate of Miami Trace, Rhonda Cockerill and Bob Walters, who just graduated from Washington Senior High School, and John Bryant, Miami Trace, who was unable to attend.

All four students are planning to continue their education.

The speaker for the evening was George C. Smith, Franklin County prosecuting attorney and a candidate for the office of Ohio Attorney General.

Smith addressed the audience on "Consumer Fraud Protection." He noted that Franklin County is one of 15 counties which currently maintains a consumer fraud unit, the main purpose of which is to ferret out and prosecute those individuals who are engaged in swindling the public.

Smith said that fraud is common in such areas as home improvement, insurance, planned vacation trips, and animal sales.

Before closing, Smith added that it is possible for smaller counties such as Fayette to receive assistance from Franklin County's unit when there is evidence of consumer fraud in the area.

Dedication set Saturday at new Paint Creek Lake

BAINBRIDGE—The newest federally-constructed flood control and recreation project in Ohio, Paint Creek Lake, will be dedicated at a public ceremony Saturday.

James C. Krug, of Bainbridge, general chairman of the dedication committee, said 6th District Congressman William H. Harsha, will be principal speaker. Remarks also will be made by Brig. Gen. Wayne S. Nichols, the U.S. Army Crops of Engineers' Ohio River Division Engineer.

Festivities are scheduled to begin at 11:30 a.m., Krug said, with the formal program set for 2:30 p.m. and lasting about 45 minutes.

Entertainment is slated for both on and off the lake, and adequated parking and concession stands will be available, said Krug.

THE DEDICATION committee includes representatives from Bainbridge, Greenfield, Hillsboro, Chillicothe and the Rocky Fork Lake area.

Paint Creek Lake, located in Highland and Ross counties, is 39 miles above the mouth of Paint Creek and is accessible from U.S. 50 and Ohio 28.

The lake has 1,190 surface acres in the summer and two boat launching ramps. The Taylor Road campground, accessible by Rapid Forge Road and Taylor Road, will open on June 29.

The Paint Creek project, constructed by the U.S. Army Crop of Engineers, was authorized by Congress for flood control, reation, and fish and wildlife enhancement.

The earth and rock dam is 118 feet high, 800 feet long, and controls a drainage area of 573 square miles.

Here is a tentative schedule of some of the major dedication events: 11:30 a.m. — Morning balloon ascension. Balloonist Mark Litter. 11:30 a.m. — 12:30 p.m. — Greenfield McClain High School band Concert. Director, Mike Blevins. 1:30 p.m. — 2:30 p.m. — Paint Valley High School band concert. Director, H. George Harper.. 2 p.m. — 4 p.m. — Sailboat race by the Chillicothe Sailing Club. Commodore, Jack Hamilton. 2:30 p.m. — 3:30 p.m. — Dedication program. Master of ceremonies — J. Carlton Sitterle. Remarks — Brig. Gen. Wayne S. Nichols, Ohio River Division Engineer, Corps of Engineers. Speaker — Congressman William H. Harsha. 4 p.m. — Afternoon balloon ascension — Balloonist Mark Litter.

Other interesting attractions in this area are Seven Caves, Deer Acres, the Dental Museum, Seip Mound State Memorial and Rocky Fork Lake.

9 injured in outbreak at school

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)— Nine persons were reported injured Monday night in a disturbance at the Ohio Youth Commission's Indian River School, south of Massillon.

Stark County sheriff's deputies and Perry Township police were called out, along with Ohio highway patrolmen, to control the disturbance.

Acting School Supt. Gerald Novak said the patrol was expected to investigate a report that an employe pulled a knife on a group of boys, triggering the confrontation.

Novak said the allegation was made by inmates.

A highway patrol officer said about 60 youths from two dormitories refused to leave a central building area and return to the dormitories until officers arrived.

He said about 25 patrolmen were sent to help "get them to bed." The patrolmen remained on duty at the institution overnight.

Several inmates were reported injured by flying glass.

One employe at the youth facility, Robert Massey, was also injured.

All were treated and released at area hospitals.

Jeff Scouts capture awards at camporee

Boy Scouts in the Paint Creek Valley District met at Camp Pine over the weekend for their Spring Camporee. Troop No. 67 from Jeffersonville made an outstanding showing in the competitive events and for the eighth consecutive time won the District President's Ribbon for the best overall performance during the camporee.

The Flaming Arrow Patrol of Troop 67 swept first place ribbons in all competitive events, knot trying, fire building, edible plants and compass reading. The patrol is led by Dave Ritenour.

The Bear Patrol of the same troop took second ribbons in three of the events and a third place in the other. They are under the leadership of Larry Detty.

A CAMPSITE inspection was held Saturday afternoon, and the Jeffersonville troop achieved a 100 per cent score to again top the field. Troops from Hillsboro and Leesburg finished second and third respectively.

Webolos dens from Cub Scout Pack 229 in Washington C.H., Pack 37 in Hillsboro, Pak 255 in Leesburg, and Pack 143 in Mowrystown were special guests at the camporee. They stayed only Saturday night.

The Order of the Arrow, an honor society of Scouts, selected candidates for the order Saturday night. Twenty-two candidates were selected, including six from Jeffersonville Troop 67. They are Dave Ritenour, Steve Paisley, Mike Camstra, Doug Binegar, John Milstead and Jeff Robinson.

Scoutmaster Fred Doyle was also invited to join the order.

Initiation tests and activities are scheduled for June 21, 22 and 23 in Hillsboro.

Special awards were presented to two troops from the Paint Creek Valley District. The awards were presented by District Scout Executive John Young to Willard Winegar, scoutmaster of Troop No. 190 of Greenfield and to Doyle of the Jeffersonville Troop.

The awards recognize compliance with a strict outline of required scouting activities and accomplishments.

Scout Troop No. 112 of Washington C.H. did not participate in the camporee due to the extensive preparation necessary for their trip to Canada later this summer.

WSHS Honor Roll

The Washington Senior High School honor roll for the fourth nine-weeks grading period has been announced by Principal Fred A. Jones.

To earn honor roll recognition, a student must achieve an average of 3.00. A grade of D or F in any course used in computing the average disqualifies a student for honor roll consideration for that grading period. Physical education, music, band and art are excluded when computing averages.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA

Representative To Congress

6th District, Ohio

The second part of a two-step 11 per cent Social Security increase approved by Congress last year goes into effect this month, and beneficiaries will realize this additional amount in their July checks.

This boost is one of several Congress has approved recently to ensure that our senior citizens relying on these checks will be able to keep pace with the ever growing cost-of-living. In just the last five years, in fact, Congress has increased Social Security benefits by more than 60 per cent. In addition, future increases will be tied automatically to the cost-of-living jumps, and since we have yet to stop inflation, there are certain to be additional Social Security raises in the future.

ALTHOUGH this escalator clause provides a much needed measure of financial protection to recipients, it is also beginning to raise some serious questions about the future of the Social Security system. Specifically, where are we going to get the money to keep this program going without upping Social Security taxes to untenable rates? There is even some question as to whether raising taxes this way would actually help. Changes in the population indicate that more and more Americans are living beyond the age of 65 when they may qualify for benefits while the number of people in the work force paying into the system is declining as the country's birth rate stadily drops off.

A recent study released by the Social Security Administration indicates that because of this imbalance, the cost of Social Security would outstrip scheduled tax receipts by an average of almost three per cent for the next 75 years. More critical analysts of the Social Security system contend that the trust fund is already on the brink of bankruptcy. It now stands at $36.5 billion, an amount they say would only be sufficient to guarantee benefits for a little over ten and half months. They also point out that a fund of more than $600 billion would be needed to guarantee present Social Security promises. Furthermore, the current payroll set up necessitates that today's taxes do not go into a trust fund, they must go directly to pay today's benefits. That charts the whole Social Security system on a collision course with disaster unless some major revisions are introduced into the funding process.

The Social Security system could also stand some revisions in other areas as well. For years, I have been trying to eleiminate some of the offset provisions which cut benefits because the recipient receives some other type of pension or retirement income. This has particularly affected those on veterans pensions in recent years, and it should be corrected. In addition, the earnings limitation is unrealistically low, depriving many able and willing senior citizens of hard earned benefits simply because they want to continue being productive and useful members of the work force.

INEQUITIES also exist in the way payroll taxes are levied, hitting the poorest and least able to pay the most. It is also a fact that Social Security pays different benefits to people who have paid the same tax and, in some cases, no benefits to others who have paid thousands of dollars.

Social Security has been with us for over 40 years. Things have changed during that time and even the least gruesome statistics on its funding system provide convincing evidence that reforms are definitely needed. Although the Social Security Administration says predicted trust fund deficits will not affect the program's financing until 1980, it is not too early for Congress to begin investigating ways to correct this dangerous problem. Tax measures such as Social Security are generally incredibly complex and often highly controversial. They also take a considerable amount of time to formulate the most equitable and effective ones. Our Social Security program has served us well, but changes must be made to keep it going. Congress ought to start now before it will be too late.

Hearing date set for Perrill ditch

Other than routine items, the only matter of business heard by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday afternoon was the county engineer's profile of the necessary work and cost estimates on the Perrill ditch project.

The ammended profile estimates the project cost at $15,345. This amount would be assessed to some 37 property owners and other interested parties. (The division of costs would not be divided equally.)

The date for the final public hearing on the project has been set for 11 a.m. July 15.

Carnival slated

A neighborhood carnival will be held Saturday, June 15, at 722 Fairway Dr., with proceeds to go for research and treatment of Muscular Dystrophy.

Games, tests of skill, refreshments and book stalls will be set up.

Babysitting will be available for children up to four years of age.

Horse show set by B'burg Lions

BLOOMINGBURG — The Bloomingburg Lions Club will sponsor a horse show on Sunday, June 16 at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Trophies or cash prizes will be awarded in events such as barrel races, halter competition, horsemanship, performance, and showmanship.

The day's events will begin at 10 a.m., rain or shine.

Further information may be obtained by calling Jim Greene (437-7217), Dale Horney (437-7304), or Carl Wilt (335-1772).

Directory change deadline posted

GREENFIELD — The deadline for making changes of listings in the Greenfield-Leesburg telephone directory is Thursday, June 20, the General Telephone Co. of Ohio said today.

Tom O'Neil, Wilmington customer service manager, said customers should report any corrections in their phone listings or change of address planned before August to the company's business office no later than Thursday, June 20.

The manager said the 1974 directory is being compiled and will be delivered in August.

2 young Ohioans indicted for murder

LISBON, Ohio (AP)—The Columbiana County grand jury has indicted two young Ohio men on charges of aggravated murder in the shooting death of a western Pennsylvania man.

Indicted Monday were Stanley W. Strub and Donald R. Tucker, both of East Liverpool. Each is 19.
